Woman agent shoots suspect

by TOM VON MALDER

A young woman drug agent who had been thrown through a glass bookcase apparently saved the life of her undercover partner early Wednesday by shooting and seriously wounding the suspected leader of a major Northwest suburban drug ring.

The accused drug dealer, Larry Siebert, 42, and two others had panicked and attacked the two agents during a drug sale after a closed-circuit television security system showed a phalanx of undercover police running through the lobby of their Mount Prospect apartment building.

Siebert was admitted to the intensive-care unit at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights after the 1:30 a.m. shooting at 1101 Hunt Club Rd., Mount Prospect. He was in critical condition late Wednesday with a bullet lodged near the base of his spine, police said.

SIEBERT WAS SHOT in the thigh and groin by a Sheriff's policewoman, who is a member of the secret anti-drug Metropolitan Enforcement Group unit. Before the shooting, the woman agent had been thrown through a glass-shelved bookcase and Siebert was standing over the second undercover agent and threatening to shoot him in the head, police said.

Both agents were treated for cuts and then released, police said. The male agent also was thrown against a glass table during a scuffle for a gun, police said.

Siebert was charged with attempted murder and sale of cocaine. His son and the owner of the apartment, Dean Siebert, 20, also was arrested and was charged with attempted murder and possession and sale of cocaine.

Bond was set Wednesday at $75,000 each for the Sieberts. Dean was being held at the Mount Prospect police station. Both will appear Jan. 14 in the Niles branch of Circuit Court.

Police are still searching for Dean's wife, Carol, 20, who escaped from the apartment during the shooting, they said. Police said Wednesday they had been contacted by the woman's attorney but she had not surrendered. Drug charges are pending against her, police said.

THE TWO AGENTS were in the Sieberts' apartment to purchase two ounces of cocaine for almost $2,800, police said. The Wednesday "buy" reportedly was set about a week ago when undercover agents bought almost $700 worth of cocaine from Dean and Carol Siebert, police said.

Police said, Dean Siebert told the agents Wednesday that he had to call his supplier before making the sale. The agents then waited until the elder Siebert arrived. During the time at the apartment, Larry Siebert, however, noticed several other agents entering the building through the closed circuit television system with which the building is equipped as a security device.

"The Sieberts turned on the two agents," said John J. Hinchey, MEG director. "They hurled the female agent through a glass-shelved bookcase and onto the floor and tackled and disarmed the male agent."

"Larry Siebert stood over the male agent and threatened to shoot him in the head. The female agent was lying on the floor bleeding from the cuts she got from the glass and she shot him twice."

ABOUT AN HOUR after the arrests, Larry Siebert's youngest son, 16, entered the apartment building. Police said he was armed with a pellet gun and apparently was "going after" the MEG agents.

The son, whose first name was not released by police because of his age, was held on a curfew violation until he was released to his mother later Wednesday morning. Police said no charges were filed against the youth.

Police said they were able to spot the youth entering the building by watching the same television monitor on which Larry Siebert spotted the other agents earlier.

Police said the Sieberts were a major drug supplier for young adults in both Cook and DuPage counties. Undercover agents had worked on the case for at least six months prior to Wednesday's arrests, police said.

Tight '75 mortgage money may stymie building again

by JOHN MAES

The possibility of a poor mortgage market again next year could cause further delays in scheduled construction projects in Buffalo Grove, officials said.

Village Mgr. Daniel Larson said there are about 400 acres of undeveloped land in Buffalo Grove on which developers have been forced to hold back construction because they have been unable to obtain mortgaging for would-be occupants.

Economic conditions have made lending institutions increasingly hesitant to commit themselves to mortgages, Larson said.

Larson said that developments such as Village on the Lake, Oak Creek condominiums, Arrow Head West and the final building in Cambridge on the Lake have remained unstarted.

IN ADDITION, the uncertainty of next year's mortgage market makes it impossible to predict whether the work will proceed next spring, he said.

These projects would generate an estimated $100,000 in building permit fees and sewer and water system connection charges for the village.

Herschel Farr, executive vice president of the Home Builders Assn., Chicago, also said it would be difficult to forecast next year's mortgage outlook saying a major factor will be the future of hoped-for state legislation that would extend usury laws.

He said, however, "I project a good building season if we can reverse the doomday publicity that has influenced the public attitude in buying."

LARSON SAID the first three months of next year will be a "crucial" period in determining building activity because it is the time when developers try to arrange mortgaging and plan their building season.

Larson said village officials however will budget "for the worst" from building revenues when preparing next year's budget.

He said if permit revenues are low again next year, the village may not be able to "expand" in some program areas such as additional landscaping on the Dundee Road medians and around the village hall and may be unable to make some purchases of equipment.

He said village officials will be preparing next year's budget so building permit fees will be used for those projects he referred to as "not of a high critical nature."

A BAD BUILDING season last year was partly to blame for the village's current tight financial situation because building revenues were not coming in as expected. The three-month cement truckdrivers' strike was a contributor to the construction slowdown.

Larson said the village's financial ills were compounded earlier this year by late property-tax revenues in Cook and Lake counties, a prime source of funds for village operating expenses.

Low and late revenues caused some concern on the part of village officials that a second set of tax anticipation warrants would have to be sold in addition to the $140,000 worth sold on the 1973 tax levy to meet payroll and operating expenses.

Changes have been made in tax-collection procedures for both counties and Larson said the problem should be avoided next year.

THE CONCERN about additional tax warrants has been relieved because Larson said sufficient revenue is available to carry the village through to the beginning of the 1975 fiscal year beginning May 1.

He said, however, the village will continue a close monitoring of expenses until the financial situation improves.

Even if next year's building revenues are low, Larson said, Buffalo Grove should take in two new sources of sales and property tax revenues when the Grand Spaulding Dodge dealership and Plaza Verde Shopping Center open next year.

Grand Spaulding is expected to open early next year while Plaza Verde should be open sometime in May.

Shop center plans shown

by JOHN MAES

Plans were unveiled Wednesday night for a proposed shopping center including a major supermarket at the southeast corner of Buffalo Grove and Dundee roads.

The proposal features a Kohl's supermarket on 35,000 square feet of the four-acre site. A hardware store and pharmacy were mentioned as possibilities for a 7,000-square-foot adjacent area.

Neil King, real estate representative for property owner William Simpson, said plans are indefinite as to whether one store would occupy the smaller site or if it would be subdivided for smaller shops. The plans include parking for 275 cars.

KING SAID THE supermarket firm is hopeful of breaking ground by March. A November opening is planned.

The property, with the exception of one small parcel, was annexed to the village in 1965 and is zoned for business use. The

Accidents increase as snow moves in Early evening snows that moved through the Northwest suburban area Wednesday left highways slick and caused scores of minor traffic accidents at the end of rush hour. Police from the late shift were called in early in Mount Prospect to handle the added load. Des Plaines was having "at most more accidents than we can handle," said a police spokesman. Arlington Heights had 25 minor traffic mishaps in an hour, with police in Wheeling, Palatine and Schaumburg also reporting a surge in accidents. A Rolling Meadows police spokesman said, "We are not authorized to release that information," when asked about local traffic problems.

It pays to watch watts

Conserving energy has paid off for Mary Ellen and Tom Schuman. The Palatine couple, who belong to a Watt Watchers group, saved $42 on their December electric bill over their October bill. Nine of the other 10 families in the group also received lower bills for December. What's the Schumans' secret? Turning off lights, watching only one television set at a time and turning off the dishwasher after the wash cycle.

Mayor Meyer to run again

Mayor Roland J. Meyer of Rolling Meadows will head a slate of incumbents in another run for the city council. It appears that Meyer, seeking his third term, and his running mates will be unopposed in the April 15 election. Others on the ticket are aldermen John T. Rock, James A. Huddleston and Kenneth Rietzke and City Treasurer Robert B. Cole.

Traffic snarl to end soon?

Plans are being developed to relieve traffic congestion at the intersection of Mount Prospect, Rand and Central roads. Mount Prospect officials hope to alleviate traffic woes by moving the Mount Prospect-Central intersection further away from the Rand-Central intersection.

Vandalism, theft ring broken

Some 100 theft and vandalism cases in Arlington Heights and Palatine were reportedly cleared Wednesday with the arrest of four youths during a burglary in Arlington Heights. Charged with burglary were Jeffrey W. O'Connell, 17, of Elk Grove Village and Edmund K. Schultewitz, 17, of Palatine. Two juvenile companions were turned over to youth officers. Police said the four have been linked to 50 thefts of radios and tape players from cars and about 50 incidents of vandalism to cars in Arlington Heights since last summer. Palatine police said the youths were involved with similar incidents since summer.

MSD hearing tonight

Area residents tonight will be able to give their views on a proposed Metropolitan Sanitary District project that includes construction of a sewage treatment plant and connecting deep tunnel system. The sanitary district has scheduled a public hearing for 7:30 p.m. at the Mount Prospect Community Center, 600 S. See-Grun Ave. The sewage treatment plant is to be built at the southeast corner of Oakton Street and Elmhurst Road in Des Plaines, with most of the tunnels carrying sewage to the plant going under Mount Prospect.

Gayer's absence 'no problem'

Elk Grove Village Public Library board member John Gayer hasn't been to a board meeting for nearly two years. Gayer cited business responsibilities for his attendance record, and said he would quit if asked by other library directors. Board Pres. Robert Fleming, however, says it's unnecessary. "I don't see what the problem is," he said. "He (Gayer) gets the minutes every month."

'Roommate' robs him

Steve Brantley will think twice the next time someone comes up to him in an airport and suggests they wait for a flight together in a motel room. Brantley, 27, of Morton's Gap, Ky., told police he met a man at O'Hare Airport Wednesday morning who claimed to be in the Navy as is Brantley. The man suggested they wait for their flight in a motel room together. Brantley agreed and the two checked into a room at the Travelodge Motel, 3000 Mannheim Rd. Brantley took a nap and three hours later when he awoke his wallet containing $402 and his companion were both gone.

Facility for retarded meets opposition

by KAREN BLECHA

A proposed residential facility for mentally retarded adults from the Northwest suburbs met with objections Wednesday at a hearing before the McHenry County Zoning Board of Appeals.

More than 50 McHenry County residents and property owners appeared to object to the facility proposed for a $1.5 million, 86-acre site near Woodstock. The property, known as the St. Joseph Novitiate, is owned by the Congregation of the Resurrection, a religious order. Suburban Townships Assn. for the Retarded (STAR) wants to buy the novitiate to house mentally-retarded adults aged 18 and older from Elk Grove, Wheeling, Schaumburg and Palatine townships. A zoning variation must be obtained before the property can be used for the facility.

Charles Smith, zoning board of appeals chairman, postponed hearing the objections until 2 p.m. Jan. 15. Instead the board listened for three hours to testimony in favor of the facility.

WILLIAM M. FRANZ, attorney representing seven of the objectors, said he was not at the hearing "to protest, but here to find what's going on, to see if there is any basis for objection." He said his clients reside near the novitiate.

Martin Pratt, president of STAR, said he was not discouraged by the objections. "I think we're going to make it," he said.

The novitiate consists of 118 rooms, including 55 single bedrooms, 7 double bedrooms, dining rooms, classrooms, recreation rooms, a wooded area and a lake.

Eugene Schlickman, attorney representing STAR, said STAR and the Congregation of the Resurrection have reached an "oral agreement" on the purchase of the property.

STAR plans to apply to the Illinois Health Facilities Authority for the issuance of revenue bonds to finance the purchase of the novitiate.

CHARLES E. HAYES, authority board member, said the authority is "very interested in the project" but has made no commitments.

William J. McAllister, STAR board member, testified that the residential facility would house 100 severely mentally-retarded adults. He said residents would be "only the mentally retarded, not the mentally ill."

"I don't think there is any reason for concern for using the novitiate for retarded adults," he said. "Our residents are adults but they are really like children."

McAllister said STAR could not find a site suitable for the facility in its four-township area. He said STAR searched for a site for nearly a year.

He testified that the proposed facility would be similar to the Good Shepherd Manor in Mokena, a home for mentally retarded adult men. He said the manor is "well respected" in the state.

Comptroller: state cash level sinking too fast

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — State Comptroller George W. Lindberg said Wednesday if state spending continues at its present record level, state cash reserves will drop to a "dangerously low" level within 18 months.

Lindberg, in his monthly fiscal report, said as a result of veto overrides and now spending approved by lawmakers during the fall veto session, demands on the state's cash reserves could jump by $98 million through next June 30.

He said while that would leave the state with an estimated $340 million reserve at the end of the fiscal year, future expansion of those programs would cause the reserve to drop close to the $200 million danger mark.

"What I'm worried about is the spend-now-pay-later situation that will have an effect in the years to come," Lindberg said. "There is little doubt in my mind that if this state continues along its present path of high spending, our needed reserves will be dangerously low 18 months from now."

Lindberg said $11.1 million of the new spending approved by lawmakers could still be vetoed or reduced by the governor. That figure includes expanded tax relief for the elderly and pay hikes for legislators, judges and cabinet members.

Lindberg said a final look at last fiscal year's spending showed it was "the highest in Illinois history — a whopping $8.03 billion, or a $470 million jump over the preceding 12 months."

More auto workers face layoffs

Steel price rollback pushed

From Herald news services

The White House said Wednesday President Ford is pushing U.S. Steel Corp. to roll back its 8 per cent steel price increase, and hopes the steel industry in general will put a freeze on any price increases.

Press Secretary Ron Nessen said he did not know if Ford had made his views known personally to the big steel company. But the Council on Wage and Price Stability, which Ford directed on Tuesday to investigate the price hike, had.

"The wage and price stability council, reflecting the President's views, hopes U.S. Steel will lower its announced increases and that other steel companies will keep the public interest in mind and not raise their prices to the level of U.S. Steel," Nessen said.

He also said U.S. Steel had told the council it would respond in writing by Friday to the council's request made Tuesday for a justification in writing of the price hike.

In Detroit, meanwhile, General Motors Corp. announced deep production cuts for the first quarter of 1975 that will idle at least 91,000 workers indefinitely by the end of January — nearly one-fourth of the hourly work force at the world's largest automaker.

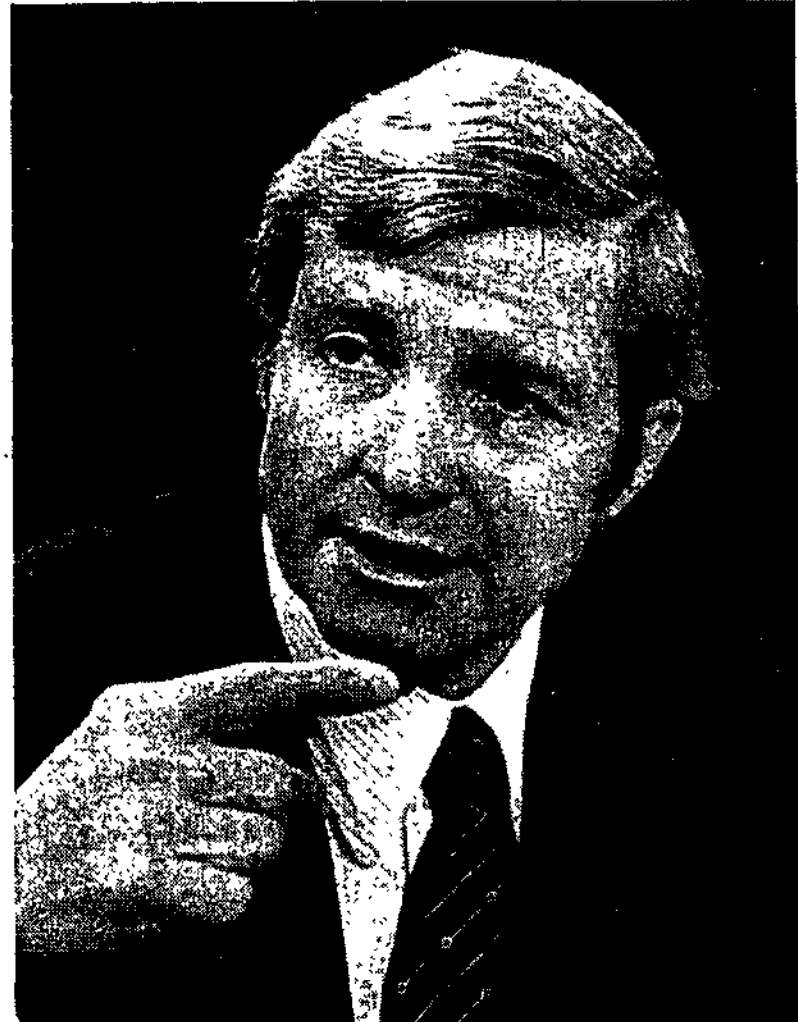

Chrysler Corp. at the same time confirmed that "many" of the white collar workers it idled between Thanksgiving and Jan. 6 have been informed they'll be off the job until at least February. A spokesman also said the number of hourly workers on open-ended layoffs will surely top the 30,000 the company now lists.

The "Big Three" auto companies have already scheduled long-term layoffs for 142,000 workers by the end of January. Analysts said more than 100,000 additional U.S. auto workers face temporary layoffs as output is slashed because of sharply slumping sales.

In other economic developments, the Commerce Department reported the second highest balance of payments deficit on record and prices on the New York Stock Exchange rose against the tide of adverse economic news for the second consecutive day. The Dow Jones industrial index rose 5.95 to 603.49, the first time it has been above 600 since Dec. 3.

The nation's balance of payments deficit rose to $3.6 billion in the third quarter of 1974, $1.1 billion more than the second quarter and the worst rise since early 1972 when it jumped $3.9 billion.

Representatives of the United Mine Workers and the coal companies reached tentative agreement Wednesday night on a contract for striking mine construction workers and sent it to union executives for consideration, federal mediators announced. A spokesman said the UMW bargaining council was meeting immediately to begin consideration of the tentative pact.

SEN. CHARLES PERCY, R-Ill., told a news conference Wednesday he has introduced 5 energy conservation bills — including a measure calling for a 10 cent-a-gallon federal gasoline tax aimed at cutting oil consumption in the United States. See story in section 4, page 7.

$5.5 billion job creation bill to Ford

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress Wednesday passed a $5.5 billion bill to create 330,000 jobs to absorb some of the six million persons unemployed in the recession.

The measure, going far beyond President Ford's $2.2 billion proposal for a limited number of short-term public service jobs, was sent to the White House, where Ford was expected to accept it.

In addition to creating jobs to be filled by state, county and local agencies, the bill would provide unemployment benefits for 12 million jobs not currently covered by state-federal unemployment compensation programs.

The emergency legislation was enacted in a hurry following the announcement on Dec. 6 that unemployment in November had leaped to 6.5 per cent of the 90 million-member civilian work force — its highest level in 13 years.

A total of 2,962,600 persons received unemployment insurance benefits in the week ended Nov. 30 — up 533,700 from the previous week and 1.4 million over a year ago. Not all workers are covered by unemployment insurance.

The unemployment rate for workers covered moved from 3.7 to 4.5 per cent over the week. A year earlier the rate was only 2.6 per cent and the number of persons totaled only about 1.6 million.

The largest increases were reported in California, 42,600; North Carolina, 41,300; Illinois, 38,600; New York, 30,700; Pennsylvania, 28,200; New Jersey, 27,000; Michigan, 23,300, and Wisconsin, 20,900.

Lose contact with 'volcano scouts'

Observatory officials lost contact Wednesday with a team of scientists scouting the summit of Hawaii's Mauna Loa volcano, one of two threatening to erupt on the island. The scientists were believed to be caught in a storm packing gale-force winds that slashed Mauna Loa and Kilauea. Officials said the two volcanoes might explode in a twin eruption that could send rivers of hot lava into populated areas.

Nader group: many X-rays not needed

A Ralph Nader research group said Wednesday too many people are unnecessarily exposed to diagnostic X-rays and patients should make sure they are needed before they expose themselves to possibly harmful radiation. Priscilla Laws, a physics professor said in a report released by the group that more than half of all diagnostic X-ray doses received by Americans are not needed.

Claims officials withholding oil

An economist told Congress Wednesday petroleum officials appear to be withholding oil and gas from the market in the expectation that prices will soon reach "exorbitant" levels. Dr. Paul Davidson, associate director of the Bureau of Economic Research at Rutgers University, urged adoption of government policies to counter such speculative withholdings. He testified at a Senate Budget Committee hearing into energy policy.

Ford vows to meet Nixon tape deadline

Under pressure from Congress Wednesday, President Ford has promised to act before the Friday midnight deadline on a bill giving the government control over Richard Nixon's Watergate tapes and documents. Meanwhile, at the Watergate cover-up trial, Kenneth Parkinson testified that in the fall of 1972 he relayed assurances to the Watergate burglars that "commitments" to them would be met without knowing what the pledges were or who made them. Parkinson is the last of five defendants to testify at the trial.

The City of New Orleans was hit Wednesday by its first major transit strike in 45 years. U. S. District Judge W. President Ford realigns staff WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford, moving to "put his house in order," announced a reorganization of his staff Tuesday described as an effort to strengthen his hand in decision-making and increase top officials' accessibility to the Oval Office.

Under the realignment, which has been evolving since shortly after he took office Aug. 9, Ford gave four of his "Cabinet-rank advisers" responsibility for helping him to deal with "the full range of policy issues."

They are presidential counselors Robert Hartman and John March, legal counsel Philip Buchen and presidential assistant Donald Rumsfeld.

Ford said those four and five other chief aides now would report directly to him. The others are economic policy coordinator William Seidman; Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, who also is Ford's special assistant for national security; press secretary Ron Nessen; and his budget director and assistant for domestic policy — two positions which have just been left vacant.

"I think the President has in fact put his house in order from an organizational standpoint," Rumsfeld told a news conference at the White House after the new operating plans were made public.

Also left open-ended was the role that will be played by Nelson A. Rockefeller when his vice presidential nomination gets final congressional approval, expected Thursday.

A statement said Ford designed the new organizational plan to achieve these five basic objectives:

- To give Cabinet officers, members of Congress and key members of his staff adequate access to the President.
- To "assure high ethical standards and behavior by his staff," an obvious reference to the Watergate and other scandals of the Nixon years.

- To limit White House staff functions to those which must be performed there and to rely on Cabinet officials or agency heads to carry out other functions.
- To achieve "a clearly defined" White House organization in which responsibilities are specifically assigned.
- To see that the White House is an effective working "part of the total government process and not unduly separated" from Congress or the press.

The President also announced that the White House staff was being trimmed by about 10 per cent.

Meanwhile, Claude S. Brinegar announced his resignation as secretary of transportation, the second Nixon cabinet holdover to resign under President Ford.

White House sources said Brinegar will be replaced by John Robson of Chicago, a transportation specialist and former aide to Donald Rumsfeld in the early 1960's. Brinegar, 48, served in the post for two years and during his tenure the 55 mile per hour federal speed limit was adopted in an effort to combat fuel shortages last winter.

Brinegar's resignation, effective Feb. 1, follows the announced resignation last week of Attorney General William B. Saxbe. Budget Director Roy Ash, another Nixon administration holdover, resigned Tuesday.

Kremlin rejects Jewish emigration deal with U.S. in exchange for trade benefits

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Kremlin said Wednesday it has rejected a deal to allow emigration of more Soviet Jews in exchange for trade benefits with the United States and accused Secretary of State Henry Kissinger of covering up the decision.

The official Tass news agency said Washington had violated 1972 summit agreements to lift trade barriers unconditionally.

"Tass is authorized to state that flatly rejected as unacceptable in leading circles in the Soviet Union are any attempts, from whomsoever they may come, to interfere in internal affairs that are entirely the concern of the Soviet state and no one else," the statement said.

Tass said the rejection applied to "the attempts to include in the trade bills provisions concerning, for instance, the departure of Soviet citizens for other countries."

Initial foreign reaction in Moscow to the Soviet statement was low-keyed. Some Western diplomats said the Soviet may be trying to project a hardline stand at home while still planning to adhere to the deal.

In Washington, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., called the Soviet attack on the foreign trade bill a face-saving gesture, and said Congress will continue trying to ease Moscow's emigration policies for Jews and other minorities.

Meanwhile, State Department spokesman Robert Anderson said the administration feels it still has assurances from the Soviets that anyone wishing to leave could do so, and those applying for permits to depart would not be harassed.

But officials acknowledged the United States has no agreement with Moscow on the specific number of Jews the Soviets will permit to emigrate, in return for trade concessions and credits.

State Department officials said the attack was obviously not a formal repudiation of the "understanding" Kissinger worked out with Soviet Leader Leonid I. Brezhnev and others on the subject.

The Soviet Union has for years restricted the emigration of intellectuals, many of whom happen to be Jewish, because it claimed they owed service to the state in exchange for their training.

Another portion of the Soviet attack dealt with a letter Russian Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko handed to Kissinger in Moscow last Oct. 28, in which he outlined the Soviet position that emigration was an internal matter and also told Kissinger there appeared to be fewer Jews wanting to leave Russia than heretofore anyway.

The Russian condemnation of attempts "to interfere in internal affairs" came as Congress neared completion of a trade bill giving Moscow a better trading status.

Congress slates adjournment after Rockefeller vote

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The 93rd Congress neared adjournment Wednesday after grinding out last-minute legislation. Only the vice presidential nomination of Nelson A. Rockefeller as the 41st vice president and the long-delayed trade bill remained on the docket.

Congressional leaders hope to adjourn Thursday evening after Rockefeller is approved by the House.

Immediately after the House vote, Rockefeller will go to a private reception for family and friends given by Ford, and within an hour will go to the Senate to be sworn in at the first televised ceremony from that chamber.

Despite a harsh denunciation of the trade bill by the Soviet Union, Senate and House negotiators worked through the day in an effort to put the finishing touches on the bill.

In other major actions:

- The House approved and sent to the President a bill permitting bigger trucks on interstate highways and ordering states to enforce the 55 m.p.h. speed limit. The truck weights would be increased from the present 73,280 pounds, to 80,000 pounds.

- The House on a 209 to 189 vote approved and sent to the White House a $2.7 billion foreign aid authorization bill which permits the administration to resume aid to Turkey until Feb. 5.

- The Senate approved by voice vote, an increase from $300 million annually to $1 billion authorization for land and water conservation programs.

- Congress passed, by voice vote, and sent to the White House a $3.7 billion military constructions appropriations bill which denies any funds to expand the Diego Garcia naval base in the Indian Ocean.

- The House passed and sent to the Senate a continuing resolution allowing foreign aid spending at levels in the authorization bill.

- The House approved and sent to the Senate changes in the rules of evidence code for federal court procedure, a culmination of 13 years' work. Not included were proposed changes in the traditional lawyer-client, doctor-patient, husband-wife relations.

- The House approved and sent to the Senate a $4.8 billion urgent supplemental money bill so the public service jobs program can begin.

Ford, Golda Meir confer...Harold Wilson next

- Continuing his round of high-level discussions with world leaders, President Ford Wednesday met at the White House with former Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir and announced he will confer with British Prime Minister Harold Wilson in Washington next month on wide-ranging energy and economic problems. . . . Meanwhile, the President is preparing to leave Sunday for a work and skiing sojourn at Vail, Colo., during the Christmas holidays.

- The Greek parliament Wednesday elected Michael Stasopoulos, 71, veteran jurist, author and staunch opponent of the former military junta, as provisional head of state.

- Mrs. Michelle Ahearn, 35, of San Jose, Calif., and her husband, Dennis, have been awarded more than $1 million damages in a suit over birth control pills which she said made her permanently blind. A Santa Clara County Superior Court jury awarded the woman $1,249,254 and her husband $105,868. The defendants — two drug companies and a pharmacy — said the decision would be appealed.

- Homesick: Charles V. Carrollo, 72, one of the top organized crime chiefs during the Tom Pendergast era, has been arrested in Kansas City. Carrollo was deported 20 years ago to Sicily, and apparently re-entered the U. S. illegally to see his family. Carrollo is free on $10,000 bond pending a deportation hearing next month.

- County and western singer Roy Clark and his wife, Barbara, will move this spring to Tulsa, Okla., where they have bought the four-level, 37-room mansion of oil tycoon W. W. Titus for an undisclosed amount. Among other conveniences, the house — built in the 1920s for $1.3 million — features 11 fireplaces and a built-in pipe organ.

- Oakland A's pitcher Vida Blue has been named in a paternity suit filed by Patricia Duncan, 20, an Alameda, Calif., college coed who said he has refused to support the baby born Oct. 17.

- Veteran Navy flier Lee Scherer, 55, will take over next month as director of the John F. Kennedy Space Center in Cape Canaveral, Fla. He will succeed Dr. Kurt Debus, who retired in October after holding the post for 14 years.

- Glenn Settle, general manager of the Tropico Gold Mine, has put the mine, its gold ore mill and 700 acres of land up for sale. Price: $2 million. It has not been a working mine since 1965 when operating costs went higher than the government-fixed gold price, but Settle said that with the rising price of gold the Tropico would probably be profitable. In recent years the mine became a tourist attraction, ran the world gold panning championships every year and its old west buildings have been the location for filming many TV and movie westerns. If Settle gets his $2 million, he plans to retire.

Watt Watchers save on electric bill

by DIANE MERNIGAS

Conserving energy has paid off for Mary Ellen and Tom Schuman of Palatine.

The Schumans are one of 11 families belonging to Watt Watchers, an energy conservation club formed in October in response to President Gerald Ford's nationwide address on inflation.

The family has saved $42 on its bimonthly electric bill compared to their October bill, a savings of 1,222 kilowatts. The family of four saved the energy by turning off lights, turning off the dishwasher after the wash cycle, keeping only one television instead of two, and not using the air conditioning, said Mrs. Schuman, 106 Belle Ave.

Ten of the 11 Winston Park subdivision households received electric bills in December that were down from those in October.

The Thomas Hannagan family, 152 Arlene Ln., weren't as thrifty. They will host a potluck dinner in January for the other Watt Watcher families because their December electric bill increased by $4 or 157 kilowatts over their October bill. The dinner is held every two months by the family using the most kilowatts.

BARB HANNAGAN said that the bill increased because she's been sewing and baking a lot for the holidays, "although the five-member family has been very conscious of their use of electricity during the last two months," she said.

But the Hannagan family is going to make a special effort to conserve energy in the future, and will begin by hosting the pot luck dinner in January by candlelight.

"Everyone coming to the dinner is going to bring a candle and we are going to eat by candlelight. Having to give a dinner like that is enough to inspire you to cut down the amount of electricity you use," Mrs. Hannagan said.

A Watt Watchers club of 12 families has been formed in Mount Prospect, another in Crawfordville, Ind., and one other group in the north portion of the Winston Park subdivision.

THE SECOND Palatine group of Watt Watchers is made up of five families who began conserving on energy in November. Betty Polli, 410 N. Winston Dr., the founder of the second group said that only one family "noticeably decreased the energy they were using," she said.

Mrs. Polli said that the Thomas Dunne family of 1428 Reynolds St. saved close to $30 on their December electric bill compared to the bill they received in October.

Mrs. Polli said that the family conserved most of their energy by turning off lights in rooms they weren't using.

'Contract' out on ducks— parks plan to banish them

by STIRLING MORITA

The Hoffman Estates Park District is putting out a contract on domestic ducks inhabiting park lakes. But it is not the kind put out in gangland, kiss-on-the-cheek style.

To eliminate future residents' squawks about fowl, the park board this week decided to have about 10 domestic ducks at three park lakes humanely transported for a contract fee not to exceed $200. Allen Binder, park district director, said he did not know who he would be able to contact to have the birds caught and banished from park lands.

There are 250 to 400 wild ducks at High Point, Highland and South Twin lakes at various times. It was argued that the domestic fowl, offspring of abandoned and leftover Easter presents could not fly away like wild birds and would remain to spur resident displeasure such as occurred last spring.

TO DISCOURAGE the wild birds from remaining at the lakes, the board turned down a request for feed for the ducks, saying to feed them would prompt the fowl to stay.

"Let's hope that is the last we hear about the ducks," Board Pres. George Seaver. "I'm tired of these dog-gone ducks."

Commissioners said they feared that with cold weather and ice forming over the lakes, the ducks might seek warmth and shelter at nearby residences.

If that happened, it might prompt residents to flock to board meetings to again complain about the domestic ducks fouling up backyards and chasing little children. Residents near South Twin Lake complained to the board about the fowl in April.

A special group of homeowners in the area was supposed to trap the ducks and transport them off park land. However, all the domestic birds were not taken away.

Candidates vow to clean up village

Wheeling WHIP names slate of 4

by JOE FRANZ
The Wheeling Improvement Party (WHIP) charged Wednesday night that village government has been unresponsive and pledged to improve the community's image if the WHIP slate is victorious in April's village elections.

WHIP members met to nominate candidates for the four village board seats that expire in April. The newly slated WHIP hopefuls said that village government in the past has been dominated by corruption, poor administration, poor planning nepotism and conflict of interest.

"Wheeling isn't a rotten town," said Charles Kerr, one of WHIP's candidates. "But unfortunately some people are responsible for giving the village that image."

"IF I AM ELECTED, I will try to change the village's image and make it responsive to the people, which it isn't now," Kerr said.

John Cole, also nominated, said if elected he will work to "overhaul the village administration. 'I sat back for many years and said 'let George do it,' he said, in obvious reference to Village Mgr. George Passolt. "But I have finally come to the conclusion that I don't like what George has been doing."

Cole cited a recent error by Passolt which cost the village $18,000 as an example. "I don't think this is an isolated incident," he said.

"I think we have to ask ourselves where do we want to go and how can we get there," Cole continued. "At one time the village had a plan. But I don't think it has one now."

Otis (Skip) Hedlund, an unsuccessful candidate for village president in 1973, has again been slated by WHIP.

"The things that have come out of the village recently have substantiated what we said in the last campaign," Hedlund said.

"I think we need to finish up where Jim Thompson left off," he said in reference to the indictments last January of six former and present Cook County and Wheeling officials.

"WHEELING HAS been dragged through the mud the last year and I think we need a group of people who are going to turn things around and restore pride in Wheeling," he said.

Gilbert Monoson, the fourth WHIP candidate, said the current village government has been "arrogant and insensitive" to the people. "I have been astounded by the nepotism which plagues the police, public works department and village hall itself," he said. "The conflicts of interest involving various commissioners and trustees have depressed me to no end at times and the inability to move in a forward manner held back by gross incompetence, waste and patronage is downright obscene," Monoson said.

The members of WHIP chose the board candidates from eight which had been recommended by the party's nominating committee. Those not slated Wednesday were John Krajewski, Harold Fagan, William Rogers and Walter Strzyz.

owners are in the process of negotiating a land swap for the other parcel.

The Buffalo Grove Park District owns a section of property next to the proposed development site. That land also was owned by Simpson before he sold it to the park district.

The plans were described at a workshop session of the Buffalo Grove Plan Commission. The commission will review the plans Jan. 15 before making a recommendation to the village board. The Appearance Control Commission also is reviewing the proposal.

IN AN OFFICIAL meeting before the workshop session, the commission approved a village proposal to transfer certain responsibilities for review of requests for zoning changes to the zoning board of appeals. Plan commissioners asked, however, that the village allow them to review and comment on the ordinance authorizing the change before it is enacted. The plan commission also is seeking to review zoning board of appeals findings on certain zoning requests.

The measure passed in a 3-2 vote. Comr. Stanley Haarr who cast one of the negative votes, said the power should remain in the hands of the plan commission.

The 'name game' gets confusing for residents

by KURT BAER
Leonard Parchem and his wife know where they live. It's just some government officials who are confused. And it's easy to understand why.

The quiet residential street in Arlington Heights where the Parchems live has two names — George (Charles) Street.

If this weren't confusing enough, there also are two sets of house numbers along the street. One group of addresses runs east and west along George Street, while another batch is numbered north and south along (Charles) Street.

WITH ALL THIS in mind, it is understandable that Mrs. Parchem asked the Arlington Heights Village Board, which was annexing her property, "What is the name of our street going to be, Charles or George?"

"I'm at 1637 N. George, but my neighbor directly across the street is at 711 Charles St.," she explained. "People look at me twice when they deliver merchandise to my neighbor across the street."

There is an explanation for all this, of sorts. When the Village of Arlington Heights began annexing property along George (Charles) Street just south of Rand Road, it encountered a problem. The village already had one George Street, a very proper little east-west street running a block south of Sigwalt Street.

"We have had problems with 'George Street' because there is another one and we always have to stress that we live on north George," says Mrs. Parchem.

But the village thinks George (Charles) Street should be east-west, not north or south, since it is approximately the same diagonal line as Rand Road and Northwest Highway.

Lottery road show here

26 very nervous qualifiers await Woodfield drawing

by BARRY SIGALE

At 9:30 this morning, Chick McCuen, former NBC television newsmen and master of ceremonies of the Illinois Lottery road show, will brief the 26 qualifiers in the Bonanza drawing at the Woodfield Shopping Center in Schaumburg.

He will tell them how the game is played, how they will place pieces of paper with their names on them into red balls and put the balls into a drum, how those balls will drop from the barrel untouched by human hands to protect the integrity of the game and how the ultimate $300,000 winner will know he's won.

He also will tell them that the entire procedure, beginning at 10:30, will be prolonged to eke out every last drop of drama, to put a bit of flash into the festivities. He will make them nervous, if they didn't arrive in that state, simply by asking them over and over again if they were apprehensive.

THE FINALISTS (none of whom live in the Northwest suburbs) will file into the mall just before drawing time and sit together in several rows of folding chairs, awaiting Linda Graham, mistress of ceremonies and a knockout blonde, to assist them on stage. Back on their chairs, the process of determining the eight major winners will begin.

Then, qualifiers and spectators alike, will be in suspense, equals for the moment, though the former group certainly has more at stake than the latter. More than likely, they are all viewing a Lottery drawing for the first time. Probably, it will be confusing, especially to the several thousand persons jammed into the multitiered center who may have trouble bearing everything that is said over the public address system.

The Weekly Lotto numbers are selected first. Ten 2-digit numbers are drawn from a drum and placed in a row numbered from 1 through 10. From another hopper containing the results of a horse race is drawn five balls. When opened, the position the horse finished is revealed. The two digit numbers corresponding to that finish are the ones used for the weekly numbers.

The three 3-digit numbers for the Bonanza and Millionaire games are chosen next, in much the same way. This time, three 2-digit numbers are chosen and the results of a different horse race determines the third number in each combination.

ALSO TODAY, the Lottery will make the first of five special drawings in the new bonus game, Trips to the Sun. A five-digit number will be drawn with winners having to match them with the five-digit number on the bottom of their special ticket, which went on sale last Tuesday. Winners receive the dollar amount shown in the box (this week's prize is $30 with the amount rising to $110, $160, $260 and $560) and become eligible for special trips.

Today's drawing is a warmup for more important business on Friday. At 5:30, the third state-made millionaire will be chosen and given the initial $50,000 installment of his prize. The state will send a $50,000 check to the winner every Dec. 20 until 1983. Runnerup prizes Friday include one of $100,000 and eight of $10,000. Each of the 142 qualifiers, including six Northwest suburbanites, already have won $1,500, compared to the $1,000 prizes already won by the Bonanza finalists.

For celebrity watchers, Friday's drawing is attractive. Gov. Daniel Walker said he will be on hand to greet the jackpot winner. In fact, the drawing was moved up a half hour to accommodate his schedule.

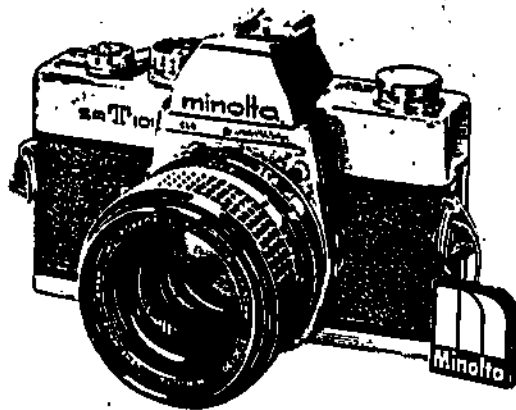

Assisting in the drawing will be Harry Caray, Chicago White Sox announcer; Maureen McGovern, singer and night club entertainer, and Robert O. Atcher, former professional country-western singing star who is now Schaumburg's village president.

Hopefully, the checks will be there, too. Due to weather conditions, the money that was to be given to the qualifiers in the Bonanza contest were left behind in Springfield.

U.S. cash to be denied to Chicago

A federal court Wednesday ordered the government to withhold revenue-sharing payments from Chicago, including its Jan. 5 allocation of $19.2 million, until the city complies with federal orders to end racial discrimination in the police department.

There was no immediate reaction from either Mayor Richard J. Daley or Police Supt. James Rochford to the decision by U.S. District Court Judge John Lewis Smith Jr., of the District of Columbia. Civil rights attorney Harold Himmelman, who argued the case against the city, said the order could have far-reaching effects and become an important tool in civil rights cases.

The judge's order was the first time any federal court had ordered revenue-sharing payments withheld from a municipality on grounds of racial discrimination. Chicago receives $78.7 million in such funds, $50 million of which is used by the police department.

Chicago was sued by the U.S. Justice Dept. in 1973 for racial prejudice with the police department. A federal court in Illinois ruled against the city in November, upholding the justice department's charges that the police force used different methods for determining efficiency ratings, background checks and testing of black and white candidates for the force.

Further hearings are scheduled in March to determine federal charges that the police department also discriminates in its promotion practices.

A spokesman for the Treasurer's Office of Revenue Sharing said the agency was cutting off the next scheduled payment to Chicago. "We will defer the payment until the conditions are met," he said.

Suit over state fair funds

The manager of the Illinois State Fair, Paul King, sued Comptroller George Lindberg in Springfield court Wednesday, trying to force Lindberg to pay about $80,000 worth of bills and salaries.

Lindberg has been withholding payment on the basis of a ruling by the attorney general that King cannot legally order payment of state funds because his appointment has not yet been submitted to the state Senate for confirmation.

A ruling is expected today on King's request for an injunction ordering Lindberg to resume payments.

Illinois briefs

McNeil's out, but in race

Chicago's mayoral election race took a curious twist Wednesday as E. Duke McNeil declared himself out of the Feb. 25 Democratic primary, but still a candidate. McNeil, former president of the Woodlawn Organization, joined with another candidate — State Sen. Richard Newhouse — in announcing they have formed a "political tandem."

Under the arrangement, McNeil will support Newhouse in the primary against Mayor Richard Daley, and if Newhouse is unsuccessful, he'll back McNeil as an independent in the general election April 1.

Gov. Walker may face suit

The man fired by Gov. Daniel Walker for alleged incompetence from his $27,000-a-year position as No. 2 man in the Illinois Dept. of Registration and Education Wednesday called the charges "pure character assassination" and said he might file suit to clear his name.

John B. Hayes told a press conference in Chicago that he refused to resign and was then fired by Walker from his post as superintendent of registration for "incompetency, neglect of duty and malfeasance in office."

Hayes said, "I unequivocally deny these derogatory allegations as pure character assassination. Furthermore, I have never knowingly issued any license to anyone who was not fully qualified nor have I assisted anyone in obtaining a licence improperly." Hayes said the real reason he was fired was because he would not lie or take the heat in connection with insurance tests taken by Mayor Daley's son, William. The tests were later doctored.

Prisoners get Yule leave

Illinois' controversial furlough program will allow as many as 400 prisoners in state correctional institutions to take three or four-day Christmas leaves this month, an official of the Dept. of Corrections said Wednesday.

The spokesman said a careful review is made as to who can be safely allowed to take such a leave and that the program, highly criticized in the past, is a success. "We consider our track record excellent," he said. "What we're trying to do is prepare these men for the day when they'll return to the outside world. You can't just turn them loose without any idea of what's going on out there," the spokesman said.

Dismissal of charges asked

The attorney for Pasquale C. Marzano and Luigi DiFonzo, two of the six men under indictment in the $4.3 million Purolator Security vault burglary, said Wednesday he would seek dismissal of federal charges against the men because the state is charging them with the same crime.

The attorney, Julius L. Echeles, made the statement at a hearing before Criminal Court Judge Joseph A. Power. The federal government lodged charges because some of the stolen money belonged to federally-insured banks and the state charges involved the theft of more than $1.7 million in receipts which Purolator had stored from Hawthorne Race Track.

'Crisis in confidence'

Former federal energy chief John G. Sawhill will head a list of business, consumer and academic leaders discussing a "crisis in confidence" in corporate America at Sangamon State University next month, university officials announced Wednesday.

"The American public thinks there is something wrong with their country," said Philip Kendall, university dean of public affairs. "Their confidence is low. There is a broad question of 'What is happening to America' that is in sharp contrast to the bold confidence of the 1950s," said Kendall.

Land donation provides sanctuary for national bird

by LEA TONKIN

The fund-raising campaign launched four months ago by the nonprofit National Wildlife Federation and the 7-Eleven Food Stores Division of the Southland Corp. will end today as the federation turns over to the federal government more than 1,000 acres of land in South Dakota and Nebraska to be used as a sanctuary for the American bald eagle.

Interior Sec. Rogers C. B. Morton will accept the deed to the land near Pickstown, S. D., and will immediately designate the property as a National Wildlife Refuge. It serves as a winter home for approximately 15 per cent of the bald eagles remaining in the "lower 48" states.

Funds for the acquisition of the land were obtained from Southland Corp., which donated 1 cent for each "Slurpee" drink sold in its 5,000 convenience stores. More than 20 million drinks were sold, in containers depicting mammals, birds, reptiles and fish on the "endangered species list." In addition to the $200,000 raised by the sale of the drinks, cash contributions for the fund were channeled through the 7-Eleven stores.

"The campaign not only raised enough money to secure a permanent sanctuary for our national symbol, but it alerted millions of Americans to the dangers of pesticides, stream pollution, the drainage of wetlands and other threats to our wildlife," said Thomas L. Kimball, executive vice president of the National Wildlife Federation, and John P. Thompson,

The environment

chairman of the board of the Southland Corp., in a joint statement.

The northern bald eagle, although not officially an endangered species, has dwindled to a population of some 2,000 in the contiguous states.

Contest winners honored

More than 1,600 children in the Chicago metropolitan area participated in the Save a Living Thing — Larry Lujack Coloring contest this fall, reports a spokesman at the Southland Corp. 7-Eleven Food Stores, Great Lakes Division office in Rolling Meadows.

Grand prize winners in the contest will be honored Friday at a luncheon to be held at the WCFL radio studio in Chicago.

Chosen from among winners at approximately 165 stores in the area for their renditions of a southern bald eagle and a whooping crane are: Jamie Reller, Palatine; Steven Simandl, Streamwood; Laurie Ferraresi, Rolling Meadows, and Sherry Ferraresi, Niles. Membership in the National Wildlife Federation and a $100 U. S. Savings bond will be awarded the youngsters.

No appeal on Dresden fine

No appeal is planned by Commonwealth Edison Co. following the announcement early this week by the Atomic Energy Commission that the utility will be fined $25,500 for safety and security violations at the Dresden nuclear power station near Morris, Ill.

The fine was levied for three categories of violations: the discharge of "lumpy water," $10,000; radiation waste procedures, $6,500, and security, $9,000.

Violations were cited for the period of March 1973 through September 1974. An Edison spokesman said the violations were "largely procedural matters which do not endanger the public."

Animal weather forecasters

Hard winter ahead? Check for fat bears, say some amateur weather forecasters. The Illinois Dept. of Conservation reports that in Michigan there are weather-watchers who claim that heavy pre-hibernation fat on bears is one sure way to predict a hard winter, and that less fat means a mild winter. How to get the bear to cooperate in the study is not explained, however.

Others look to the squirrels for a hint of winter weather conditions — if they store more than usual, a bad winter lies ahead. And then there are woolly caterpillar watchers who predict a severe cold snap when the creatures turn black instead of brown. The Old Farmer's Almanac seconds the notion that all signs point to a cold winter. The conservation department would gladly accept additional weather-watching hints, in care of Dept. of Conservation Newsletter, I&E Division, Room 605, State Office Building, Springfield, Ill. 62705.

New zoning law proposed for unincorporated areas

Zoning in unincorporated areas of Cook County may take a new look if a proposed model zoning ordinance is accepted by the county board.

Alex R. Seith, chairman of the Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals, said the plan is "a way to get area-wide planning without centralized control." He discussed the proposal Wednesday at a luncheon meeting of the Western Society of Engineers.

Major issues that the 640-page document considers include manufacturing, commercial use, flood control, industrial pollution and environmental protection.

Seith said the narrative will be submitted to the county board late next month or early February. The board may choose to delay action until zoning maps are completed and submitted by the planning firm of Rolf Campbell and Associates.

POLLUTION CONTROL will be a major part of industrial planning, Seith said. The ordinance will require environmental protection and also will provide continued monitoring to assure compliance. Violators could have their zoning taken away even though the building is complete, Seith said.

The proposal would allow any citizen who sees what appears to be pollution from a factory to report it to an officer. The factory would be inspected and violations would have to be corrected or zoning would be withdrawn.

Seith said the proposed ordinance would also allow more flexibility in larger planned developments. "They ought to be allowed some flexibility as market trends change," he said, "as long as density is not altered significantly."

The county also may experiment with a new concept of transferable development rights, which is designed to maintain open space. The new system would allow more development of some pieces of property in exchange for no development of others. The concept has been used in some cities to preserve landmark buildings by allowing more development on other sites than the one being saved.

FLOOD-CONTROL restrictions such as prohibiting building in flood plains or requiring on-site retention of water runoff, may be tougher than the Metropolitan Sanitary District provisions, particularly regarding flood plain usage, Seith said.

The tougher, more comprehensive zoning will apply only to unincorporated property, Seith said, but he hopes the standards will be adopted by municipalities. "I'd like to leave a legacy of zoning," he said. If the county standards are high, residents may demand the same of their cities or villages, he said.

He added that the new ordinance will handle increased numbers of planned developments, will provide uniform concepts that local governments can follow and will commit developers to build what they promised when they requested rezoning. Seith said the new ordinance would also provide incentives for land donations to school or park districts.

The zoning ordinance proposal has undergone a series of public hearings, but Seith said one more hearing is being scheduled to include changes that came from the other public meetings.

The zoning maps will be released to the zoning board and the public at the same time, he said, because prior knowledge might affect current zoning board decisions.

Safety 'hazards' need perspective

With the arrival of the joyous Christmas season comes the flood of those not-so-joyous gloom and doom lists of what our children should NOT do during the Yule season.

High on the list of December hazards is the spectre of your child becoming suddenly ill because he or she nibbled on something hanging from the Christmas tree. That's the special concern of Dr. Richard Moriarty, head of the national Poison Center Network in Pittsburgh.

Dr. Moriarty's concern is noble and humane, for he must treat the youthful victims of holiday accidents and parental carelessness.

He's especially concerned — even angry — about parents who give their children cocktails, or leave half-empty drinks around for children to find. Too often the result is serious physical damage to the child, for young systems often cannot tolerate even small amounts of alcohol.

Dr. Moriarty is also concerned about other Christmas items which find their way into children's mouths. He lists a variety of items to use with care around children: holly, mistletoe, glass ornaments, Christmas tree lights, artificial snow, plastic decorations, fireplace colors, styrofoam and icicles.

But the list is incomplete, for there are many, many other hazards which can injure children during the holiday season. Consider, for example, the possible threats that the following items can cause:

Electric trains, dolls, Tinkertoys, tricycles, Lincoln Logs, toy pistols, model airplanes, wooden blocks, electrical sockets, toy tools, and just about anything else you can find in Santa's bag or around the house in December.

The point is that children will be children, and one of the hazards in raising them is dealing with the reality that whatever the children are doing, they're probably up to no good.

We support the kind of caution advocated by Dr. Moriarty, and it seems almost criminal to give a child a drink and thus deliberately court either serious injury or death.

But no list of hazards and no amount of caution is going to completely prevent childhood injuries. We should exercise caution and not deliberately endanger our children, but we must also realize that Christmastime — like any time — is inevitably a risky time for curious and adventuresome small children.

Children have a right

The persons most affected by a divorce — the children — are now going to have a say in the matter, at least in Judge Norman S. Fenton's courtroom.

Fenton, a Conciliation Court judge in Pima County, Ariz., last week ruled that if a child of a couple planning a divorce writes a letter opposing the divorce, he will order mandatory counseling for the parents.

Judge Fenton's order would suspend the divorce for 60 days. The judge told UPI that there's no age requirement for the child, saying "a mature eight-year-old" would be able to write such a letter.

Why shouldn't children have this right? After all, they're usually viewed as the victims of a changing relationship which they had no say-so in the first place. Judge Fenton's order makes good sense to us, and it should be considered in courts beyond Pima County, Ariz.

A ban on Yule gifts

The Christmas season is no occasion for public employees to forget that they must remain above the suspicion of corruption every day of the year.

That's why we oppose the acceptance of gifts by public employees during the holiday season. It creates the illusion — in some cases, the reality — of a far-too-cozy relationship between private interests and public servants.

Call us Scrooge-like, if you wish, for we realize there are many warm friendships formed between public servants and private businessmen who frequently do business on a daily basis with public officials.

More appropriate, however, than a case of expensive Scotch is a Christmas card, if you want to express the warmth of the season. Too often in past years cozy and corrupt relationships have been fueled by expensive gifts designed to buy the favor of public officials. This practice should now be actively discouraged by our public leaders.

Buffalo Grove last week ordered village officials to refuse gifts from residents, developers and contractors. It's a logical policy which other communities have also adopted.

However, each of us should be aware of the threat of compromise implied by excessive Christmas giving. It shouldn't take an executive order to make us realize that expensive Christmas gifts can represent, at the very least, the illusion of compromise and bribery.

You're safer here—it's a hazardous world out there!

Teacher salary comparison incomplete, omits 'income'

Had not Kathy Boyce's beautiful article of Dec. 3 on teachers' salaries been followed by the equally beautiful article of Lea Tonkin on the unemployed chemist, I would have not been pushed to comment.

As I studied the difference of spirit, the teacher article became clear. The teacher example with the salary tables is incomplete for the readers to form a valid judgment. The article quotes salaries of non-teaching professions to compare with the lower teacher example salary and shows chemists average top salary at $34,478. This is to compare with $19,912 average maximum teacher salary in our suburbs. American Chemical Society salary survey for March 1974 breaks out chemists salaries by function for men at $24,100 median in management. The teachers' maximum is just that — as teachers, comparable to bench chemists. Add top school administrators who are qualified to teach and the comparison has more validity.

A more favorable comparison is by experience level of 13 years from a master's degree level. The teacher example is $17,300 versus a median salary of $17,400 for men chemists with 10 to 14 years experience. Note this is salary, not income.

The A.C.S. reports about $500 more for income over salary from royalties, fees, salary bonus, honorariums and other professional income, such as teaching part time.

The Herald article mentions all the example teachers extra work but does not add the extra income. There is more latitude for income both within the school contract and outside the "year." This might be a typical comparison:

"Contract," days of teaching, 208; "contract," days of industry, 260; legal holidays, days of teaching 8; legal holidays, days of industry, 9; school holidays, days of teaching, 11; school holidays, days of industry, none; reporting days, days of teaching 189; reporting days, days of industry, 246.

Less than 80 per cent of the teachers' days compared to chemist days are needed on the job, leaving 10.4 weeks for non-contract earning power. The article fails to mention extra contract earnings in grade or high schools i.e., bus duty, inside-outside lunch service, club sponsor, supervision of trainees, substitute fill in, counseling, department chairperson, etc. Industry severely restricts outside work in the trade area; teach, maybe, but to be a chemist elsewhere, not. Besides some people get "involved" with their children and the community — blood money or no.

While tenure exists to comfort the teacher, I can have empathy with the chemist. Mr. Pahlbusch who made $25,000 after 30 years experience and would be happy to work at his trade for $17,300 but is out of work at age 57. While he looks the world in the eye and chokes on the work tenure, I recall a Kentucky disc jockey saying "God willing and the creek don't rise, I'll see you all on the job tomorrow."

As for the teacher who works in the building trades may he never get a ber-nia or a bad back before 65. In the meantime, I'll stay with the equitably paid chemists without complaint, but should it end and I'm healthy, I'll pick up my tools and my father's, apply for permit from the grain processors local AFL-CIO and proudly hunt for a job as a millwright's helper, trickmillier, packer or sweeper.

Disunity aids Choate bid

by BOB LAHEY
Political Editor

Democratic state representatives who are attempting to build barricades to prevent their present minority leader, Rep. Clyde Choate of Anna, from ascending to the speaker's chair in the Illinois House would be well advised to contemplate the words of Benjamin Franklin at the signing of the Declaration of Independence:

"We must all hang together, or assuredly we shall all hang separately."

He or she who lifts a finger to impede the progress of Choate, protégé of the late lamented Paul Powell, to the speakership can look forward to two years of limbo in the conduct of the House — if Choate comes out a winner.

Those who wish to be reminded what it's like to oppose an alligator-skinned pol who subsequently takes over the most powerful seat in the legislature might consult with Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, who unsuccessfully led the forces against reelection of W. Robert Blair, R-Park Forest, as speaker two years ago.

Blair was able to smother those who backed Schlickman into believing that he had shed his skin and emerged a Renaissance man who would devote his once misused talents to reign over the legislature with wisdom and benevolence.

Re-elected speaker, he promptly returned to business at the same old pop stand with Minority Leader Choate as junior partner, resolving all the key legislative issues in closed-door vote trading.

THE BLAIR-CHOATE combine succeeded in convincing growing numbers of both parties that new leadership is needed in the House.

Choate succeeded so well, in fact, that probably half of the members of his party in the House are determined, in differing degrees, to shed his leadership.

But, being politicians, many a Democrat has allowed himself to become convinced that the best person to succeed Choate is... himself.

So the Democrats have produced a handful of anti-Choate candidates, each proclaiming that if he is not successful,

The lighter side

The night before Confirmation...

by DICK WEST

"The committee will come to order. Gentlemen, we have before us today the nomination of Kris Kringle, otherwise known as St. Nicholas, or Santa Claus, to be Vice President of the United States.

"Please be seated, sir. We are delighted to have you here to clear up certain matters that have arisen with respect to your confirmation. Do you have a question, Senator Byrd?"

"Thank you, Mr. Chairman. Mr. Kringle, our records show that in the past 10 years you have given away more than 3 billion toys, dolls and other playthings to approximately 60 million good little girls and boys.

"This committee would like to know the circumstances under which these gifts were made."

"Certainly, senator. And may I say I appreciate the opportunity of coming before you to answer certain allegations and insinuations that have appeared in the media and elsewhere concerning my activities.

"First of all I would like to say I have never at any time given a good little boy or girl a toy with the expectation of receiving something in return.

"Occasionally, a boy or girl may leave a cookie or some other goodie for me on the mantelpiece. But since they are always in bed when I come down the chimney, there is no possibility of making any deals with toys?"

"I'm pleased to hear you say that, Mr. Kringle. But if you expected nothing substantial in return, why did you give away billions of toys?"

"I'll be glad to answer that, Senator. These gifts were given to encourage goodness among boys and girls, some of whom could not otherwise afford to be good."

"The thing that disturbs me, Mr. Kringle, is whether one man should be in the position of determining who has been naughty and who has been nice."

"Let me just say that these gifts represent only a small fraction of the production capacity of my family's toy shop at the North Pole.

"When I give away 3 billion toys, it's like the average person giving some child a tricycle, an electric train or a white fur muff."

"I'm not questioning your right as a private citizen to give away toys. But as I see it, it wouldn't be proper for the vice president to be popping in and out of chimneys with a sack full of toys on his back."

"I understand your position, senators, and I pledge to this committee that if I am confirmed I will pack away my red suit and turn my reindeer out to pasture for the duration of my term."

"In that case, Mr. Chairman, I see no reason to further delay action on this appointment." (UPI)

Eugenia S. Chapman

any of the others will do.

The great weakness in this circumstance is that going into an election campaign with three or four candidates is closely akin to going in with no candidate at all.

Heading the pack of the stop-Choate forces at the moment is Rep. William A. Redmond, D-Bensenville, a 12-year veteran of the House who at the age of 65 appears to have virtually no enemies and is free of suspicion that he would attempt to make the speakership into a stepping stone for higher office.

As Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, puts it, "Nobody dislikes Bill Redmond."

That is not disputed. But the trouble appears to be that not all of those who don't dislike Redmond are prepared to form a solid front for him as speaker. Rep. John Matijevich, D-North Chicago, and Rep. Gerald Bradley, D-Bloomington, while declaring willing acceptance of Redmond's election, are still not willing to give up the hope of securing the speakership for themselves.

THE FACT THAT those liberally minded, or reform inclined — or whatever — Democrats have so far been unable to pull themselves together for one candidate probably constitutes the biggest threat to the stop-Choate move.

The Democrats have been in the minority for 10 years, and many of those who will return in the majority have never even had hopes of sharing the amenities which can go with having the speaker on your side of the aisle.

Prominent among those amenities is the opportunity of chairing one of the 21 committees of the House.

As momentum builds for the opposition candidate, the pressure to jump to the winning side or to give up hope of securing a plum from the speaker — mounts to an intensity which only a legislator with political ambition can fully understand.

And the closer a candidate comes to securing the speakership, the more valuable each of the holdout votes becomes. At the proper moment, a handful, or even a single vote can mean the way to forgiveness for having opposed the eventual winner.

If as expected Choate leads the pack on the first ballot, it will be critically important, and exceedingly difficult, for the Democratic dissenters to hang together.

COMPLICATING the predicament of the anti-Choate forces is the specter that the outgoing speaker, Blair, has not been divested of his influence on the legislature.

The almanac

Today is Thursday, Dec. 19, the 353rd day of 1974 with 12 to follow.

The moon is approaching its first quarter.

The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Venus and Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Sagittarius.

British Arctic explorer William Perry was born Dec. 19, 1790.

On this day in history:

• In 1777, George Washington and the Continental Army began a winter encampment at Valley Forge, Pa.

• In 1965, French President Charles de Gaulle won a second five-year term.

• In 1968, Norman Thomas, six-time Socialist party presidential candidate, died at the age of 84.

• In 1972, the splashdown of Apollo 17 ended America's moon exploration program.

A thought for today: German philosopher Arthur Schopenhauer said, "Intellect is invisible to the man who has none."

State board must exert leadership

When the Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction dies, what will take its place? (Choose one)

- A large grey building in Springfield.
- The RTA.
- Joseph Cronin.
- All of the above.
- None of the above.

The correct answer is uncertain. But the safest answer to give is "none of the above" and the fact that the answer is uncertain points out the hazards of transition.

The Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction is the official and somewhat unwieldy official title for Michael Bakalis, who was elected state school superintendent in 1970 and who will leave office Jan. 13.

When Bakalis leaves office, OSPI will cease to exist. The functions of the office will be taken over by the State Board of Education and their newly appointed superintendent, Joseph Cronin.

ONLY IT'S not quite that simple. In addition to Bakalis' duties, the state board also will take over some other educational functions that are currently performed by other agencies. The new group will have responsibility for educational policy for all schools from kindergarten through high school. It will work with private as well as public schools and vocational as well as general-purpose schools.

So, at the state board's meeting recently, the subject came up — what do we call whatever it is that takes over from OSPI? Cronin, who comes from Massachusetts and will take office Jan.

Education today

by Wandalyne Rice

13 along with the state board, said jokingly, "I considered running a contest to pick a name."

Several names were suggested: Office of the State Superintendent of Education, which was dismissed because it ignored the board; State Board of Education, which was questioned because it somehow seemed too narrow; State Dept. of Education, a problem because other departments in state government aren't as independent as this one will be, and Office of Education, which could be confused with the U.S. Office of Education, the federal agency.

The state board, in a flurry of decisiveness, appointed a committee to study this important issue and will make a decision on Jan. 13.

ALL THIS probably sounds silly, and in some ways it is, but there is a serious reason for pointing out the confusion. When the state board of education takes office next month, it will be something entirely new in the experience of the state — and the confusion about the name points out some of the confusion about the new system.

In the past, the state school superintendent has been an independent elected official — and even if that caused some problems, everyone knew who he was and where to find him. Now, however, the state board, made up of 17 individuals from around the state, will be making policy for state education and talking about such questions as state aid to schools and desegregation.

That change, from a single individual who is responsible for policy to a group, is going to take some getting used to. It is probably symptomatic of the old thinking, for example, that the news media and educators around the state got much more excited about the choice of Cronin as state superintendent than they did about Gov. Daniel Walker's appointment of the original members of the state board.

It is easier, of course, to think of Cronin as the replacement for Bakalis than it is to get technical and think of a 17-member board as a replacement for Bakalis. That, I suspect, is the reason that at least one person suggested that OSPI be replaced with OSSE.

THE UNDENIABLE FACT is that if the state board is going to be better than the old system of having an elected state school superintendent, the board, and not its elected superintendent, is going to have to take over the real leadership of the state. That doesn't mean that the new superintendent will sink into obscurity, but it does mean that a lot of people are going to have to start thinking about the state education policy in a different way.

Viewed in that context, it probably isn't silly to worry about what you are going to call the new agency which will be run by the state board. Maybe names don't matter too much, but they can be useful for describing function.

Anyone for the Offices of the State Board of Education?

'Dream' shopping center can be 'nightmare' for police

Accidents, parking violations, shoplifters provide a peacekeeping phantasmagoria

by STIRLING MORITA

Car traffic trickles in at first. But then there is a never-ending stream of vehicles jamming the parking lot of Woodfield, the world's largest enclosed shopping center.

Cars everywhere, and with the influx of humanity, there usually is an influx of headaches for Schaumburg police. The Woodfield Shopping Center is unpredictable. Sometimes it can be quiet, and other times it can generate calls that will send a patrolman's head spinning.

On a quiet day during the Christmas shopping season, a patrolman for Area 4 (Woodfield) will find himself getting hand cramps from writing parking tickets for fire-lane violations. On busy days, he may rush from accident to accident or concentrate on hauling in shoplifters or directing traffic.

Usually the busy days are Friday through Sunday, but the weekday evenings can be hectic too. When an Area 4 man returned after a busy Saturday shift at the shopping center, he found 11 calls waiting at the police station.

ONE SHOPLIFTING ARREST could keep a patrolman occupied for as long as two hours for transportation and booking procedures. One Sunday afternoon in just three hours, eight juveniles were arrested by J C Penney security agents.

But sometimes the parking problem is so bad on the Penney and Sears, Roebuck and Co. sides that one can barely maneuver vehicles through the jam. Parking is not allowed in fire lanes, an area between yellow-striped areas at the ends of parking rows and the curbs.

If fire engines were summoned on a call, they would be unable to get in close to the buildings in some instances, police said. Patrolman Chuck Kempf said he would like to see the fine for parking in a fire lane upped from the present $5. Hundreds of fire-lane violations are cited on a busy weekend. Patrolman Dennis Hogsy said he wrote 67 tickets in two hours at the shopping center.

Hogsy asked one woman who asked why she received a ticket for parking in the yellow-striped zones what she thought the yellow stripes meant. "I thought it was a parking zone for small cars," she said. She was driving a full-sized Ford LTD.

POLICE HAVE BEEN told by various

shoppers to go ahead and ticket their cars because they were going to spend large amounts in the stores and that $5 was worth it to park close. Police reserves walk a beat around the center Saturday afternoons to issue parking tickets.

Schaumburg police only are authorized to make arrests in accidents. If it involves reckless driving or a higher offense because the parking lot is private property. Hogsy and Kempf said they have seen cars drive at high speed along the outer driveway and that they stopped the vehicles, but could not ticket the drivers.

The many feeder drives and bends in the roadway provide scenes for accidents. "People get confused here, which is not really hard to do," Kempf said.

Patrolmen watch for persons acting suspiciously by the parked vehicles since many vehicles are reported stolen. Some reports of stolen cars turn out to be only a case of the driver forgetting where he parked.

"A young woman thought her car was parked by Penney's," Hogsy recalled. "We found it by Woodfield Theatres (on the other side)."

KEMPF DIRECTED SUNDAY traffic on the Woodfield Drive exit ramp off southbound Ill. Rte. 53 into a side entrance of the shopping center. He did it to alleviate the stream of cars on the east frontage road that results in a back-up onto the highway. Sometimes drivers make the illegal U-turn to avoid the wait.

Patrolling the shopping center is different than residential patrol because everything is constantly moving. "Everything is moving so fast, sometimes you have to stop to look and see," Hogsy said.

Kempf said, "It really doesn't take very long for it to fill up."

"Woodfield draws all kinds of people," Hogsy said, "You've got to be able to relate to them."

THE LINE OF traffic goes on and on and . . . Patrolman Chuck Kempf directs southbound cars exiting from Ill. Rte. 53 at Woodfield Drive. Kempf and another patrolman direct the U-turns into a side entrance of Woodfield Shopping Center to alleviate the jam that at times stretches to Algonquin Road.

'Everybody's kind of shocked'

"If you say Notre Dame around here, you think of Ara Parseghian."

No, All-America quarterback Tom Clements didn't make that statement. It was another member of the Irish. A youngster who never had the pleasure of starting for Parseghian's football team — Jack Lloyd.

Now a sophomore reserve linebacker, this former All-Stater from Rolling Meadows High spoke for the thousands of Ara fans everywhere, those who hated to see this great coach retire.

It wasn't long ago that Notre Dame was just another college football team. As a youngster, the only thing I knew Bobowski, like Lloyd, is a reserve, a defensive back. He, too, will never play under Parseghian, but he felt just as close to him as those who have.

Ara has those charismatic qualities about him that inspire players and draw a huge following across the country. No critic could ever label him dull.

He was dynamite on the sidelines. A reactor. Emotion oozed from his French-Armenian face — always a good target for the TV cameras.

When he suffered, so did his fans. His adversity would arouse the gut feelings of those Irish rooters who watched him. Who could ever forget the Parseghian portrait of pain as Southern Cal staged the most unreal comeback imaginable, walloping ND in the process.

It seemed to climax a year of heartache for the man, a year that held so much hope because a tremendous nucleus was expected to return. A second straight national title seemed to be Ara's destiny.

Then came the injuries, the suspensions, the Pursue upset and finally the embarrassment in Los Angeles. Nearly exhausted from the pressure of this season and the 10 that came before, Ara decided to call it a career.

However, one more game remains. Of the 118 he's coached at Notre Dame (94-17-4), this one will have a tremendous amount of meaning for both Ara and his team.

"If there's one way we'd like to see Ara go out, it's on a winning note," said Lloyd. He and Bobowski will help play a part in preparing for the New Year's night game in the Orange Bowl. They'll be acting out the Alabama defense.

Alabama's out for revenge after the near miss last year. A victory will give the Crimson Tide a share of the national title.

Pride and winning it for their coach will inspire the Irish. This combination might make the two teams as equal as they were in '73.

An upset is possible. If the luck of the Irish returns after a year's absence, it is very probable.

No matter what happens, you've gotta believe this gridiron great will ride off the field on Irish shoulders.

Ara Parseghian

about the school was that a couple of men named Rockne and Leahy once — many years before — were great coaches there.

Few people knew or cared that a guy named Hugh Devore was the head man. Heck, back in Iowa, the university team was a national power and Notre Dame was nothing. Irish fans — like Bear fans now — lived in the past.

Ara's arrival changed all that. After his 1964 team just missed a national title, finishing 9-1, people who hadn't cared before noticed. This fabled football school was back in the national limelight.

Despite all the success that came to Ara over the years, he was always criticized for not making an all-out attempt to win the infamous Michigan State game in 1966. The critics said he played for a tie, but he always contended that his team was "playing not to lose."

Almost a year ago he shut them up for good. Ara outcoached another "living legend" coach — "Bear" Bryant — in the "Super" Sugar Bowl. That New Year's Eve game was the most dramatic I've ever seen.

It seemed that Ara was on his way toward more national titles and Notre Dame many more victories. Then the bombshell came last Sunday.

"It came as a complete surprise to me," said Stan Bobowski, a sophomore who was an All-Stater while at St. Viator. "We just thought it was a joke. It happens just about this time every year."

"Everybody's kind of shocked," continued Bobowski. "They're also kind of disappointed . . . sad to see him leave. He had a good rapport with the players."

HELPING TO engineer a victory over Hersey is Arlington's Jenny Almqvist at the Huskies' court Tuesday.

True trivia test: Find Jim Suchecki

It all began Monday morning when the mail brought a strange request. Would I please forward any information on a certain James Joseph Suchecki? Thank you.

James Joseph Suchecki? A quick trip to the reference shelf told me who he was.

Suchecki played major league baseball from 1950 to 1962. He pitched very briefly for Boston and St. Louis of the American League and Pittsburgh in the National. He compiled an 0-6 record for the lowly St. Louis Browns in 1951. A righthander, Suchecki was born in Chicago on Aug. 25, 1926.

That much was in the record books. But my correspondent, Jack Smalling of Ames, Iowa, wanted to know more. He wanted to know where Suchecki lived — if indeed he were still alive — I presume so that he could fill some gaps in his concise history of the Browns.

Art Mugalian
Staff Sportswriter

All Smalling had to go on was that Suchecki once lived at 302 N. Dryden in Arlington Heights. I would have to take it from there.

The phone book listed three Sucheckis. The first two I called were dead ends. The third Suchecki didn't answer his phone.

So I tried another route. I called Rich Ahrens, a Palatine resident who played pro ball in the late 1940's. I once worked with Ahrens, who grew up playing baseball in the Chicago area, and I figured he might know Suchecki.

Rich thought for a moment, letting his memory take him back 20 . . . 30 years. Suchecki, Suchecki? No luck — Rich said he never heard of Suchecki.

The third Suchecki in the phone book was Joseph T. in Mount Prospect. I had a good feeling about it. I dialed again and still no answer.

I went back to the record books. Suchecki had played on teams with Ted Williams, Lou Boudreau, Dom DiMaggio, Satchel Paige, Ralph Kiner, Joe Garagiola. Would any of them know what became of Jim Suchecki? Boudreau lives in Harvey — maybe he knows.

Boudreau's line was busy, so I called an old friend, Kent Fremon. Fremon, who I've known since sixth grade in Palatine, is perhaps the second most authoritative baseball expert I've ever met. Next to me. And he has what seems to be a morbid fascination for the St. Louis Browns, a team which packed up and moved to Baltimore 20 years ago.

Fremon never heard of Suchecki. But he suggested I call Chicago columnist Will Leonard, a diehard baseball enthusiast who maintains an unofficial Browns' fan club.

I talked to Leonard. He seemed helpful. He asked me what I wanted to know about Suchecki. The name obviously did more than just ring a bell for him.

"Where does he live now?" I asked.

"Oh, I don't know things like that!" Leonard said.

He recommended I call the American League office, where they keep such information for pension purposes.

But before I wasted my time calling AL president Lee MacPhail in Boston, I realized that Suchecki — a veteran of less than three full seasons in the majors — didn't even qualify for the pension.

Meanwhile, I got hold of the name and phone number of the man who now lives at Suchecki's old Arlington Heights address. He might know where Suchecki moved. No answer.

I tried Joseph T. Suchecki again. It rang and rang and then an answer, a woman's voice.

"Hello?"

"I'm trying to locate a James Joseph Suchecki, an ex-ballplayer. Are you related, by any chance?"

"Yes," she said. "He's my husband's cousin, but he doesn't live around here any more."

At last, my persistence paid off. Where is he? Where can I reach him?

He was in the Minneapolis area, she said — but where she didn't know. She had no home phone, no business, nothing. They hadn't seen Suchecki in — at least eight years.

Now I had a solid lead. I thanked her and dialed Minneapolis information.

"Yes, I have a listing for a James Suchecki — it's an unpublished number, however," I was informed.

The boundaries of frustration were never known until some poor fool first tried to get an unpublished number from Ma Bell. After three attempts, I gave up.

I called the Minnesota Twins, hoping they might have some knowledge of the hometown Suchecki. No dice. I checked long lists of major league scouts hoping to find Suchecki among them. I struck out.

Then Monday night I tried Minneapolis information again. This time I got a supervisor who said she would contact Suchecki and ask if he would call me.

Half an hour later, the phone rang. It was James Suchecki asking what I wanted.

I panicked. What if this wasn't the right James Suchecki — another dead end?

But it was THE James Suchecki — high school star at Lane Tech who later played baseball for two of the worst teams in history, the '51 Browns and the '52 Pirates. Traded to St. Louis with Matt Batts for Les Moss in 1951, he finished up with Seattle in 1954, sidelined by bursitis.

We chatted about his five years in Arlington Heights when he worked for Sinclair Oil. We talked about his move to Minnesota in 1959 and his successful employment agency there.

Suchecki is a nice guy. He took the trouble to call.

Jim Suchecki, I'm glad I found you.

Forest View bowlers now 11-1 in conference play

Forest View, showing the kind of form that led to a Mid-Suburban Conference title and a state championship last season, registered an impressive 9-0 victory over Hoffman Estates in the second night of action in league play.

This left the Falcons alone in first place with an 11-1 record and 17 points Tuesday at Rolling Meadows Bowl. This broke a three-way tie with Schaumburg and Arlington — co-leaders the time out.

Schaumburg took over second with a 6-3 showing over Rolling Meadows. Arlington dropped a distant third after Fremd won 7-2. Prospect's 5-4 win over Conant left the Cougars tied with Arlington for third place. Palatine defeated Elk Grove 6-3 to keep its eighth-place position.

This afternoon, beginning at 4:15, Arlington will test Forest View. Other action will have Hoffman Estates vs. Elk Grove, Fremd vs. Rolling Meadows, Conant vs. Schaumburg and Prospect vs. Palatine.

Carrying the top averages into the third round play will be Arlington's Bonnie Bookwood — 167, Schaumburg's Denise Huzar — 166 and Forest View's Dawn Powell — 165.

Schaumburg rolled up the high team series Tuesday with an 1897. Forest View was right behind with an 1887.

Elk Grove's Sandy Boryczka registered the high series with a 545. Bookwood was in a 533 with Powell having a 514.

From campuses nationwide

—Jeff Selleck, of Arlington Heights, who was recently chosen the offensive captain of the University of Minnesota football team, was named one of two outstanding seniors on the Golden Gopher varsity for 1974.

—Dave Motta, a sophomore at Westminster College (Iowa) from Palatine, will help lead the Eagles as they open the 1974-75 wrestling season which includes 20 dual meets and five tournaments.

As a freshman Motta won a Tri-State Conference title and finished the season with an 11-6 dual record and a 19-13 overall slate.

—David Alan Welschberger, freshman, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Welschberger, 8719 Elm Drive, Des Plaines, was a member of the 1974 Lake Forest College championship soccer team. The Foresters had a 7-2-1 record for the season, defeating Knox College at Galesburg 6-1 to claim the conference championship. It was Lake Forest's first year in the Midwest Collegiate Athletic Conference.

—Northern Illinois University senior middle guard Ed Klingberg was named to the Mid-American Conference All-Academic football team. Klingberg, a 5-10, 211-pound senior from Mount Prospect and St. Viator, was a first team selection and one of seven unanimous picks chosen by the MAC's faculty representatives.

A special education major, Klingberg compiled a 3.05 grade average on a 4.0 scale.

—Ken Peters, from Arlington Heights, had some rough going along with his Georgia Tech basketball teammates when the Yellow Jackets dropped a tough opener to Georgia, 96-67. Peters attempted seven shots from the field but could only roll in two. Tech plays a rugged early schedule that includes UCLA, Alabama and Maryland.

—Monmouth College won the Midwest Conference basketball title last year and this year added the talents of Conant graduate Roger Sander. Sander, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Sander, 181 E. Berkley Ave. in Hoffman Estates, is being used at forward and center.

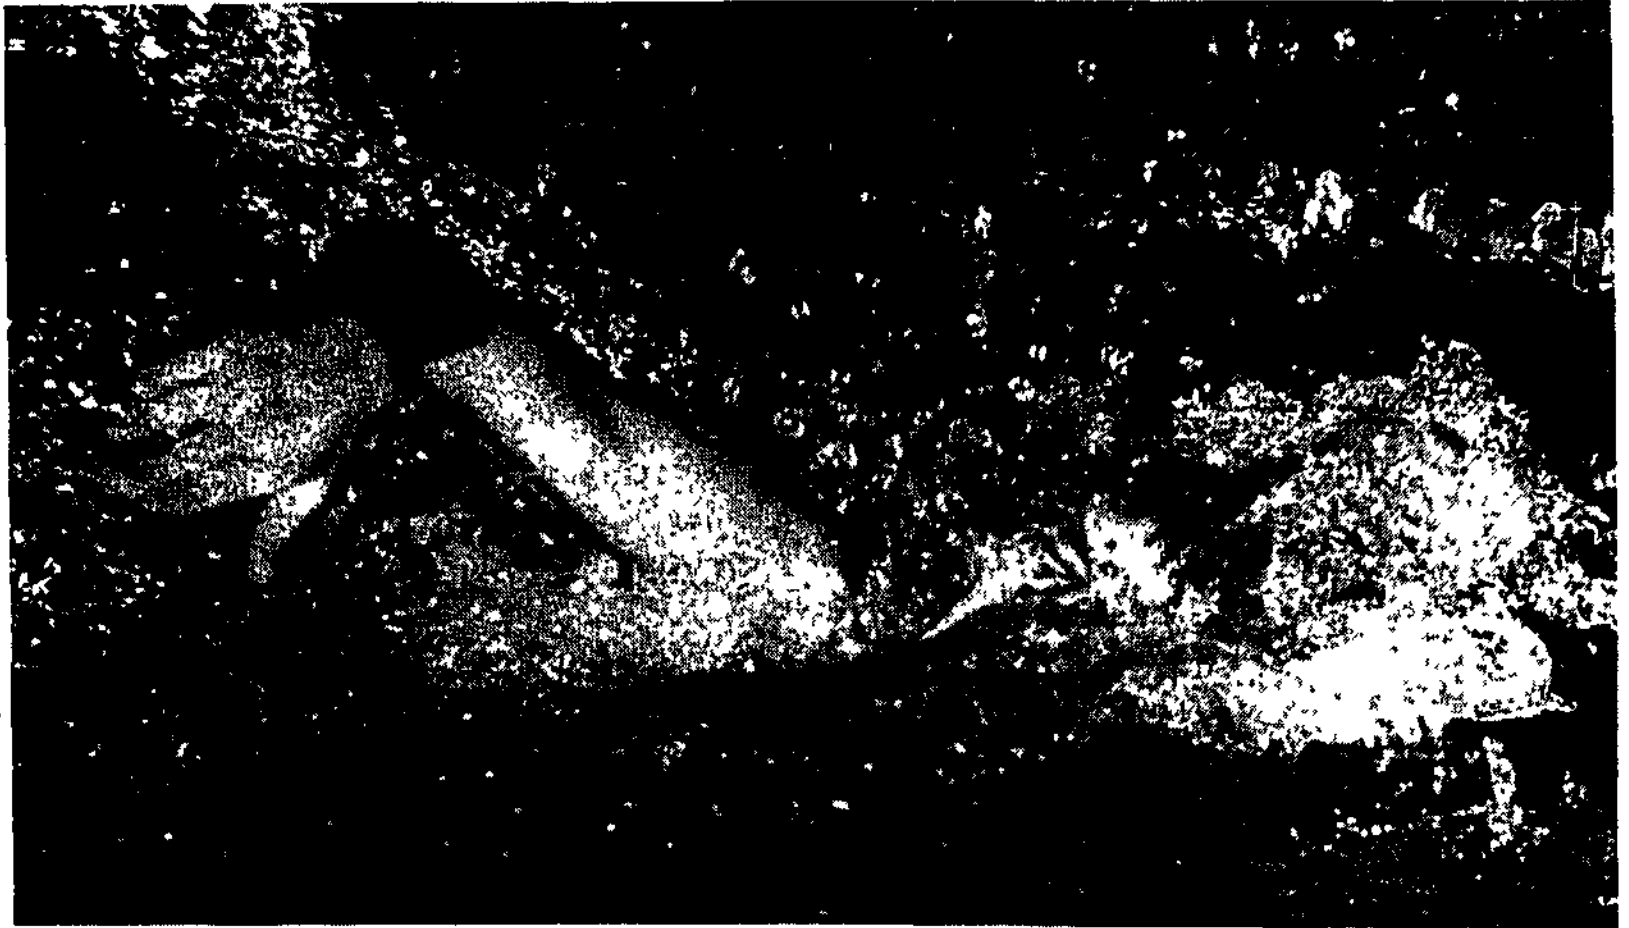

—Edward Klee, of Des Plaines, and James F. Hoover, of Arlington Heights, were awarded letters in cross country and football, respectively, at St. John's Military Academy in Delafield, Wis.

—For two years now Steve Moore has been blasting holes in opposing lines while the University of South Dakota football team eats up big chunks of yardage on the ground.

And both years the combination has led USD to a North Central Conference championship.

Moore, a 6-2, 230-pound senior from Arlington Heights, moved into the starting lineup at guard at the start of the 1973 season and was there for 21 of the last 22 games, missing one with an injury.

Dan Szymkowiak, from Hoffman Estates, is a freshman at the University of Dubuque and won a championship in the 158-pound weight division of the Take-down Tourney held recently.

MAINE WEST SOPHOMORE Tom Ptach appears swimming. Above, Ptach is shown winning the 200 95-77, on Saturday. He also competes in 500 to have a fine prep career ahead in freestyle free in 1:55.09 as the Warriors defeated Prospect, freestyle and works on West's 400 free relay team.

Hawks high in final NJCAA stats

The final National Junior College Athletic Association football statistics have been released and Harper, who lost three of their four games to teams ranked in the top 20 nationally, totaled out very impressively.

The Hawks ranked sixth in the country in team passing offense with an average of 186.2 yards per game as Gary Mueller ranked seventh in the nation in total offense, rushing for 263 and passing for 1139 for a total of 1402. His serial yardage, and a 48 per cent completion mark; ranked Mueller ninth in the nation in passing. Mueller also competed in only eight games while many of the quarterbacks ahead of him appeared in ten.

Ervin Kimbrough, who will find out later this month whether he made first team All-America, ranked fourth in the country in pass receiving, with a 4.3 catches per game average. In nine games Kimbrough caught 38 passes for 675 yards.

Kimbrough also tied for second in the nation in touchdown passes caught with eight.

Harper's kicker, Dave Patterson, belonged to a select group of two who appeared in both the individual scoring by kicking and punting categories. Patterson ranked eighth in scoring with 39 points and seventh in punting with a 39.3 yards per kick average.

Des Plaines hockey highlights

Joe Wee Traveling Team
The Des Plaines Blues beat Hoffman Park District, 4-0, as goalie Joe DePinto worked hard for his shutout. Des Plaines' first goal by winger Bob Cain, assisted by Scott Martini and Mike Evans, was scored during a scramble at the Hoffman goal. Dan Rorer made the second goal, assisted by Greg Beth. Tony Cardona brought in the third goal on an assist by Bob Wagner, and the fourth was scored by Dan Reiken, assisted by Dan Edwards and Dan Rorer. The final period was dominated by Des Plaines.

The Blues trounced the Hoffman Flyers, 5-3, in an action packed thriller. Winner Bob Cain scored twice, assisted by Scott Martini. Bob Wagner and Tony Cardona, Dan Reiken and Mark Rosell each scored once on assists by Billy Berner and Dan Reiken. Steve Gratz scored once, unassisted, after a beautiful tour down the ice. The team's coordinated defensive work on the part of defenseman Steve Gratz, Mike Miller, Tony Cardona, Jeff Orsini, and Mike Evans, highlighted by goalie Joe DePinto, stopped more than a dozen scoring attempts by the Flyers, who had twice before beat the Blues in the Woodfield League.

For the second time, the Des Plaines Blues held the Glenview Hockey team to a 2-1 defeat. Glenview is a top-rated team with victories against the Flames and the Warriors which makes the Blues effort worthy of note. Defenseman Tony Cardona made the Blues lone goal in the third period of this Friday the 13th game.

Squirrel-Wee House League
Kunkel Realty moved into first place in the Squirrel-Wee House League by defeating Cass Ford 4-1. Greg Beth again led the way, scoring two goals and an assist. Brian Beth and Jim Ragusa scored a goal each with Tom Allard getting an assist. Cass Ford narrowly averted being shut out when Dan Edwards scored unassisted with eleven seconds remaining in the game.

Wildcats roll past century mark in victory

A dozen players cracked the scoring column, collecting from one point to 22, and Wheeling went on to blitz hosting Mundelein 104-50 in a non-conference basketball outing on the Mustang court Tuesday.

The 22 points were registered by Keith Schildt, one of five Wildcats hitting double figures as they romped to their seventh victory in eight games this season. The one point was put in by Brian Begrowicz with 53 seconds left on the clock . . . pulling Wheeling up to the century mark for the first time in the school's history.

During the final moments of the game 6-3 junior reservist Karl Krueger plunked in a couple of additional inside buckets for visitors. The final mark of 104 eclipsed a Wheeling record of 97 set in a losing cause at East Aurora seven seasons ago and equaled twice since, once just about a year ago in league opening action against Schaumburg.

Although Schildt was top Wildcat point man, he had plenty of company in the offensive standout department, including a trio of cagers who come off the bench for coach Ted Ecker to join starters Schildt and Steve Rymer in double figures.

Krueger was one of them, exploding for 10 points in the fourth quarter, and finishing with a dozen. Also collecting 12 was guard Dave Peterson. Mike Brzuszkiewicz came up with a standout 16-point production to help the record cause.

Wheeling needed a quarter to get in gear. They started sluggishly and scored only 12 in the opening stanza to hold a narrow two-point lead. Then the roof caved in on the hosts with the handiwork of Schildt and Brzuszkiewicz around the nets and Mike Hallstrom's dazzling floor game resulting in a 29-point second period and a 36-point third quarter bonanza for Wheeling.

Schildt picked up 13 of his 22 points during that third bombardment while the 'Cats forged a decisive 77-41 bulge.

Ironically, despite all the fireworks by the visitors, it was one of the local boys, center Pete Geisser, who annexed individual game scoring honors with 29.

Harper hockey team wins, 6-2

The Harper hockey team faired well over the weekend by shellacking Triton for the second time this season and holding a strong Northeastern team to a 4-4 tie.

Coach Pat Huffer's Hawks scored three times in the opening period and went on to trim Triton, 6-2, as six different Harper icemen tallied Sunday at Triton.

Bruce Brothers began the parade of goals with assists from Terry Cunningham and Bill Laird. Laird and Cunningham each added a marker of their own with an assist both times from Tom McEnernoy.

Defenseman Marc Walk gave the Hawks a 4-1 lead in the second period on a goal assisted by Laird. Then in the third stanza, Jim Duich and Mark Dason led the victory with goals assisted by Sven Overland.

The Hawks took 52 shots at the beleaguered Triton goaltender while Hawk goalie Mike Mattox was called upon to stop 33 shots.

In Saturday's 4-4 stalemate at North-western, one of the scoring stars for Harper was Chris Bass, a 150-pound left winger from Barrington. Bass opened the scoring with an assist from Mark Preissing in the first period and he assisted on goals by Duich in the second period and he assisted on goals by Brothers in the third. The fourth Harper goal was put into the nets by Buzz Wolfen, assisted by Brothers and Dason.

But three third-period goals by Northeastern helped throw the game into a draw.

Harper's record is now 3-2-1.

Wildcats to host Knights to decide volleyball title

It's official. Prospect will meet Wheeling for the Mid-Suburban Conference title Friday afternoon.

Wheeling will host the title meet, scheduled to get under way immediately after the battle between runner-up teams from both the North and South divisions. Thursday's meets will decide who will be playing in the preliminary meet.

Only the North entrant was in doubt going into Tuesday night's play. Wheeling didn't back into the division title, but won quite handily over Palatine on the 'A' level, 15-2, 15-3.

The Wildcat 'B' team also won, 15-0, 15-7.

Meanwhile, Arlington was eliminating Hersey, 15-13, 12-15, 15-12. Despite the 'A' setback, Beth Riser and Terry Giffone played good games. The Cardinals earned a runner-up berth with the victory.

Arlington also won the 'B' clash, 15-8, 8-15, 15-12.

2 Cards perfect in fencing meet

Arlington dominated the 'A' and 'B' strip action in a meet with Maine West's fencing team at Olympic Park District in Arlington Heights.

The Cardinals swept the top three spots on the 'A' level and took a first in 'B' action along with a second in the 'C' group.

Patty Pinski, top seeded in the 'A' group, followed up a bye in the opening round with four straight wins to take the first-place trophy. Teammates Naomi Ivan and Ginny Rizzo placed second and third.

Sue LaGorio registered five victories against no losses in winning the 'B' strip. Sue Janek of Arlington accounted for the other trophy win with second in 'C' strip play.

Pam Taylor and Karen Hoffman finished 2-3 in 'B' strip and Jan Neetz and Laura Sievers were 1-3 in 'C' strip action.

Every contestant got to fence at least two times in the double elimination tournament.

Prospect notched its sixth win without a loss, outlasting Elk Grove, 15-10, 12-15, 15-4. The 'B' meet also went the Knights' way, 15-12, 15-8.

Forest View took a big step in earning a runner-up spot by beating Rolling Meadows, 15-12, 16-14. The latter game saw the Falcons get out to a big lead, lose the advantage and then battle back. The entire Forest View team played very well.

The Falcons took the 'B' meet, 15-10, 15-13. Fremd, winless in divisional play, posted a victory in cross-over action with Hoffman Estates, 15-3, 15-7. The 'B' team also won, 15-13, 15-8.

The final night of volleyball action will have Palatine at Fremd, Wheeling at Buffalo Grove, Hoffman Estates at Elk Grove and Schaumburg at Rolling Meadows. All matches begin at 6:30 p.m.

Maine East captures title

Paced by some strong individual showings, Maine East captured the Niles West Invitational in gymnastics recently.

Maine finished with 59 points with Niles taking second and Moline in third.

Melody Miller posted three firsts. She shared the top spot with Ellen Barrett in vaulting with 8.15. Miller rolled up her highest score in balance beam with an 8.25. She also had an 8.1 in floor exercise.

Other solid showings by Maine were Cindy DiVito with fifth in floor exercise (7.65) and Mary Winkel with fourth in uneven bars (6.8).

STEVE RYMER, Wheeling's offensive quarterback, heads down the lane with a layup for one of the six baskets he scored against Conant Friday night. Rymer bedeviled the Cougars all night as Wheeling won handily, 69-36.

Meadows wins in gym duel

by CHARLIE DICKINSON

Gymnastics Editor

Rolling Meadows won itself a dual meet Tuesday night, topping Glenbrook South 124.52 to 114.93, but Mustang coach Vic Avigliano came away disappointed in his team's performance.

"We had done such a good job against Hoffman Estates," Avigliano said, "scoring 129 points, that we were pushing for 135 in this meet. I think we might have pushed too hard in practice the night before."

"I know that we were lucky Glenbrook missed the same places we missed because if they had hit we could've very easily lost this meet."

Meadows, who will send their top individuals into the power packed Maine East Invitational this weekend, got strong performances and event titles from Keith Liszewski (7.10 on high bar), Jim Losito (7.9 on tramp) and Dave Bycroft (8.25 on still rings).

Guy Owsiany trailed Liszewski by only a fraction on the high bar and posted a team high of 6.95 on the P-Bars to contribute to his 5.47 all-around average, good enough to win that combination of events.

Maine West and New Trier East showed off their gymnastic skills in a dual meet Tuesday night and New Trier got the better of it, 106.59 to 89.97.

Maine West got event titles from Pat Dent (6.6 in free ex) and Neil Sosdian (7.15 on side horse).

Sid Drain will also send his best specialists into the Maine East meatgrinder but he has no illusions of winning the team title.

"I'm confident in the abilities of Dent and Sosdian," Drain said. "They will both be respectable. Dent should score better against good competition and Sosdian is just starting to come around."

"We'll have people in every event except trampoline, which I may scratch when we get there."

Dent could manage only a 3.55 to lead the Warriors on the tramp against New Trier East as the team totaled only 8.55 for the event.

Schaumburg continues to improve although not enough to avoid dropping a dual to Maine North Tuesday, 97.84 to 86.94.

"I was happier about the fact we scored 86 points and started to hit some of our routines," said Saxon coach Gary Larocco, "than disenchanted with the fact we lost the meet."

Saxons winning event titles were Steve Ninow (4.4 on side horse), Mark Sterle (5.5 on tramp) and Mark Post (6.85 on still rings.)

Accuracy assured by taking average of five tests

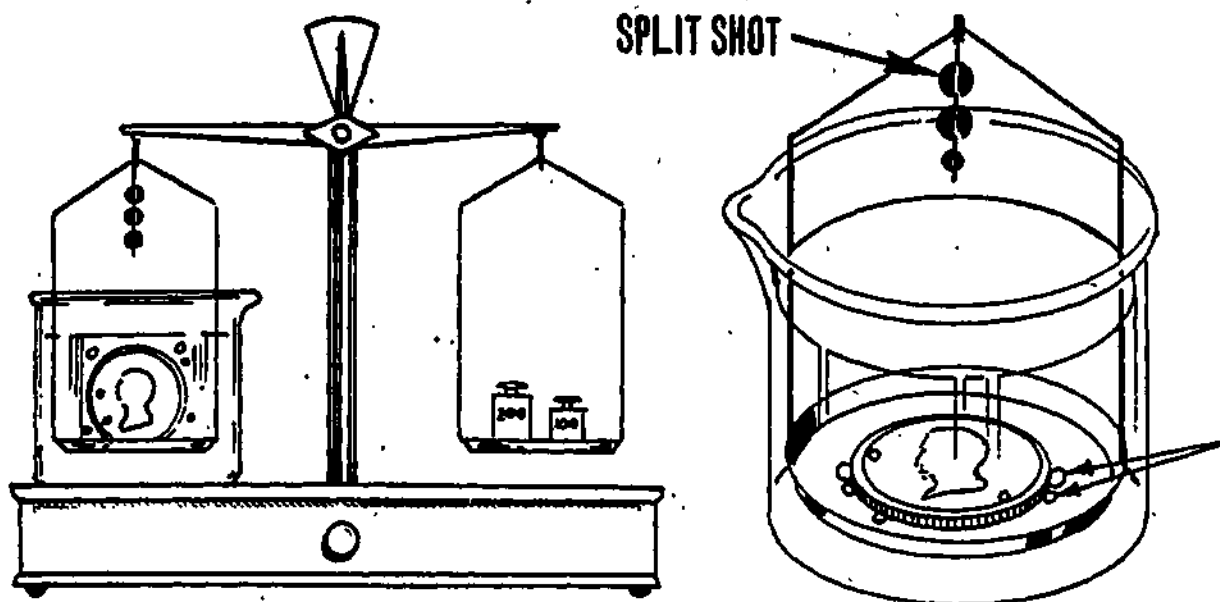

(Last of three parts.)

At this point the dry weight of the coin in question has been determined according to specifications for that coin as it appears in the "Encyclopedia of U.S. Coins."

The same working conditions should be maintained for the wet weight process as in securing the dry weight. Remove the coin and all weights from their respective pans and bring the scales into exact balance.

- Suspend the left-hand pan in a near full beaker of distilled water brought to below room temperature with an ice cube. When the cube melts bring the scales to an exact balance by adding or deleting various sizes of the fisherman's split shot to a loop of filament thread hooked over the suspension point illustrated above.

- Place coin in the water pan on the left. When disturbance has settled, check the surface and edge of coin and pan for small air bubbles. These must be removed before proceeding.

- Counterbalance with large weight nearest the weight of the coin and keep adding smaller weights until both pans are brought to an exact center position.

Fractional weights should be applied with tweezers.

- The total will be the weight of the coin in water.

- Subtract the weight in water from the air or dry weight to determine the weight of the water displaced. Divide the air weight by the weight of the displaced water and the quotient in no more than three decimal places will be the Specific Gravity Value of the coin.

Note: Complete accuracy can be assured if this process is performed five times, using the best three out of five averages as the final figure.

Pure metals have a specific gravity value of their own and no two are alike. The percentage of a metal's specific gravity in a composition is determined by its percentage of the alloy. Example: A 1942 Jefferson nickel is 75 per cent copper and 25 per cent nickel. It has a specific gravity value of 8.015. This figure is a result of adding 75 per cent of the specific gravity for nickel (8.90) to 25 per cent of the specific gravity value of copper (8.96).

THE FOLLOWING table of Specific Gravity Values is official and should be used exclusive of all others in performing the above test.

"THE JOYS OF Christmas" is the theme for this year's Christmas Seal, designed by Rubidoux Johnson, a former resident of Evanston. The sled and snowman represent winter play outdoors, while the mailman delivers the message of Christmas in cards and gifts. The Schnauzer, a family pet, represents other living creatures and the delight they bring to young and old.

Suburbs to remain a lush industry market

by LEA TONKIN

Despite the double whammy of relatively tight money and skyrocketing costs expected to depress U. S. industrial development in 1975, the Northwest suburbs should stand out as an attractive location for industry.

That's the hopeful prediction of several area specialists who cite access to transportation and the available labor pool as strong boosters to the local economy.

"The Northwest suburban area is a leader in industrial development, and should continue because of access to transportation and other features," said Owen Pollard, director of area development for Commonwealth Edison Co. The Chicago area generally fares better than other major markets in the nation because of the diversification of industry, he said.

WHAT THIS WILL mean for area development next year is a less dramatic slowdown in new industrial construction than most other markets, with a 16 per cent decline forecast by Pollard.

The activity in new speculative building will be down next year," he said, "and the general ability of firms to move into larger places will be decreased as compared to 1974." The slow-downs reflect the tight short-term and long-term money markets, respectively. "I look at it this way," Pollard said, "Though we may be down to this degree in 1975, nationally the occupancy will be down by 42 per cent. We are one of the most healthy industrial real estate markets in the U. S."

Total new industrial occupancy in the Chicago metropolitan area from January through the end of November 1974 amounted to slightly more than 13 million square feet. The figure is 6 per cent below the comparable figure for 1973, said Pollard. He predicts a 15 million-square-foot figure for the entire year, for an overall decline of 3 to 4 per cent from 1973 activity.

The trend of 25 per cent new occupancy in the City of Chicago and 75 per cent in surrounding suburbs should continue, Pollard said. Vacancy is more prevalent in Chicago industrial facilities than in the suburbs. Pollard said there are 378 vacant industrial buildings in Chicago suburbs with 18 million square feet, compared to 356 vacant buildings with 23 million square feet in the City of Chicago.

ART PIPENHAGEN OF Smith-Pipenhagen Inc., Realtors, Arlington Heights, said the extremely tight long-term money market has eased, indicating a more favorable financing market for new industrial development. "I'm very optimistic about next year," he said. "Our business was never down, and now it's on the increase."

James Dana, a senior associate of Bennett & Kahnweiler Associates Inc., Elk Grove Village, said of activity in the Centex industrial parks in Elk Grove Village and Schaumburg. "You have to scramble for business. At least it's there — that's better than other markets around the country." It's a sign of the times that there are fewer speculative buildings going up in the suburban industrial parks, he said, "but we're still building 'spec' buildings, and leasing them." Soaring construction costs and tight money have cut into the new construction market, he said. Meanwhile the leasing asking price for leased space has jumped 30 to 40 per cent in some locations in the past 18 months.

The slowdown in new industrial development has not dampened the market for leased space in existing or old buildings, Dana said. He does not foresee a shortage of available industrial space in 1975, but expects a possible decline in raw land costs in some areas.

The U. S. economic trends and population shifts account for a positive outlook by employers seeking skilled and semi-skilled employees, Dana said. This viewpoint was seconded by Stanley Klyber of the Elk Grove Assn. of Industry and Commerce, who said the shortage of available workers has largely disappeared for many local companies. There are more than a thousand firms in the Centex park in Elk Grove Village and approximately 175 firms in the Schaumburg Centex site.

"As soon as the economy starts to improve, the firms will expand and look for space again," said Ronald Pollina, area research analyst for the Continental Illinois National Bank, Chicago. When this happens, the Northwest suburbs will likely pace Chicago area new industrial starts, he said. "As far as the Northwest suburbs is concerned, this has been for years, the major growth area for industrial development." Access to transportation, the nearby labor pool and the appeal of area communities account for the attraction, he said.

DESPITE THE APPEAL of Northwest suburbs as a center for jobs and industry, 1975 will be a slow development year until the economy starts to improve, Pollina said. "During a recession like this, you have a filtering out process," he said. "When things start to tighten up, only the best parks survive. Those with poorly located parks may sell off or just sit on it."

Construction costs rose 20 per cent during the past year, Pollina said. This has pushed up rental rates. For new buildings of approximately 100,000 square feet for example, the cost increased from an average of $1.40 to $1.65 a square foot. For existing buildings of the same size, average rental rates climbed from $1.20 to $1.40 a square foot.

The Chicago Assn. of Commerce and Industry report of new industrial construction for the first 10 months of 1974 indicates 528 projects valued at $407 million were reported. The figure compares with the 1973 10-month figures of 426 projects worth $317 million. Of the $407 million figure for 1974, suburban development accounts for $350 million.

View from the top: the Northwest suburbs set the pace for Chicago-area industrial development.

On the line: development means industry and jobs.

A break-in every 12 seconds

Hark! 'Tis the season for burglars to make merry

by DOROTHEA BROOKS

NEW YORK — They cover more homes faster than Santa Claus and always do their Christmas shopping early. Burglars, that is.

December is the peak month. Nearly 15 per cent more burglaries are committed than in any other month, with the take averaging $337 each.

Actually, many burglars seem to be prudent fellows who start their Christmas preparations early. November is the second highest month for their specialty.

Burglary, the country's second most frequent crime, averages an incident every 12 seconds with the economic loss amounting to $856 million in 1973, up $134 million over 1972's take. Well over half — $534 million — was from homes.

CAL MORTENSEN, president of Emhart Corp.'s Kwikset lock division, reports, surprisingly, daylight hours do not inhibit burglars. His analysis of 1973's annual crime report shows more than half of all residential burglaries took place in the daytime.

"As a matter of fact," he said, "the statistics show those who break and enter homes and apartments tend to 'work' the same hours kept by most employed persons. In the 1968-73 period daytime residential burglary increased 56 per cent. It rose 9 per cent last year," he said.

The daytime allure, of course, reflects the fact an unattended apartment or home is a relatively easy score for criminals.

Pinkerton's, the security specialists, concur that winter is "happy hunting time" for household burglars, especially in the north where winter is vacation time for an increasing number of families.

JOHN R. HITT, director of security for Pinkerton's, urges householders to make an effort always to give the impression there is someone at home, whether you're gone for a day or longer. "In view of the increase in home burglaries," he said, "giving the impression people are home is of paramount importance. The objective is to create uncertainty in a prowler's mind if he is considering forcible entry at your house."

With snow on the ground, he said, professional burglars look first for houses with unshoveled walks and driveways. "Lack of footprints is a sure sign no one is at home."

Hitt suggested the following precautions for homeowners who will be gone for more than a day:

- Hire a neighborhood youngster to shovel the walk and driveway in the event of snow and ask him also to check the doors and windows; he will leave his footprints around the house.

- Ask a neighbor to use your driveway for parking. This will make it appear you are home.

- Use automatic-timing or electric-eye devices to operate several house lights. A lighted house is less apt to be burglarized than one that is dark.

- Leave curtains open, at least part way. Closed blinds make an effective screen for a burglar once he is inside.

- Close and lock all doors, including garage, tool shed and other accessory buildings. Use pin tumbler, cylinder locks on outside entrances and safety latches on windows. Main entrances should be bolted as well as locked.

One burglar, Hitt said, admitted he would check garbage cans before he was convinced a family was gone. One solution, he suggested, is to move garbage cans indoors. "The homeowner's security plan should be thorough."

He recommends vacationers notify their local police department of departure date, date of return and where they can be reached in an emergency. Police also should be told what other precautions you have taken: what automatic lighting devices are in use; who has been hired to shovel snow; which neighbors have a key to the house.

And, of course, arrangements should be made to stop deliveries or have a neighbor make a daily pick up for you. It goes without saying, no notes should be tacked to the door. And, don't ever leave an emergency key "hidden" outdoors.

MORTENSEN NOTED, however, that only 18 per cent of unlawful entries resulted from carelessness. Of the total, 75 per cent resulted from the use of force and only 7 per cent were thwarted. "It would indicate," he said, "lack of adequate home security, especially strong locks, contributes to theft."

Mortensen said, "Since burglary is a crime of stealth, remove that element, as you would if a burglar had to use repeated force on a lock, and the burglar may move on to easier pickings."

He advised installation of deadbolts or replacement of old style, worn-out locksets to discourage the average burglar, especially the amateur, who is on the increase.

The cost, he said, is relatively minor. A homeowner can substantially increase the security of his outside doors for as little as $15 a door. All the old, worn-out locksets in an average six-room house can be replaced with units of the latest design for $100 or less, he said.

Mobile home industry enthused with guaranteed securities plan

The recent announcement that the Federal National Mortgage Association would soon inaugurate a program of insuring stand-by commitments for the purchase of government guaranteed securities backed by pools of mobile home loans was greeted with enthusiasm by the mobile home industry.

"The entry of this prestigious organization into the secondary market for mobile home loans is an indication of support for our industry. It will encourage more of our members to use the Ginnie Mae program. More money will be available to families seeking loans for the purchase of mobile homes," said John Trask (DMH Co.), chairman of the Washington Affairs Committee for NIMMA, TCA and SEMHIL.

The date for the start of the new program is subject to clearance by the Securities and Exchange Commission. Under the program FNMA will issue six-months stand-by commitments to buy GNMA securities at yields below those required for commitments issued for the purchase of site-built homes and for which it will charge a fee of one-half of one per cent of the amount of the commitment.

"Ginnie Mae securities" are securities guaranteed as to the timely payment of interest and principal by the Government National Mortgage Association, an agency of the Department of Housing and Urban Development. To date, only $78 million of these securities have been issued to finance mobile home purchases, compared to the more than $12 billion issued to finance the construction of homes and apartments.

"The new FNMA program cannot help but have a favorable impact on our industry, and on mobile home financing because of the creation of a new market where GNMA securities can be sold. They will certainly be more attractive as investments," Trask noted.

Under the new program, only mobile homes financed under Title 1 of the National Housing Act will be covered. The Federal Housing Administration insures both mobile home and home improvement loans under Title 1.

With approximately 9,500 approved Title 1 lenders in the United States, only eight have used the GNMA Mobile Home Security Program, largely due to the lack of a stand-by commitment program such as that proposed by FNMA. Now issuers will be assured of a place to market the securities.

Title 1 lenders are chiefly commercial banks and finance companies, although a number of other types of institutions are included.

Real estate facts

President, Northwest Suburban Board of REALTORS®

What does it mean to refinance your home — and is it worthwhile?

These are questions a prospective home buyer may well ask during times of tight money and high interest rates. In considering the purchase of a home, he may look beyond high interest rates to a time when he could obtain a lower mortgage rate by refinancing his home — obtaining a new loan which pays off the balance of the old loan.

Is it worthwhile? Well, that depends on the particular situation. But authorities in the field do offer several rules of thumb for prospective home buyers — and present homeowners — to consider.

Before refinancing can be meaningful, most mortgage lenders feel interest rates must drop at least 0.5 per cent — and some say more than 1 per cent. Furthermore, the mortgagor, or homeowner, must plan to stay in the house for a "reasonable" length of time if refinancing is to be advantageous. "Reasonable" means three or four years to some, longer to others.

The mortgagor has the option to go to either the old lender or a new one to get a new loan. Most authorities say he should try the original lender first. Lenders are usually willing — though perhaps reluctant — to renegotiate a home loan. No knowledgeable lender will renegotiate down to the new market level of interest rates. Instead, he may agree to drop to a rate that's 0.5 per cent above the current level. Furthermore, he'll want a variable rate, so that if market levels climb again, he'll be protected.

The variable rate protects you, too, since the rate on a refinanced loan isn't allowed to go above the original rate. And, should market rates decline the rate could fall further.

What costs are involved in refinancing? The mortgagor usually pays a penalty fee plus costs for a new title search, new title insurance, recordation taxes and settlement fees. Lenders say a homeowner should figure on paying roughly half the original settlement costs.

And what about savings? A 1 per cent decline in the interest rate is equal to about 72 cents per $1,000 of mortgage, or almost $29 a month on a $40,000 mortgage.

To determine whether refinancing would be worthwhile, you must figure future savings and then determine what it would cost to refinance in terms of immediate dollars. Remember, a loan for more than 80 per cent of the value of the house generally won't be refinanced until the balance drops below 80 per cent of the current market value. The only way to bring the balance down is to pay out extra cash at the time of refinancing.

Refinancing isn't necessarily advantageous. Not everyone has the necessary cash — settlement costs and money to reduce the mortgage balance — to obtain a lower interest. And even if the cash is available, it may be put to better use in an investment that could be earning interest.

There are many factors to consider before deciding to refinance — and it's best not to make a decision on your own. Consult your lender or a realtor; they are experts in the field of financing.

Check plywood surface

Since surface appearance is the best guide for telling you when exterior plywood needs refinishing, you should periodically check the surface for signs of deterioration. Before refinishing, you must properly clean the surface. Here's how to do it.

Previously stained plywood, particularly textured surfaces — Wash with a mild detergent solution. Rinse with clear water. Allow the surface to dry thoroughly. In stubborn cases, scrubbing with a soft-bristle brush (non-metallic) may be necessary.

Previously painted plywood — Remove all loose paint, surface dirt and chalk. For textured plywood, loose paint usually can be satisfactorily removed with a stiff brush. For sanded plywood, remove loose paint by sanding.

If the surface is severely checked

(slight breaks in the paint film), fill them with a patching compound. Mildew may also pose a problem. To remove mildew, scrub the area with this solution:

Two-thirds cup trisodium phosphate;
One-third cup powdered all-purpose laundry detergent;
One quart household bleach;
Three quarts warm water.
Rinse the area with clear water. The surface should be completely dry before refinishing.

Expert forecasts strong year-end market sales

The prospect of a very active year-end market for used homes in the Chicago area sparked by an improving supply of mortgage funds, lower downpayment requirements and attractive prices is foreseen by one of the area's leading real estate authorities.

"For the first time in a number of months we're starting to get quotes of 90 per cent mortgage loans in scattered suburban locations," reports Robert G. Walters, vice president of Baird & Warner, Inc. and general manager of its residential sales division. The 119-year-old company has 30 Chicago and suburban offices.

Walters believes that the increasing availability of mortgage funds will brighten the lending picture and stimulate real estate transactions for the balance of the year. He also thinks prices will remain stable.

"Lending institutions are reporting a dramatic slowdown in the net outflow of savings funds because declining interest rates are making competitive money market instruments, such as Treasury bills, less attractive," said Walters.

"In fact, some savings and loans report a positive inflow beginning in October. There is no question that the scattered 20 per cent mortgages we've started to encounter early in November mirror an improved supply of funds at major mortgage lending institutions. We hope and expect this to continue and spread."

Walters doesn't believe that interest rates will fall very quickly even as the supply of funds improves, but he doesn't think that will hurt the market very much.

"There are a lot of families who can support the monthly cost of operating a house even at 9.5 per cent interest, which is still lower than the cost of a mortgage in many other states. These families were knocked out of the housing picture mainly because downpayments soared to 30 and 40 per cent or higher, not because the interest rate ceiling was lifted. We think many will become actively interested as credit becomes available at a price they can afford," he said.

People who have to move will be helped if credit requirements are relaxed to enable 10 to 20 per cent downpayments. Others who might have been thinking of postponing buying might be well to take a break in holiday festivities to do their looking now because conditions are quite favorable, he added.

The price of existing homes has leveled off as buyers have dwindled and could be at a plateau until January, Walters suggests.

"With the tight credit requirements which have prevailed, the number of qualified buyers in the market has declined and prices, consequently, tapered off. We think prices will hold for November and December but they'll probably turn up again around Jan. 15, which is always the beginning of a new selling season."

He adds that the best strategy for buyers is to do business now, if possible. After mid-January, Walters contends, sellers tend to get a little more stubborn about price as the number of prospects increases.

Walters rules out the likelihood of prices coming down.

"The price of building materials is rising and the major labor unions are negotiating new contracts next spring. This means higher costs for new homes and the price of existing homes invariably keeps pace."

Starck names co-winners

Co-winners were named for the salesperson of the month for November at Robert W. Starck & Co., Realtors. Nancy Jordan and Jim Markgraf, from the

Get the light you pay for

Get all the light you pay for — that's the advice to home owners and apartment dwellers offered by Herman Serelka, Commonwealth Edison Co. lighting engineer.

"We don't have an energy shortage. But we are concerned about efficiency and we think our customers are concerned about energy efficiency," Serelka said. "Use more efficient lighting sources, particularly in areas where the amount of illumination is the greatest."

Consider the "task areas" of your home for improved lighting, he said. Sewing, food preparation and reading areas, the workshop and laundry are areas where efficient light sources are particularly important.

Among his suggestions:

• Fluorescent lamps are four times more efficient than incandescent bulbs. A fluorescent lighting fixture in the kitchen for example, will flood work area with light more efficiently than a fixture utilizing incandescent bulbs.

• A small mercury lamp will give more light, at lower cost than incandescent bulbs in outdoor fixtures.

There is one catch: the cost of conversion to the alternate source.

• An incandescent bulb filled with krypton gas is available. It is more efficient, yet it costs more than the more widely used incandescent bulbs.

• Commonwealth Edison Co. electric service customers may choose the utility's optional light bulb service. A comparison of retail prices for light bulbs with the Edison charge of up to 17 cents a month for 10 bulbs every two months may indicate a money-saving decision.

• Consider dimmers in home lighting. The customer can dial down the level of illumination and conserve energy.

• Fit the amount of light to the visual task. Don't use a big, central light when a small fixture would do job.

"Light is the most visible energy source," said Serelka. This means a customer intent on conservation may flip off the lights without consideration of more effective measures. "What I'm saying is that in our accent on conservation we still have to consider the human element," Serelka said. Good lighting gives a psychological lift, and that's something we can all use, he said.

Quinlan & Tyson will open 11th office in Buffalo Grove

Quinlan and Tyson, Inc., Realtors, will open its eleventh residential sales office in Buffalo Grove by early January.

Robert Griffith

Grove, Wheeling, Long, Grove, Arlington Heights, Palatine and the surrounding area, is located at No. 11 in the Buffalo Grove Mall Shopping Center. The office faces on Dundee Road, at the new Arlington Heights Road.

Robert Griffith, has been named sales manager of the office. It was announced by William B. Martin, senior vice president and general manager-residential sales.

"Under Bob Griffith's leadership, we expect the new Buffalo Grove area office to play a vital role in maintaining Quinlan and Tyson as the leading real estate firm in the combined north shore and northwest suburban marketing area," said Martin.

Griffith brings an outstanding record of success in real estate sales to his new position. He topped the $2 million sales mark this year in September, and in 1973 he sold more than $2.5 million to earn the "Salesman of the Year" Award in the Arlington Heights-Mt. Prospect area office.

In 1972, Griffith topped $1 million in sales to win the Quinlan and Tyson Award of Excellence for the best first full year in the real estate business. Prior to joining Quinlan and Tyson, he was president of his own firm which specialized in the real estate service field.

Griffith is a member of the Arlington Heights Board of Local Improvements. He is a former treasurer of the Arlington Heights Caucus and former president of the Northgate Civic Association. A member of St. Edna's Catholic Church, he is a commander in the U.S. Naval Reserve.

Is present home adequate?

Decisions, decisions.

"Frustration for many — and particularly so for today's retirees."

So observes Marshall C. Dennison, president and chief executive officer of Associated Mortgage Companies, Inc., Philadelphia-based national real estate financing and servicing organization.

"The biggest decision they face is whether to stay in — or move from their present home," Dennison says.

Where to go — how to live — these are matters that take on great significance when one retires.

"If you answer yes to most of the following questions, chances are you will be better off staying where you are for those 'Golden Years'," Dennison comments.

Determine the annualized expenses of your present home. Can you meet them for now and for the immediate future?

Are you free and clear of mortgage payments? Are taxes on the home likely to remain at about the same levels?

If home is an apartment, will the rent be within your means on retirement income?

Are your present living conditions satisfactory and are you content with your shopping facilities and the neighborhood?

Are friends and relatives nearby? Dennison suggests that you also examine your attitudes on the following before deciding to stay or move:

Is the house or apartment too large for your actual needs?

Do severe weather conditions cause problems in heating or cooling?

Is surface transportation to shopping facilities, church and professional offices adequate?

Are there adequate recreational facilities nearby?

Does your present location give you an opportunity to be active in retirement, seek a part-time job and keep in the mainstream of life?

"After noting your reaction to these facts, consider your emotional attachment. Moving may cause a feeling of depression — of loss. Yet, relocation may be the only sensible answer.

"Remember that your home takes on new importance after retirement. Whatever or wherever, it should be a happy place — of your own choice," Dennison concludes.

Baird & Warner salesman tops $1 million

Ron Moravick, sales member of Baird & Warner's Arlington Heights office, 220 E. Northwest Hwy., has been cited as a member of Baird & Warner's Million Dollar Club for 1974 on the basis of participating in more than $1 million of completed real estate sales, according to Howard E. Kagay, local sales manager.

Moravick earned membership in the Illinois Association of Realtors' Million Dollar Club in 1973, and has been designated a Star Salesman by Baird & Warner in 1974. He is a member of the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors.

Home prices still rising

by LEROY POPE

NEW YORK (UPI) — One of New York's larger savings banks has quietly begun making short-term "balloon" mortgage loans for home purchases.

This move by East River Savings Bank could foreshadow the first radical change in the business since the Roosevelt administration introduced the long-term level payment mortgage in the early 1930s. Before then, the 5 or 10-year rollover mortgage was the usual practice.

The homeowner borrowed 80 to 75 per cent of the price of the house for 5 to 10 years. He paid the interest semiannually or quarterly but made hardly any payments on the principal. When the mortgage came due, he had to "roll it over," that is, get it renewed if he couldn't pay it off. Not only was the interest rate often changed but the homeowner might have to pay a lending institution a bonus to refinance it.

IN THE PANIC OF 1931, several million American families had their homes foreclosed under old-fashioned mortgages. The long-term level payment loan was the ideal solution to that day's problem. A single monthly payment took care of interest, amortization of principal, taxes and sometimes insurance. When the mortgage expired, the house was paid for.

But the inflation of the past five years has dealt cruel blows to the level-payment mortgage, boosting interest rates to record levels, creating a shortage of mortgage funds and making it difficult to buy or sell homes. Investors with the huge amounts of money the savings banks and other lending institutions need are reluctant to tie their money up for 15 to 30 years at fixed rates.

The level-payment mortgage has been criticized as workable only in a nation and in times where mortgage money is plentiful and interest rates change little, which no longer is true anywhere.

Recently at Boca Raton, Fla., Ira O. Scott Jr., executive vice president of the Savings Bank Assn. of New York State told the association's annual convention that institutions no longer can bear the risks of borrowing short-term money and lending it on long terms at fixed rates.

HE SAID THE ONLY solution to recurrent shortages of mortgage funds is to follow the example of the Europeans and Canadians and adopt either variable interest long term mortgages or return to rollover short term mortgages.

East River's "balloon" mortgage is not the old-style rollover mortgage. New York law forbids savings banks to guarantee refinancing of a mortgage when it falls due. Also, the borrower does make level payments on the balloon mortgage and pays off a little of the principal. Nevertheless, a big principal balance is left when the mortgage falls due and this must be paid off or refinanced.

Balloon mortgages of this type have been issued in Canada for years and a few smaller lending institutions in the United States have been making them. Canadian law, however, permits the lending institutions to guarantee they will refinance the balloon mortgage balance when it falls due.

A FEW VARIABLE-INTEREST long-term home mortgages also have been written in this country following the British practice. These allow interest on existing mortgages to be raised or lowered to prevailing rates at any time with the consent of the regulatory authorities.

The British say their variable-rate system not only keeps mortgage money available but it helps hold interest rates down by allowing the lending banks to collect the same average rate from both old and new mortgages instead of 4 to 6 per cent on old mortgages and 10 per cent on new ones.

New uses for large estates

The family estate — it's becoming increasingly difficult to handle in today's inflationary times.

"Owners beset with spiraling maintenance costs are combating these problems by putting the old homestead to novel uses," observes Marshall C. Dennison, president and chief executive officer of Associated Mortgage Companies, Inc., a Philadelphia-based national real estate and financing organization.

Dennison notes that these estates are often being converted into multi-family dwellings — four-, five- or six-plexes.

Restoration is usually from top to bottom. Bathrooms and kitchens and extra closets are added where appropriate. The goal: setting up each unit as a separate and complete entity. The owner will then rent the apartments — he now has all the advantages of income-producing property.

Still another new function for yesterday's mansions is as comfortable and spacious conference centers. The frequent case: a large corporation will purchase an estate and convert it into a permanent site for meetings of all kinds or elaborate multi-corporate conference spots.

Dennison points out that an alternate choice for an estate owner is to retain the homestead and hire a management team to operate the newly converted conference headquarters. The manager in turn handles leasing of the building to various business organizations for a wide variety of functions.

"This may well be the best of both worlds — the owner can maintain control, yet leave the day-to-day operational chores to a qualified managerial team."

He comments further that the current nostalgia craze has given yet another new life to the old mansion. How? Innovative builders purchase the home and adjacent acreage and proceed to erect an entire new town surrounding it — following, of course, the architectural style of the original edifice.

"The result: a planned development with a turn-of-the-century flavor in its village center."

"Whether as an apartment house, conference site or community center — with a little dose of the 'three R's' — rehabilitation, restoration and rejuvenation — yesterday's family estates are enjoying a renaissance as today's true multi-purpose structures," Dennison concludes.

Verbic was asked to present some of the methods his firm has used to obtain mortgage money for clients.

The five avenues to financing which Verbic presented were use of the current mortgage, employer banking relationships, beneficiary banking relationships, pledges and second mortgages.

Miller sales increase

Miller Builders, Inc. currently building subdivisions in Schaumburg and Arlington Heights, has reported a pickup in housing sales during October and November.

The Skokie based builder and land developer delivered 263 housing units worth $13,540,000 during the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1974, compared to delivery of 297 units worth $14,830,000 for the same period a year ago.

However, 34 new housing contracts were signed in October and November, more than double the October-November sales a year ago. The company also has a backlog of 105 housing units sold but not yet delivered with a retail value of approximately $5,800,000, about the same as last year at this time.

Albert J. Miller, chairman of the board, observed that the firm "is holding its own" in a severely depressed housing market. He added, "both present and future conditions dictate the need to trim and hold down costs." Noting that mortgage money is becoming more available and that construction costs appear to be leveling off, Miller said he was confident that housing would begin its recovery in mid 1975. The company has just arranged to provide the necessary mortgage financing for its home purchasers for the coming year. "In the present financial market builders must secure long term mortgage commitments for their purchasers. Only the stronger and experienced builders will be able to qualify for these long term arrangements," Miller said. The company has also completed negotiations to provide the necessary lines of credit and financing for its operations for the next 12 months.

Miller Builders, Inc. currently is developing eight other housing subdivisions in the Chicago suburbs of Lombard, Naperville, Glenview, Libertyville, Vernon Hills, Westmont and Hanover Park.

Three more developments are in the planning stage, including a 439 acre townhome, single-family home, and industrial park project in Country Club Hills.

The firm is a subsidiary of Miller Associated Industries, Inc., a diversified development organization with major operations in Illinois and Florida.

Holiday lighting OK in 1974

Federal Energy Administrator John C. Sawhill announced this fall that holiday lighting will not be singled out this year for voluntary or involuntary curtailment.

"Our slogan, "Don't be Fuelish," means be prudent — perhaps fewer Christmas lights indoors and out," Saw-hill said. "Sound energy conservation practices must continue. We must all reduce commercial lighting, adjust heating and cooling thermostats, improve home and commercial building insulation, reduce our driving, and strictly observe the 55 miles-per-hour speed limit. If we do all of these things, we will save enough energy to permit the decorative lighting which means so much to so many Americans on our holidays."

Sawhill has released a brochure, "Tips for Energy Savers," including a suggestion to "Reduce or eliminate ornamental lights except on special holidays or festive occasions."

"Christmas is not only one of our most festive occasions," Sawhill said, "the holiday selling season also is recognized for its importance to the economy — locally and nationally — and this need not and should not detract from the religious event being observed. Certainly, decorative lighting, itself, can uplift the spirit and add to the enjoyment of the holidays in our homes, stores, streets and neighborhoods."

"I suggest that we can have our holiday lights and save, too, by taking sensible and tasteful — but not wasteful energy conservation measures. One way to do this is to use low-wattage "cooler" and midget lamps on Christmas trees and in other decorative lighting. They use considerably less electricity than larger bulbs."

Another way to compensate for both outdoor and indoor holiday lighting is to turn off regular lights in the same room or area while decorative lamps are on. Prudence also is called for in the lighting of community trees and other outdoor displays. This constraint need not be anything more demanding than simply turning them off nightly at a reasonable hour."

You won't find guys like me selling pencils on street corners. We're skilled, able-bodied workers. We're industrial designers. Salespeople. Secretaries. Managers. Accountants. Technicians. Blue collar and white collar. Unfortunately, though, too many of us are unemployed. And the irony of it is, it's not that men and women like yourself don't want to hire us, it's simply that you don't know how to go about it. Every state in this country has a Department of Vocational Rehabilitation. Its function is not only to evaluate a person's disabilities and to help him rehabilitate himself. But to help place him in a job that allows him to fulfill his capabilities. If you are interested in tapping your state's supply of hard-working, capable men and women, write to your State Director of Vocational Rehabilitation. His office is located in your state capital. Tell him what kind of business you're in. What job openings need to be filled. The background, experience and skills required. He'll be more than happy to put you in touch with the right people for your company or organization. People who will appreciate the opportunity to help your company grow. Who will work to their fullest potential. And help your company — and our nation — prosper. Write: Director, State Department of Vocational Rehabilitation at your state capital.

Briefly on business

Program honors Motorola founder

Harper College in Palatine, together with Western Illinois University, recently established a program recognizing the contribution of Motorola founder Paul Galvin to business in Illinois and the nation.

An initial part of the program was the induction of Galvin posthumously into the Illinois Business Hall of Fame.

Don Holland of Harper College, one of the project coordinators, said Galvin had a management philosophy that was "people-oriented" and "based on the dignity and ability of coworkers." Galvin was among the first corporate executives to recognize alcoholism as a disease and to support company programs for treatment.

Galvin, who died in 1969, was named to the Hall for business success and the manner in which he achieved this success, Holland said.

Harper College personnel will continue to offer information on the contributions of Galvin to the business community, including an exhibit in the college learning resources center.

Motorola Inc., will move its world corporate headquarters to Schaumburg in 1975, adjacent to its communications division facilities. Galvin's son, Robert Galvin, is Motorola board chairman.

Ferris to head United

Change in the executive lineup: Richard J. Ferris will become president of United Airlines Jan. 1. The announcement was made by Edward E. Carlson, current president, who will become chairman of the board and continue as chief executive officer of the Elk Grove Township-based airline.

Ferris was elected president and director of United at a recent board of directors' meeting. He was elected earlier this year to his present position as group vice president marketing services.

Carlson announced plans to retire from active leadership of United in April 1976, although no plans have been made with respect to retirement from the UAL Inc., holding company.

In related moves, United executive vice president and chief executive officer Charles McElean was elected to succeed Carlson as president of UAL Inc., and named a member of the UAL board of directors. He also was elected by the board of directors to the new position of vice chairman.

Percy A. Wood, group vice president of operations services for United, was named executive vice president and chief operating officer, and was elected to the board of directors.

Mechlin Moore, senior vice president, external affairs, was elected group vice president of marketing services.

James J. Harrigan, senior vice president and general manager, Western Division, was elected group vice president of operations services.

Bank declares dividend

The board of directors of the First National Bank of Des Plaines recently declared a regular fourth-quarter dividend of 20 cents a share plus an added 35 cents a share dividend. It was payable Dec. 17 to shareholders of record Dec. 13. Arthur Welas, bank president, said total dividends declared in 1974 amount to $1.15 a share compared to $1.10 a share in 1973.

Inflation's one-two punch: low buying power, high taxes

Inflation adds two taxes to compound the money problems we all face.

The simple way to figure the first tax is to consider our total household income at $1,035 billion. Let's say the rate of inflation for 1974 averages 10 per cent — and that appears low. The first inflation tax results from lower purchasing power of the dollar. Thus, all of us will pay $103.5 billion in inflation taxes for 1974 — about $50 for every person in the nation.

The inflation tax results because our federal government pays out more than it takes in. No family, business, city, school district, or state can consistently pay more than it collects. But our federal government can and does simply by pumping more cash and credit into the monetary system.

With more dollars floating around, prices rise. What you can buy with a dollar declines, and the difference amounts to an inflation tax. While this explanation of an inflation tax may appear simplistic, it points out a major cause of inflation — excessive federal government spending without total funding.

By refusing to raise taxes to pay for legislated programs — and the Vietnam war is a gross example — Congress has passed along the cost indirectly through the inflation tax. Our current high rate of inflation results from years of deficit spending that finally has caught up with us. Some doing without will be necessary to catch up with past irresponsible spending.

A SECOND inflation tax is written into the income tax tables and sneaks up on every wage earner when more dollars appear in his pay envelope. With basically the same deductions and exemptions, more of the higher gross comes down as taxable income. With more income, you're into higher tax brackets.

More and more workers, clerks, professionals, and others are rising into the higher tax brackets. Federal income taxes for a couple filing a joint return begin at 14 per cent for a taxable income of $600. Increased rates move up first by single percentages, two points, three points, and four points at $20,000.

Thus, while gross pay may jump by 9 to 11 per cent a year as workers try to keep up with inflation, such "catchups" are doomed because a bigger and bigger cut flows into the U. S. Treasury.

Buying power is the only meaningful way to express income these days. But

Managing your family's money

by Merle E. Dowd attempting to compare buying power today against 10 years ago runs into the problem of dollar values. The dollar has been so debased that comparing today with 10 years ago resembles the old apples and oranges bit — or attempting to compare the buying power of the yen to a dollar.

A common tool for comparing buying power in the nation is to deflate the dollar to a specific year and then cite differences in terms of constant dollars. The effect of higher taxes also must be figured into comparisons as incomes rise into higher rate brackets.

RECENTLY, economists compared buying power between 1964 and 1974 by adjusting higher incomes for both inflation and income taxes. If you start with a gross income of $10,000 in 1964, you could end up with $8,826 after paying $1,200 in income taxes and $174 for Social Security. In 1974 after a succession of pay increases, you could be earning about $15,400 but take home only $12,755 after deductions of $2,645 for income and Social Security taxes.

But, when this figure is deflated to account for rising prices, you end up with buying power equivalent to $8,097 1964 dollars — a loss of purchasing power of $529 after 10 years of running after more dollars that individually buy less.

Inflation robs all of us directly and indirectly — and some more than others. Our national productivity has been decreasing for the past two years and with it has come a decrease in buying power. Unless productivity increases, the average family can look to decreasing buying power. More dollars without a similar increase in goods and services only means higher prices — not a higher standard of living.

Grim picture for wells

Suburbs face fight for lake water

by ANNE SLAVICEK

Suburbs may not have to wait until their wells run dry before obtaining water from Lake Michigan, but they probably will have an uphill battle before lake water flows from their taps.

At a preliminary meeting Wednesday to set up procedures for a Feb. 20 lake water allocation session, hearing officer Berry Tucker said suburbs "probably won't have to pump the aquifers dry before they get Lake Michigan water."

Tucker, a technical adviser for the Lake Michigan Water Diversion office of the Illinois Dept. of Transportation, talked with a crowd of lawyers and suburban public works directors and explained how the hearings will be run. Wednesday's meeting was set up by the Illinois Division of Waterways.

The proposals, the first since a Lake County circuit court threw out an allocation plan drawn up in 1972, could take as long as 1½ years to complete, according to estimates of some officials at the meeting.

A RECENT REPORT by the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission indicates two million persons in the Chicago region are dependent on well water, and deficiencies are forecast for northwest Cook County, eastern DuPage County, Elgin, Aurora, Joliet and Bloom Township in southeastern Cook County.

After allocations are set up, suburban communities will probably find themselves squabbling over the leftovers, said attorney Clifford Weaver, who represents the DAMP water commission. Weaver predicted that Chicago and the Metropolitan Sanitary Dist. will claim most of the available water.

DAMP is a commission originally made up of Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Palatine, with a goal of bringing lake water to the Northwest suburbs — an area NIPCC said may have problems in the future. Des Plaines has since withdrawn from the commission.

With high water causing damage along the Lake Michigan shoreline, a restriction on lake water use might seem unnecessary, but an international treaty with Canada and a 1967 U.S. Supreme Court decision set stringent limits on how much water anyone in Illinois can remove from the lake.

THE PROBLEM began at the turn of the century when the MSD reversed the flow of the Chicago River to keep sewage from polluting the lake. Causing the lake to flow into the river changed the natural drainage and the MSD was sued in 1922 by Wisconsin and other Great Lakes states. The suit resulted in a federal limit on the amount of water Illinois could draw from the lake.

The limit — 3,200 cubic feet per second — is now shared by communities that use lake water for drinking, and the MSD, which uses lake water to dilute sewage effluent from treatment plants that empty into the Chicago River.

The allocation of water is complicated further because the Illinois share includes an estimate of how much rainwater would flow into the lake naturally if the river had not been reversed. That amount is subtracted from the state's usable allocation.

Suburban representatives asked Wednesday if their communities will be required to seek lake water allocations now, even though their communities won't need it until 1985 or 1990. A Downer's Grove spokesman also asked if his community will be forced to try to prove that other towns are wasting lake water before his village could get its own allocation.

'Inflation fighter'

THE NEW McDonnell Douglas DC-9 Series 50 jetliner leaves the runway Tuesday on its maiden flight. With the fuselage stretched to accommodate five more rows of passengers, the plane has been called the "inflation fighter" because of low seat-mile operating costs.

Price rollbacks to even score: U.S.

'Oil users overcharged $145.5 million'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government says its auditors have discovered $145.5 million in apparent overcharges by oil refineries that will, for the most part, be returned to customers by price rollbacks.

The Federal Energy Administration also said Tuesday that the auditors disallowed some $330 million in costs the refineries were carrying on their books and which likely would have gone into computation of future prices.

FEA officials said the findings of the audit, the second refinery audit cycle to be conducted, included $17.5 million in overcharges by three of the nation's biggest petroleum firms, Exxon, Mobil Oil Corp. and Standard Oil of Ohio (SOHIO).

THE AGENCY SAID SOHIO had been ordered to roll back prices worth $10 million, Exxon $8.9 million and Mobil, $600,000.

Mobil and Exxon are appealing the rulings, which involve their operations in Puerto Rico.

The FEA said 12 other companies had signed consent agreements to voluntarily roll back or adjust prices to cover $104 million in overcharges. In addition, two unnamed firms were cited for $24 million in "probable violations."

Percy seeks to cut oil use, asks 10c-a-gallon gas tax

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., today proposed five measures to cut U.S. oil consumption by 10 percent, including a 10-cent-a-gallon gasoline tax.

Percy told a news conference his one-year program "could break the grip of worldwide inflation and recession and ease the threat of collapse of the world monetary order."

Percy's proposed 10-cent gas tax would increase to 20 cents in 1978.

He also proposed a tax incentive program for new car purchases based on fuel economy, repeal of the deductibility of state and local gas taxes, strict enforcement of the 55-m.p.h. speed limit and abolition of the highway trust fund.

Percy's gas tax hike included a tax credit on the first 500 gallons of gasoline used. For low income persons the credit would amount to a refund of the additional tax on the first 500 gallons of gas, whether or not they had any other tax liability.

Percy said the average driver in this country uses 500 gallons of gasoline a year.

He said the Highway Trust Fund should be abolished because it has "discouraged" development of mass transportation.

"I am aware that some of the measures I am advocating initially will be burdensome," he said. "But we all must take sacrifices now to avoid economic disaster later."

An FEA spokesman classified most of the overcharges as "accounting errors, so on and so forth" that brought no complaint from the companies when they were spotted by federal examiners.

Companies involved in the voluntary rollback order were: Kerr-McGee, Skelly Oil, Murphy Oil, Phillips Petroleum, Amerada-Hess, Texaco, Delta Refining, Sun Oil, Getty Oil, Shell Oil, Charter Oil and Atlantic-Richfield.

High cost of oil blamed

U.S. balance of payments sinks to near-record low

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. balance of payments sank to a near-record $3.6 billion deficit between July and September with the high cost of imported oil responsible for most of the slump, the government reported Wednesday.

The Commerce Dept. said the "basic balance," technically known as the balance on current account and long-term capital, dropped another $1.1 billion in the red in the third quarter from the $2.5 billion deficit in the April-June quarter.

The basic balance is considered the most comprehensive of several balance-of-payment measures.

The negative third-quarter swing was eclipsed only by a $3.9 billion deficit in the first quarter of 1972.

THE HAMMERLOCK on petroleum prices by the cartel of oil exporting nations has cut deeply into the financial security of most industrialized nations, including the United States.

This rapid and unprecedented shift of wealth to the Arab states and other oil-rich nations is now beginning to filter back to the consuming countries in various ways.

Assistant Treasury Sec. Charles A. Cooper told a House Foreign Affairs subcommittee Wednesday, "All the evidence suggests that these countries have behaved as prudent, conservative investors usually behave, choosing their markets and their investment instruments to provide safety as well as income."

NONETHELESS, this reshuffling in the wealth of nations has put Italy and a handful of other countries in serious economic straits and the effect on the United States was graphically illustrated in the latest balance of payments figures.

A big part of the deepening deficit was the previously recorded third quarter trade deficit in which the value of imports exceeded exports by $2.6 billion. This imbalance largely reflected the four-fold increase in prices being paid by U.S. countries for foreign oil.

On top of this, the department reported a $1 billion third quarter increase in the flow of dollars abroad in the form of net long-term private capital outflows.

MOST OF THIS outflow resulted from a $1.7 billion surplus to a $5 million deficit, in the category known as "foreign direct investment in the United States." The key factor here was a payment of something more than $1.7 billion by an unidentified U.S. oil company to a foreign affiliate. The overseas recipient was understood to be Aramco Arabian-American Oil Co., the umbrella organization of U.S. oil firms that deals with Saudi Arabia.

The basic balance reflects receipts in payments for exports and imports of merchandise, services such as travel, transportation and insurance and for investment income.

Big gold rush: price soars to $189.75 an ounce

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Investors staged one of the year's biggest gold rushes today, sending the metal's price soaring to $189.75 an ounce in London and Zurich, only $1 from the all-time high of last Nov. 18. The dollar plunged again on most international exchanges.

The gold rush, fueled by persistent reports that Arab states were seeking to corner the bullion market, gained impetus from the U.S.-French agreement that governments should be able to revalue their reserves at free market prices, dealers in London, Brussels and Paris said.

The demand for gold and a general disillusionment with the bleak state of the American economy sent the dollar to new record low in Zurich and to lows for the year in Paris and Brussels.

The pound sterling, suffering a two-week decline, gained slightly over the dollar but fell against most other major currencies.

THE DOLLAR registered its worst fall in Zurich, dropping overnight from 2.5515 Swiss francs to another record low of 2.5325. It fell in Brussels from 36.95 to 36.92 Belgian francs and in Paris from 4.490 to 4.485 French francs — both 13-month lows.

The dollar's fall to 2.42 marks in Frankfurt marked its worst day in seven months on that market. It registered a five-month low in Milan, falling overnight from 635.50 lire to 634.50.

In London, the dollar opened at $2.3385 to the pound, slightly down the previous closing of $2.335.

Only in Tokyo and Amsterdam did the American currency register small gains. It opened at 300.25 yen on the Japanese exchange and rose to 300.50 by the close. It started the day at 2.515 guilders in Amsterdam, up slightly from its record low closing for the year of 2.5145 guilders Tuesday.

Stocks climb above 600 mark in heavy trading

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices rose for the second consecutive day Wednesday on the New York Stock Exchange, pushing the Dow Jones Industrial Average over 600 for the first time since Dec. 2. Trading was the heaviest in more than a month.

The Dow, which gained 10.71 Tuesday, rose 5.95 to 603.49. The blue-chip indicator had been ahead almost 9 points early in the day but lost ground near the end of the session.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index climbed 0.32 to 67.90. The average price of a NYSE common share increased 11 cents. Advances led declines, 787 to 612, among the 1,847 issues crossing the tape.

VOLUME ROSE to 17,010,000 from 16,880,000 Tuesday, the best turnover since 23,960,000 shares changed hands Nov. 6.

Investors apparently shrugged off news of a deepening recession.

The Commerce Dept. reported the personal income dropped $2.2 billion, or 0.2 percent, in November — the biggest decline in three years. Commerce also said the U.S. balance of payments deficit of $3.6 billion in the third quarter was the second worst on record. It attributed most of the deficit to imported oil.

And the Labor Dept. said every state in the union reported increased unemployment insurance rolls Nov. 30.

SOUTHERN CO., the volume leader, eased ¼ to 8 on 284,500 shares. One of the company's biggest subsidiaries is facing financial difficulties. Hospital Corp. of America was second, up ¼ to 7 7/8 on 237,403 shares. International Telephone & Telegraph followed, off ¼ to 12 3/8 9,207,800 shares.

The Justice Dept. announced Tuesday it has asked a federal court in Hartford, Conn., to order a special divestiture study of three ITT subsidiaries.

PRICES ON THE American Stock Exchange closed higher in fairly active trading. The price of an average AMEX share gained three cents. Volume came to 2,774,000 compared with 2,461,000 turned over Tuesday.

On the Chicago Board Options Exchange, 34,628 contracts were traded against 29,831 Tuesday. McDonald's Jan. 35 led the actives, up ¼ to 1½. Polaroid Jan. 20 was second, unchanged at 2. Upjohn July 45 followed, up ¼ to 10¼.

Prime time wilts Mac Davis' flowers

Television in review

by Frank S. Swertlow

NEW YORK — If it were 20 degrees below zero and snowing, NBC's Mac Davis would still wear one of those flowered shirts that buttons near the navel. This is the 1970s version of blue suede shoes.

In just about every scene on the guitar plucker's new show, Davis wears a plunging shirt and sparkling necklace. After 60 minutes of this tonight, you may begin to wonder whether NBC will plant Astroturf on Davis' chest if the ratings begin to slip. The network should.

This show, which first appeared as a summer replacement, now is back in prime time, and it's still a bore and a carbon copy of the basic TV variety formula of star and guests and songs and comedy skits.

CBS has "Tony Orlando and Dawn" for its copy. This group succeeds because of talent and better production and the bubbly Orlando.

HOWEVER, Davis, a song writer-turned-performer, doesn't. His songs just don't have enough zest or charm and his backup guests — save one — are so mediocre the show looks like the Lawrence Welk of Barnyard rock.

For those moments when Davis isn't strumming or singing one of his older hits, like, "Stop and Smell the Roses," producers Arnie Rosen and Bob Ellison have gathered a bunch of jokesmiths to write skits. Their material is flatter than a week-old bottle of warm Fresca.

Now for the guest stars, Connie Stevens, Paul Williams and Paul Lynde.

Miss Stevens, whose career hit a high point in the old Warner Bros. TV series of the 1960s, sings "Stoney End." Despite Miss Stevens' abilities, the song still stands up. Later, she returns to sing and cuddle with Davis.

As for Paul Williams, it seems this singer-songwriter is popping up on every other show. Williams, who looks like a munchkin, is getting too much exposure, and he is not that good as a singer or part-time comic.

FINALLY, we come to Paul Lynde. This man is really a talent. Despite the dreadful material he is handed, he still gets a few laughs. Imagine what he could do if he had some really gifted writers backing him up with some original material.

But all is not lost if this show fails to make it. NBC could always peddle it to Bolivia. Davis would be a big hit in a Holiday Inn in La Paz.

suburban living

Double-duty mothers share problems

Moms of twins help each other cope

by ELEANOR RIVES

"We all scream a lot," said Lynda Peterson as she tried to describe what it's like to be the mother of twins.

She was laughing. She could. Her twin girls are now past 10 and life is much easier than when they were infants and her first child was only 11 months older than the babies.

"The biggest problem is finding enough time and energy to cope," she added. "Your husband's help and moral support are invaluable. Outside help, such as your mother, is always welcome and recommended. So is diaper service."

MOTHERS OF twins in the northwest suburbs are in general agreement that the first three years are the hardest. The hardest, the most time consuming, the most physically grueling.

"And the initial financial burden is shocking," said Mrs. Peterson. "Generally it costs one and a half times the usual cost for delivery. If the babies are 'preemies' — often the case with twins — the nursery charge with incubator is close to $100 a day."

At home there must be twice the diapers, twice the formula, two layettes, two cribs and soon twice the clothing, two highchairs, a double stroller and later such things as two bicycles.

LYNDA PETERSON of Roselle is currently president of the Double Dyde Mothers of Twins, formed in Arlington Heights in 1961 and now meeting monthly at the Palatine Village Hall. At state level, she edits the newsletter, the State Soga. The Illinois organization boasts 600 sets of twins.

Double Dyde meets the second Thursday evening of each month, except in summer, and its 46 members treasure those meetings, especially the segment devoted to questions and answers dealing with problems encountered by these double-duty Moms.

"It's such a nice social thing," said Helen Lundeen of Elk Grove Village, mother of 4-year-old twins Jack and Jill, plus four older children. "You do bog down that first year or two. But after a meeting you realize, 'Gee, these people have the same problems we do and they survived!'"

"IT'S AN EFFORT to get out and attend meetings, but I can't stress enough how much I've got out of it," exclaimed Kathy Leber of Palatine. "The friendships are worth more than anything."

To make life a little easier for Moms with double the problems, the club has its own mini-library on the subject of twins. Spring and fall it conducts a clothing and equipment exchange, real balm for the budget. During the holiday season, the women save baking time and effort by having a "cookie swap."

Special programs and speakers cover such topics as yoga, interior decoration, astrology. In addition to more serious topics by experts dealing specifically with the problems of twins. Panel discussions are popular, particularly when sets of twins participate. One of the most interesting involved fathers of twins, exploring their feelings and reactions to have a multiple birth in the family.

THE CLUB IS NOT only social and educational but philanthropic as well, annually donating a fat sum to Clearbrook Center, usually between $600 and $1,000, although one year it reached a record-setting high of $3,500.

Main fund-raising event this club year will be a fashion show March 16, in which twins and Moms will model — appropriately entitled "Seeing Double." It will be held at Old Orchard Country Club, Mount Prospect.

But members of Double Dyde, as well as other Mothers of Twins clubs, agree that the greatest value of getting together is simply the opportunity to share their problems with each other.

"Can you imagine going through potty training with two little ones at the same time?" asked Lynda Peterson.

"HAVE YOU EVER lived through the 'terrible twos' with two?" asked Kathy Cornet, who in 1973, after discovering there were three sets of twins, all in the same general age range, living in one Hanover Park block, founded the 1-Plus-1 Mothers of Twins. Its 35 members are drawn from Hanover Park, Streamwood, Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates, Elk Grove Village, Carpentersville and Elgin. How does one handle double birthdays?

Easily, according to Kathy Leber. "One party, one cake and sing twice."

And Christmas? Kathy Cornet suggests gifts be identical until the twins reach age 3, "because they haven't yet learned to share, and twins fight a lot." She added, "But they also rush to each other's defense against outsiders."

AFTER AGE 3, it's best to buy individual gifts, perhaps similar or related toys they can share. With fraternal twins, whose personalities often differ entirely, one suits the gift to the individual.

"The accent now is on encouraging every twin's individuality," stated Gertrude Ziegler, who recently completed her term as president of the Illinois Mothers of Twins. When Mrs. Ziegler moved to Des Plaines, she retained her membership in a Chicago club, Twincere.

She pointed out that it is less difficult to cope with twins if you have had another child first; that it is less difficult, too, if parents know well in advance that a double blessed event awaits them and can do some plural planning.

"I WISH WE COULD get to all mothers of young twins," she said. "Those whose babies are 1, 2 and 3. They need moral support so badly and they can get it at one of the clubs."

For more information, interested mothers of twins of any age may call Kathy Leber, 358-0308, for Double Dyde information; Kathy Cornet, 289-3484, for 1-Plus-1; or Judy Rotfeld, 729-4847, a zealous Double Dyde member who is also president of a Glenview club in the formative stage, which includes Des Plaines members.

Mother of 3-year-old identical boys, Judy effervesces when she discusses her double good fortune.

"Twins may be twice the work," she bubbles, "but they're more than triple the fun!"

Theos: where the widowed find much needed support

by MONICA WILCH PERIN

When the flowers are all gone and the relatives and friends have departed, a man or woman who has lost a beloved spouse is left to face life alone.

It is an overwhelming situation, and all the more so if death has intervened prematurely, perhaps leaving the surviving mate with children to rear.

At this most crucial moment in human existence, when people need the help and support and compassion of others more than any other time, society seems to turn its back. It does not welcome the widow or widower into its couple-and-family-oriented activities, and it raises eyebrows if such a person reaches out for friendship with members of the opposite sex.

IN AN ATTEMPT to fill this void, a young Chicago widow some 12 years ago founded an organization called Theos — the Greek word for God, and an acronym for "They Help Each Other, Spiritually." That title describes the core — but not the boundaries — of this ministry.

The founder was Mrs. Beatrice Decker, who after the death of her husband experienced the loneliness and fear she had witnessed before in other widows, and who saw other widows turning in desperation to drinking, a hasty remarriage, even to suicide.

A Lutheran woman, Mrs. Decker was able to find spiritual solace, but even within her church she felt the sharp knife of aloneness. Upon inquiring around, she discovered there was virtually no agency or organization, either church-sponsored or otherwise, that concerned itself with helping the widowed adjust.

SO SHE DECIDED to do it herself and the result was Theos, a non-denominational ministry with the goal of bringing together widowed persons so that they might help each other in practical as well as spiritual terms. Theos is especially oriented toward the younger widowed who have families to raise and lifetimes to live.

One of the early catalysts in the movement was the Rev. R. Carl Menkens, who was then a therapist for the Lutheran Service Society in Pittsburgh (headquarters of Theos) and who now is pastor of the Church of the Cross United Presbyterian Church in Hoffman Estates.

Menkens a year ago began a Theos chapter in this area and is in the process of organizing chapters in Elmhurst, Wheaton, Park Ridge and East Peoria. He talks of the needs of this special group of people with the compassion and understanding born of involvement.

"MARRIED PEOPLE define themselves as a couple. They become one. When that relationship is severed, it is so violent, so radical, that the widowed person does not exist — financially, socially or spiritually."

"Our theory is, if we can get their faith in gear — because faith is primal; anthropologists have shown that — then the person can use that center point to begin to function in other ways."

"And our ministry is practical, too. For example, some of the men are mechanically inclined, so they help the women in handling their car problems. Or the women help a father buy the right dress for his daughter."

"Though Theos is spiritually centered, it's ecumenical, and 'not all the people have had close religious ties before,' according to Menkens. But, he adds, "there are few atheists in a funeral parlor," and anyhow, "atheism is irrelevant when you are faced with practical problems."

THEOS CHAPTERS hold regular meetings consisting mainly of discussion among people who are grateful to find others who understand and share the same problems. Occasionally, a resource person, such as a tax consultant, is brought in to provide advice on specific problem areas. Each chapter also has a chaplain.

Beyond that, there is little organization. It is a network of people helping each other independently. Theos can do as little as put the widowed in touch with each other, or it can provide as much support for as long as a person needs it.

And many people become committed to the Theos ministry, sticking with it long after they have become self-sufficient in order to give others the help they found.

SUPPORT FOR Theos, in terms of making it known to those who need it as well as financial generosity, has come largely from the widowed themselves, and also from funeral directors, according to Menkens.

But he does not hide his disappointment — perhaps slightly tinged with cynicism — for the lack of support coming from the church.

"We've gone to the denominational groups looking for support and have been turned down time and time again." And he adds that many of the people who come to Theos "are very angry at their pastors because they don't minister to the widowed. They don't know how and they're afraid."

But within the context of Theos Menkens sees the ideal solution to the problem.

"THEOS BECOMES a way in which the clergy can minister to the widowed. They can do here what they do best — provide spiritual guidance — while the major part of caring takes place within the group — they care for each other."

"WILL I EVER smile again?" a widow once asked Beatrice Decker, author of book to which the Rev. R. Carl Menkens, center, points. The answer can be "yes," as Theos members Ernest Lambert and Peggy Ripoli have found. There is a Theos chapter in this area and Rev. end Menkens is establishing others in Illinois.

Their romance began at Hersey High

Hersey High School graduates Cathy Lynne Giannini and W. Scott Robertson of Mount Prospect were married Nov. 23 in South Park Church, Park Ridge.

They exchanged vows and rings by candlelight at six in the evening, then greeted 230 guests at a church reception.

Cathy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Giannini, 800 Newberry Ln., Mount Prospect, is a secretary at Wayne Electric Co., Chicago. Her husband, son of the W. Robert Robertsons of 918 Ironwood Pl., works for Bufton & Associates in Bensenville.

After graduation from Hersey High in 1973 the couple studied at Moody Bible Institute in Chicago for a year.

FOR HER WEDDING day Cathy wore an ivory satrapeau gown with an Empire bodice covered in Alencon lace. The leg-of-mutton sleeves and hem of the chapel train were also bordered with the lace. A lace cap held the bride's elbow-length veil, and she carried a bouquet of white roses with pink silk and straw flowers.

Chris Giannini was her sister's maid of honor, wearing a pink jersey gown trimmed with tiny ruffles at the neck and with a ruby velvet jacket to match. A Juliet cap and veil covered her hair, and she carried red roses with pink silk and straw flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Scott Robertson

Attired identically to the maid of honor were three bridesmaids: Cherie Parenti, Grayslake; Sandy Zinkhan, Rochester, Pa.; and Laura Stuart, Chicago. Laura, a cousin of the bride, was the junior bridesmaid. Cherie is also the bride's cousin.

The groom chose his brother, Brian, as his best man and Andy Karigan and the bride's brothers, Steve and David, as groomsmen.

Now back from a two-week honeymoon in Pompano Beach, Fla., the newlyweds are making their home in Chicago.

Minimize red eyes

If your eyes are showing the strain of being up late, try some eye clearing drops to make them feel and look better. Don't use heavy makeup — it will only call attention to how you feel. Light mascara and light blusher will do the most good.

Nurses get chance to complete degree

A second meeting to explain and to take registrations for a course in the Degree Completion Program for nurses of the area will be held tonight at 7:30 at Juliette Low School, 1530 S. Highland Ave., Arlington Heights.

Registration will be held for a course in "Guidance and Counseling," along with a question and answer session to present needed information.

The Degree Completion Program is designed for nurses wishing to obtain a bachelor's degree. In this program, practical experience as well as academic training, is taken into consideration.

Further information may be obtained by calling or writing to Dr. Arnold Good, College of St. Francis, 500 Wilcox, Joliet, Ill., 60435, phone: 815-726-7311; or locally calling Mrs. Mary Wroblewski, 882-3184.

Holding a scent

Reapplication of perfume to one area can cause drying and irritation. Smooth a tiny dab of petroleum jelly over these perfume points to protect skin and make the scent last twice as long.

Douglas Soderberg marries

A romance on the University of Wisconsin campus culminated in marriage Nov. 29 for Douglas P. Soderberg of Arlington Heights and Pamela M. Kreissig of Mequon, Wis.

Both have graduated and are working in Milwaukee, the bride a teacher of learning disabilities in the local school system and Doug a financial analyst with Ambrosia Chocolate Co.

He is a '68 graduate of Prospect High School and was affiliated with Tau Kappa Epsilon Fraternity while at the university.

THE COUPLE exchanged vows by candlelight at five o'clock in St. James Catholic Church of Mequon. A dinner followed at the Alpine Village, after which the newlyweds spent a short honeymoon at Fox Hills Country Club in Michocot, Wis.

Britain bars organ claim

Great Britain's Trading Standards Department has caught the U.S. Federal Trade Commission sitting on its hands. The British consumer protection agency has taken action on a deceptive advertising issue which the FTC has ignored.

Last May, The Herald reported that an Evanston organist, Devon Hollingsworth, had filed a complaint with the FTC charging the Allen Organ Co. with misrepresenting its "computer" organ.

Allen has marketed the organ in this country and abroad with the claim that it is "a third kind of organ," not pipe or electronic. The company claims the organ "stores pipe organ tones" by computer, which then "calls forth" these tones when the keyboard is played.

HOLLINGSWORTH HAD argued to the FTC that contrary to Allen's advertising claims, the computer organ produces tones the same way any electronic organ does — by means of an oscillator (generator). Hollingsworth produced Allen's own technical fact sheets and patent as proof.

Although the FTC's New York regional office studied Hollingsworth's documentation and questioned him on the matter, they have taken no action.

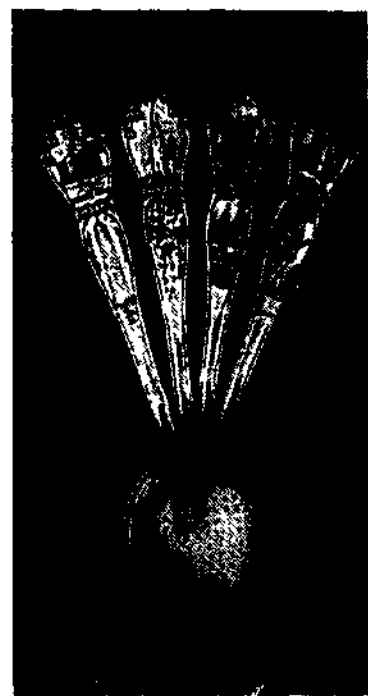

But The Herald has learned that Britain's Trading Standards Department has obtained an agreement from Allen to stop using the words "a third kind of organ" in advertisements in that country. In addition, the agency is reportedly seeking to require Allen to make clear disclosure in its ads that the organ is an electronic instrument.

THE AGENCY'S ACTION came about as a result of a complaint by Britain's Federation of Master Organ Builders, which had received reports of the study and findings of Hollingsworth.

Among other advertising claims by Allen in this country is a testimonial concerning the installation of an Allen computer organ in England's Chichester Cathedral, allegedly replacing the original pipe organ there. However, according to a British music publication, the cathedral's pipe organ is being rebuilt, and the Allen computer organ is "only a temporary substitute."

A concern of Hollingsworth, as well as a number of organists in Britain, is that the Allen computer organ may be greatly overpriced, based on the claims of computerization. A 3-manual model purchased by several churches in this area is priced at $18,000, and larger models may go as high as $50,000.

GIFT IDEA. This set of four Bicen-tennial spoons in heavy silverplate is from Reed and Barton. Retail price approximately $17.95.

Widowed look to Theos

Menkens considers this approach actually better than one-to-one ministry by the clergy, since it can provide so much more support without the huge time commitment an individual clergyman would have to invest to achieve similar ends.

Theos now has chapters all over the country and the foundation in Pittsburgh can put widowed persons in touch with each other or with interested clergymen or other professionals in areas where no chapter has yet been started.

Menkens' goal here is to have chapters holding meetings somewhere in the area every week, because "when someone calls all strung out, I can't tell them, 'Sorry, you just missed our meeting, the next one is a month from now.'" (Menkens may be reached at 885-1199 for information about Theos meetings.)

AND IN PITTSBURGH, Mrs. Decker still personally oversees this ministry that is her labor of love, and she has written a book about it called "After the Flowers Have Gone."

Testimony to the vital need Theos has filled is stated with simple eloquence by a Hoffman Estates widow:

"We're so glad we found each other. Now we have hope."

Too wet soil responsible for plant mold

Dear Dorothy: Mold on the dirt of my house plants! Why does it happen? How can I get it off? —Margaret Hughes Sounds as if you let the soil get too wet. You're supposed to let the surface get really dry before watering. It's a good idea, too, to scratch the soil surface immediately after watering. This speeds up drying and should prevent mold. However, in your present fix, you should scrape off the top quarter-inch of soil and discard it. Replace with an equal amount of new soil. Then start the watering as recommended.

Dear Dorothy: Please settle an argument we stenographers are having. We can't get it straight about a.m. and p.m. Is 12 at noon a.m. or p.m.? —Mrs. Selman Johnson

You throw me. Happily, I had wit enough to ask one of the great authorities on usage, Theodore M. Bernstein. "The answer is neither," he said. "You write it as either '12 noon' or simply 'noon.' Midnight is written as either 'midnight' or '12 p.m. midnight.' Incidentally, if you are speaking of one minute later than 11:59 Saturday, it's midnight Saturday not midnight Sunday. 'Midnight' belongs to the expiring day, not the new one."

Dear Dorothy: After you've cut that acorn squash lengthwise through a ridge, then what? Do you have a simple recipe? —Amy Bissell

Put the squash, cut sides down, in a baking dish with a little water — and bake at 375 degrees for 30 to 45 minutes, or until just tender. Carefully take out the insides, leaving enough to keep the skin standing up, mash and add a lump of margarine and brown sugar (to fit the taste), and put back in oven for another 10 to 15 minutes. Its ribs beams over it, considers it a luscious dish and I've never bothered to tell him it's the simplest thing on the menu.

Trend's to natural Christmas tree

Notes on trimming the tree, decking the halls and other tips:

While many people put their Christmas trees up as early as the week after Thanksgiving, most of us prefer to wait, so we don't have all those needles shedding all over the carpet.

Even when you keep the tree up a short time, there is always some needle drop. We hope you're dragging in the tree on an old sheet or runner of trash-can bags to make the job of clean-up easier. (I've found needles stuck in the rug as long as nine months later — only goes to show what a super housewife I am.)

Use a tree preservative like Prolong or Green Guard to help prevent needle drop. And here's a new recipe for fireproofing not only the tree, but fireplace swags, ornaments, wood decorations, anything that might be vulnerable to heat. It's new, it's safe, it's effective and it's the courtesy of the Wauwatosa, Wis. Fire Department.

FIREPROOF RECIPE

9 ounces of borax (20 Mule Team or whatever)
4 ounces of boric acid (got from drug store)
1 gallon of hot water

Mix together and when cool, apply to tree with spray bottle.

We've always chopped our own tree every year — gone to a chop-it-yourself place (a list appears in Section 1, page 7 of the Dec. 9, 1974, Herald) when we didn't own land. Once we did, we cut down one from our own woods. (I still remember the year my husband got frost-bite looking for the "perfect tree.")

I see a lot of people coming back from Wisconsin, with trees loaded on the roof of their cars. Most likely they've taken them out of the "wilds." The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources reminds tourists that there are no "un-owned trees" in Wisconsin. All land is publicly or privately owned. They will stop cars loaded with trees and ask the occupants for proof of legitimacy to try to stop people grabbing trees where they have no business doing so.

(NUMEROUS CASES of tree-theft have been occurring not only in the woods where they are not really missed, but actually beautiful specimens have been pilfered right from in front of homes while the homeowners were gone. One such instance in an Indian reservation last Christmas nearly caused an incident. The giant specimen was more than 125 years old.)

If you cross the state line to get a Christmas tree in Wisconsin, you will have to show a sales receipt, show your last year's property tax receipt to verify you own the Wisconsin property where the tree was cut, or have a letter of permission from the landowner, stating his section, township, range, name and address, and your name and address. So be prepared, in case you are stopped.

Now I have to tell you of the cutest

by Mary B. Good

Christmas trees I've seen so far this year. I went into a little restaurant and they had a tree decorated with all manner of doll-sized kitchen utensils — baking pans, rolling pins, coffee pots, knives, forks, frying pans, wire whisks, etc. as well as popcorn and cranberry strings.

IF YOU SHOULD decide to string popcorn for your tree, pop it in the smallest amount of oil possible, and wait at least one day to do the stringing, spreading it out on a baking sheet in the meantime. Soft and crumbly when its fresh, popcorn is much easier to string when stale.

Fresh cranberries shrivel after about 10 days out in the open, so don't string them too early. I tried to see if spraying cranberries with Super Surface Sealer would preserve them, but it didn't help. Cold is the only thing that helps them keep. Should you string early, put the cranberry strings in the "fridge" or in an unheated garage.

Stringing goes fast when the cranberries (or popcorn) are strung in one continuous string of spool wire (use about No. 24 wire, available from the florist), but it can be done successfully with a sharp, big needle and strong, but thin thread.

THE ARTIFICIAL silver trees with rotating lights are pretty much out of fashion these days, as are flocked trees. The trend is to the natural. There's going to be a rash of patchwork ornament and gingham-ribboned trees this year, if people should decide to take the example of Betty Ford and fashion their trees after the White House decorations.

Personally, I wanted to do something with the idea I had of "The 12 Smells of Christmas" — evergreens, sage, cloves, rosemary, thyme, nutmeg, basil, anise, peppermint, ginger, cinnamon, and booze. But I couldn't work it out, other than hanging cookies, pomander balls and bottles of Jim Beam on my tree.

I also wanted to make my own ornaments and have a tree with nothing but snowflakes and icicles, copying $5 recycled glass snowflakes I bought last year, by making molds and pouring in "Preserve Forever." But I never got around to it. Last year I made live terrariums in small plastic ornaments, but I'll never do that again — tries the patience.

SO WE'LL BE having our traditional green tree with all the family "bedrooms," including old-fashioned Victorian strawberries, ceramic gingerbread men, corn husk dolls (new this year) and every other antique ornament given us by creative family and friends.

Hope your tree is a beauty and your Christmas as well.

'Do' rather than 'give'

Beatrice H. Bagby, University of Illinois Extension child and family specialist, offers some ideas of what you can do to build Christmas spirit this holiday season.

Her ideas apply to friends in your community who need help, as well as to your immediate family, relatives and co-workers.

Start by preparing a list of receivers and their needs. Then jot down ideas of how you can help. Or list specific services they can request. Next, design gift certificates or coupons to put under the tree.

To stir your imagination, Mrs. Bagby suggests the following ideas. Perhaps you can repair broken or non-functioning items around the house: loose door knobs, stuck doors and drawers, toys and broken furniture. Paint porches, bedrooms, lunch boxes or toys. Sew or mend clothes, pants pockets, curtains or toys.

ORGANIZE DRESSER drawers, odds and ends drawers, household files, children's schoolwork or the hall closets. Style sister's or Grandma's hair, make lettering for teacher's bulletin boards, clean and polish the toaster or write down the rules for playing a game for children. Wash or run the dishes through the dishwasher and put them away.

Mrs. Bagby reminds you not to overlook the possible gifts of appreciation or encouragement. For example, offer to write letters and thank-yous as a gift for someone who is handicapped. A note of concern to those in need brightens lives immeasurably. Volunteer sincere compliments or words of cheer. Do some secret good deeds and voluntarily pitch into a job without being asked.

Mrs. Bagby concludes: With a little planning and a lot of doing, you can make this Christmas the richest and most rewarding ever."

Traditional yuletide plant

Poinsettias amazingly durable

Your poinsettia plant, with proper care, can bring pleasure for weeks or even months after the holiday season ends. G. M. Foster, University of Illinois ornamental horticulturist, says that house temperatures, as well as light and humidity levels, affect the length of time the plant will remain attractive.

The poinsettia, first brought to this country from Mexico in 1825, has long been the traditional Christmas pot plant. Red-flowered forms are most popular, but white, pink and variegated pink and white varieties are also grown.

Most of the newer poinsettia varieties retain their leaves and bracts remarkably well and may stay in good shape for several months. Yet poinsettias are somewhat sensitive to drafts, too cool or too warm temperatures, sudden temperature changes, dry atmosphere, improper watering and dim light.

THESE ADVERSE conditions can cause loss of leaves and withering of bracts — the showy colored structures commonly called "flowers." The true flowers are actually the yellow parts tucked down in the center of each whorl of bracts.

Foster recommends a uniform room temperature for poinsettias between 60 and 68 degrees F. plus high humidity, if possible. Temperatures above 75 degrees F. are detrimental, particularly in a dry atmosphere. Put your plant near a bright window, just out of direct sunlight. But remove it from the window at night if there is danger of chilling.

It's been said that more plants are killed or damaged by "drowning" than anything else. Foster points out that plant roots need air as well as water, so avoid overwatering.

LEARN TO GAUGE the moisture content of soil by its color and feel. As the surface dries, it gets light colored. When soil is too dry, it becomes firm and sometimes cracked; when saturated, it feels silty and sticky.

Try to maintain the soil moisture at moderate and uniform levels, neither soggy-wet nor bone-dry, Foster suggests. And never let the pot stand in water for any extended period of time. If the plant came wrapped in foil or other water-tight material, be sure to punch holes in the bottom — or remove the wrap entirely — so water won't be trapped inside.

Try to prevent your plant from wilting. Wilting causes premature deterioration. Foster says reports that the poinsettia is poisonous are now considered erroneous and unfortunate. Research has proven it to be harmless to humans and animals.

Do-it-yourself Yule projects

Homemade is the word this year for a naturally fun holiday. Do-it-yourself Christmas tree decorations and greeting cards are great projects for the whole family to enjoy.

For tree decorations, all you need are a cook, seamstress and artist (your children). The cook makes cookie shapes with a string baked in them to tie onto the tree.

The seamstress threads popcorn onto a very long piece of thread, to wrap around the tree, and the artist cuts out paper dolls and chains to hang on the branches.

EVERYBODY gathers all their small colorful toys and trinkets to put up.

For a fun Christmas card idea, cut a potato in half and draw a holiday design on one flat side. With a knife, cut around the design until it is raised on the potato. Press the design on an ink pad and stamp on a postcard or construction paper. After the design dries, the children write in their season's greetings.

Cutouts of Yuletide illustrations are another favorite activity among the children.

Read through the newspaper ads and cut out different Christmas illustrations, such as Santa Claus, reindeer, Christmas trees, stockings, ornaments, snowflakes, etc. You'd be surprised at all you can find, many times in color too!

HERE ARE JUST some of the things that can be done with cutouts of such illustrations:

Make rectangular cardboard fold-down tabs, bend them and paste one side to the artwork so that the cutouts can stand up on their own. Make a little display with figures, for instance.

Or paste the artwork to the little one's shopping bag, or even your own. Glue them onto Christmas packages for added decoration.

Use them to decorate the Christmas tree. Simply poke a little hole on the top of the cutout and hang it by a bit of thread from the tree's branches.

COORDINATING search for applicants as deadlines draw near for the Soroptimist Youth Citizenship Award and the Training Award for mature women are Sylvia Roman, Ruth Wendt and Margaret Moehling, chairman.

Deadlines near for entries in Soroptimist competition

Entry deadlines are fast approaching for two awards being offered by Soroptimist International of Des Plaines and Midwestern Region.

These are the annual $100 Youth Citizenship Award to be presented to an outstanding high school senior boy or girl from the northwest suburbs, and the $1,000 Soroptimist Training Award for non-academic study or schooling to help a deserving mature woman qualify for employment in a higher skilled job.

The deadline for entries for the youth award is this Saturday, Jan. 1 is the deadline for the training award.

A regional scholarship of $1,500 for advanced degree study in nursing or other fields is also offered. March 1 is the deadline for entries.

INFORMATION AND application forms for all three awards may be obtained by calling the awards chairman, Margaret K. Moehling, at 634-3338; Sylvia T. Roman, 827-4272; or Ruth C. Wendt, 827-5335.

Competing high school seniors must live within the club boundaries: Tri-State Tollway on the east, Palatine Road on the north, Route 53 on the west, and Devon Avenue on the south.

"If it is impossible for interested youth to complete their entries in time, we may extend our Dec. 21 deadline," said Mrs. Moehling. "But we urge high school counselors, youth ministers and civic leaders nominating young people to be sure their candidates prepare their statements and activities lists right away."

Winner of the local $100 prize will compete for district and regional prizes that could add up to $1,500. From the 17 regional winners, a finalist award of $1,000 will be presented.

The training award for mature women is a new competition this year. All Soroptimist clubs in the Midwestern Region are invited to submit a candidate, and two awards of $1,000 each will be presented at the regional convention in April. Application forms and two photos, plus two letters of reference on official form, should be returned to the Soroptimist chairman by Jan. 1.

Newcomers fete New Year's Eve

Palatine residents and their friends are invited to the New Year's Eve party being planned by Palatine Newcomers Club.

The event starts at 9 p.m. at Howard Johnson's in Palatine, Northwest Highway and Route 53, with the Warlock providing music for dancing and includes a midnight buffet supper.

Cost is $25 per couple. Reservations must be made by Dec. 20 by calling Mrs. K. Huffman, 991-2091.

Evening shine

Avoid carrying a lot of makeup in a big clumsy purse for special evening occasions by using a multipurpose face cover. A soft plummy color can be used to shadow lids, shine lips and blush cheeks.

Register now for weight control at 'Y'

Registration is in progress for weight control classes which begin at Northwest Suburban YMCA, 300 E. Northwest Hwy., Des Plaines, Jan. 6 and 8 for seven weeks.

Introduction to Basic Nutrition will be offered Monday evenings with moderate exercise from 8 to 8:45, followed by the lecture from 9 to 10, or on Wednesday mornings with exercise class from 9:15 to 10 followed by theory from 10 to 11.

Primarily for women who are not more than 10 to 20 pounds overweight, this course is designed for the fairly well disciplined individual who can reach her weight goal with minimal effort once she is informed of a correct eating program for life.

The course will cover planning meals around the "Basic 4" as set up by the Council of Foods and Nutrition of the American Medical Association; the importance of vitamins and minerals; a correct balance between carbohydrate, protein and fat; the danger and monotony of short-term crash and fad diets; the fat and cholesterol problem as they relate to the heart; the value of planned exercise; and determining the calories needed for one's sex, age and activity. EAT AND TRIM classes will be offered from 8 to 9 on Monday evenings preceded by mild exercise from 7:30 to 8 or on Wednesday mornings from 9 to 10 followed by exercise from 10 to 10:30. This course is designed for the more obese who seem to be unaware of and lack control over eating habits. These individuals are often frustrated by erratic weight fluctuations due to short-term dieting efforts.

The course includes uncovering excuses used for overeating; awareness of how, when, and where we eat through behavior modification steps; and understanding the internal and external stimuli that set off eating responses.

The instructor is Norma Thompson, registered dietitian and member of the American and Illinois Dietetic Associations. Members will be encouraged to take responsibility for their own eating habits rather than trying to correct their environments, which may never change.

Those interested may register at the YMCA or may call 298-3376, for further details.

Accentuate the positive

Decorations as symbol

by RICHARD W. JONES

Begin the new year on an upbeat and a positive note.

Decorate for the occasion not merely to create a festive mood, but to stimulate emotions and aspirations.

Let your decorations symbolize the things a meaningful New Year's celebration are made of. It signals a time for reflection, a dash or two of nostalgia and new plans and hopes for the future.

Start with mirrors. Use them lavishly throughout the home, let them be the symbol of reflections. Replace Christmas ornaments with bits of mirror and pieces of shiny metal, hung with light thread or silver colored cords on the tree and elsewhere.

Create a gala and magical mood with reflective glints moving about the room by using mirrored balls.

To enhance the light and shimmering effect, use white wherever you can, such as white tablecloths, napkins, ribbons, and flowers. Change your door wreath and mantel decorations, substituting white and silver for the traditional reds and greens of the Christmas season.

USE MIRRORRED place mats, clear crystal and glass tableware and shiny stainless or silverware. Place little mirrors throughout the house, all decorated with silver or white ribbons.

Declare a ban on depressing resolutions, and decorate with dreams and determinations. Replace your Advent Calendar with a 12 month "aspiration calendar". You can't buy one in the marketplace, but you can make one by stanching, stitching, or gluing 12 pockets on a large piece of felt.

The seams can be covered with braid or ribbon adhered with glue, and the calendar can be lettered or not, depending on your own creative drive. Hang it in some readily visible place like the refrigerator door, and put evidence of the family's aspirations for the month in the pocket representing that month.

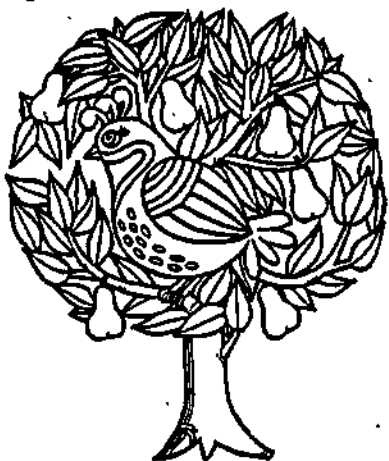

For example, travel folders for a trip you'd like to make in June, school and college brochures for decisions to be made, patterns for clothes for April, advertisements for a major appliance or new car, new home plans or plans and sketches for remodeling or redecorating.

THEN, AS THE year passes, the pockets can be emptied and aspirations realized, postponed, or reevaluated, but during the New Year season such an aspiration calendar has a happy positive effect on the family... certainly a desirable contrast to the traditional type of New Year's aspirations or resolutions which are all too frequently, negatively inspired.

Auld Lang Syne and nostalgia are as inevitably a part of New Year's as writing the last year's date, so why not "program" it into the celebration?

Gather "records" of last year's activities of the family. These could include snapshots in frames or albums, recording highlights of the year, placed on a table, or used to make an attractive display on the mantel or sideboard.

Records of the year's accomplishments could adorn a 1974 family tree, or other proud display. These could include diplomas, deeds, licenses, passports, wedding and birth certificates, even reminders of objects purchased such as special books, records, paintings, china, a puppy or whatever family discretion might like to include.

These collections would be available for perusal by all of the family, relatives and friends visiting during the holiday season.

They are a substantial record and reminder of where the family has been over the past year, what they have done, what they have acquired, and what they have achieved.

Kids sick?

To keep children who must remain home because of illness from becoming bored, here are some ideas for in-bed activities.

- Have them paint macaroni, string together for a necklace.
- Draw faces on plain paper plates. Stick on mustaches and "hair" made of scraps of material.
- Use paper bags to make masks.

- Have the child make up a story based on a name, character or situation. If the child is small, he may dictate it into a tape recorder. An older child can write the story and draw pictures to illustrate.
- Make greeting cards using paper and crayon or by cutting pictures from magazines and pasting on.

Drawing paper and crayons are all-time favorites.

Small children can make a train by cutting tops off boxes painting or coloring them and stringing together. They can fill these with cargo to pull across the bed.

Most children like modeling clay. The secret is to take a large piece and pull parts out — not add pieces. The clay thing can be dried and then painted. Drying usually takes a day.

Children well or ill love to have stories read to them. Television should be used sparingly with a sick child.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Heart murmur late in life

I am a 65-year-old woman. For many years, whenever I went for a checkup, the doctors were very concerned about a heart murmur that I have. They didn't seem to know what it was, so, finally they sent me to a nationally known medical center for an examination. The heart specialist found I had a patent ductus. As you know, this is something a baby is born with. According to medical knowledge, a child does not live very long with this, so I guess I am an exception.

I have been very active all my life. I live on a farm, have a large farmhouse, and plenty of work. Since I have turned 65, I seem to be more tired than I used to be. I am worrying a bit and wondering if time is beginning to run out for me. I was around 50 when the problem was first diagnosed. The specialist told me since I was doing so well, at my age, he wouldn't advise an operation. Then he gave me a list of things to be careful about which was so long, I couldn't possibly keep up with it. It included avoiding all infections, flu and even to have penicillin when I had my teeth cleaned.

I'm just thankful I have had a good life for 65 years, and just wondered what your comments might be.

You are unusual, all right. The birth defect you have is really an artery connecting two others: the main artery that carries blood to the lungs to get oxygen and the main artery that carries oxygenated blood out of the left side of the heart to the rest of the body (aorta).

While the baby is in the uterus, this artery is open and shunts blood through the baby's body without sending it to the lungs. Only after birth, when the lungs open, is it necessary for the blood to go to the lungs to get oxygen. At birth, or very soon after, this small artery shunt usually closes so you have a normal circulation.

IF A DOCTOR WAS seeking nothing but congenital heart defects this would be one of the more common conditions. It is not as dangerous as you think. How much trouble it causes depends on how large the shunt really is. If it is a small arterial connection and not much blood is shunted through it, about the only problem it will cause is to create a loud noise or the murmur that caused all the concern. I recall one very good 40-year-old Air Force pilot I saw for another reason. I found that he had this problem, completely unrecognized despite annual flying examinations by many doctors.

If the shunt is very small, so it doesn't affect the heart's action to any significant degree, then the other problem is the danger of bacterial endocarditis, an infection of the heart. That is why your doctor wanted you to take penicillin if you had any infection or even when you had your teeth cleaned.

In general, even small shunts of this type should be closed when diagnosed in early childhood. I must agree, however, that in a healthy person past 50 I would think in most instances it could be left alone.

All of this also means that your defect will probably not have any serious effects on your heart or your health. I do think, though, that you should have antibiotics when you have any respiratory illness or even dental procedures.

Economy cited in soaring Tulsa County divorce rate

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — Someone searching for the reasons for divorce in America these days might do well to start looking in Tulsa County, where the divorce rate is more than double the national average.

The county's divorce court judge says as far as he can tell the chief reasons couples split up are the sagging economy, personal success or boredom.

About 500 more couples have filed for divorce in Tulsa County this year than have been married.

THE PROJECTED national divorce rate for 1974, according to figures released by the National Center for Health Statistics in Kensington, Md., is 4.6 per 1,000 population, but the rate in Tulsa is an estimated 12.5 per 1,000 for this year.

"With the economy going bad and credit so easy, the crunch is on," said Special District Judge Ed Glass, who handles the county's divorce cases. "Bills are cropping up more and more often in this courtroom as the reason."

"Of course, these are only surface problems in the marriage. They are factors that cause the real problems to come out."

Glass said one of the reasons for Tulsa's high divorce rate was the boom from a provincial, quiet town to a "sophisticated, cosmopolitan center."

"We are also a fairly well-to-do community and this increases divorce," Glass said. "Success is a hard thing to handle in a marriage. As the man or woman rises, it materially alters their lifestyle and changes their personalities."

BUT HE SAID the less affluent also come into his court in increasing numbers.

"I think the less wealthy people are just tired of the mundane life they are tied to," he said. "Let's face it, a family of three kids with daddy making $3 an hour is a life sentence."

"Being stuck must be a horrible feeling and perhaps divorce is the way they see to get away."

6-year-old birth defect victim

He inspires new meaning of Christmas

by MICHAEL O. WESTER

ABERNATHY, Tex. — Even though Christmas is still a few days off, it's already been a joyful year for 6-year-old Patrick Lewis.

The pixie-sized second-grader, a victim of multiple birth defects, can now get around wherever he wants to go. For Pat, even that is an accomplishment.

The youngster refuses to let the fact that he has no natural arms or legs overshadow his ambition or his enthusiasm. "To Pat, handicap is only a word he cannot spell," said Alma Ruth Patterson, his schoolteacher.

"HE DIDN'T GET his artificial arms and legs until a year ago, and he got his wheelchair only recently. But he makes the best of his situation."

Computerized 'patient' may aid doctors

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — A team of scientists is developing a computerized "patient" to tell doctors what will happen to body systems when real patients are given anesthetics.

The objective is to regulate the flow of anesthetic to prevent quick drops in blood pressure, major changes in the breathing pattern and shock.

"There's a real need for it," said Dr. N. Ty Smith, professor of anesthesia at the University of California at San Diego. "People still die because of unforeseen reactions."

The computer was developed at the university and the Veterans Administration hospital here during the past two years by Smith, Dr. Yashuhiro Gukui, a postdoctoral fellow in anesthesia, and Robert Fleming, an engineer who specializes in microcomputer design.

They built into it 120 equations to simulate a brain that functions, a heart that beats, blood vessels that contract, lungs that breathe and even kidneys, tendons, bones, muscle, skin and fat.

"It can even bleed," Smith said. Their pioneering work so far has been in determining the effects on blood pressure as the common anesthetic Halothane flows through the system.

A baroreceptor mechanism is built into the computer to protect against drops in blood pressure. When the pressure drops, the heart puts out more blood and vice versa as anesthetic affects the responses.

Traffic contest entry deadline Dec. 31

The deadline for submitting entries in the 1974 traffic-safety contest sponsored by the Illinois Editors' Traffic Safety Seminar is Dec. 31.

Ten $500 scholarships will be awarded to high school seniors who submit winning entries. The scholarships are given by the Chicago Motor Club — AAA.

The theme of this year's contest is "What Should My Community Be Doing To Improve Teen-Age Driver Safety?" The contest is open to all high school seniors in public, parochial or private schools. Entry blanks are available at many schools, Chicago Motor Club branch offices or by mail from Seminar headquarters, 64 E. South Water St., Chicago, Ill. 60601.

Winners will be honored at a luncheon Friday, May 16 at the Holiday Inn East, Springfield.

At school, he and another youngster who also has a wheelchair sometimes like to race in the hallways.

"We are glad to see a little of this, and we encourage him at many things," said Miss Patterson.

"As this Christmas season approaches, sometimes we like to get all involved in our own problems. But seeing Pat, and the way he is working to overcome his handicaps, one gets a new meaning of the real Christmas season."

MRS. INOUS BELL LEWIS, his grandmother and guardian, said the Scottish Rite Hospital in Dallas last year donated the artificial arms and legs he wears and this year he was given the chair.

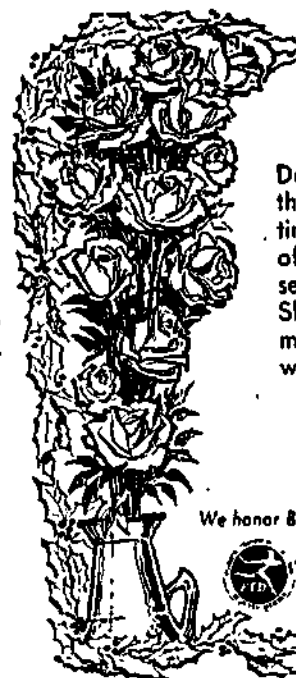

"We are so pleased that people still care and are willing to help," she said.

His therapist said Pat would be able to walk, with a minimum of assistance, throughout his life.

"Pat is bright and creative, and will be employable as an adult at any task that excludes ponderous paper work," Miss Patterson said.

"He already has learned to use a pencil, and his artificial arms and legs are adaptable. The only variant is in Pat's decision and choice of vocation."

Unlucky Expert makes a big hit

The Unlucky Expert studied the first trick carefully before turning the cards over. West had opened the five of spades. Assuming it had been a fourth best lead West would not have more than four spades left in his hand. Assuming it was fourth best from a five-card suit and that West would have opened the 10 from queen-10-nine, East would be left with the singleton 10 or nine and the play of the jack of spades at trick two would bump that 10 or nine and allow dummy's eight spot to be set up later.

The expert could count eight sure tricks. That eight of spades would be trick nine and it looked like his best play for that ninth trick.

So he led the jack of spades right back. West cashed five spade tricks, but then West made a mistake.

He remarked maliciously, "You can fool some players most of the time and most players some of the time, but I can fool you all of the time."

Why was it a mistake? The Unlucky Expert hit him and was promptly exonerated by all present.

DON TERRY

Executives Guild- for firms that want good service

by LEA TONKIN

Two years ago, Don Terry called a blacktop contractor to work on the parking lot of his firm in the Center Industrial Park, Elk Grove Village. "It's a silly thing," said Terry, executive vice president of Rothery Storage & Van Co., 1525 Chase. "I signed four contracts with different blacktoppers, and nobody ever showed up."

"How many times do you call a company, and the work isn't done, or they screw it up?" Terry asked, shrugging his shoulders. "We've had to wait for three or four electricians out here for a $2,500 job." It's a small job, he said, so the electricians probably thought it could wait.

But Terry doesn't want to wait in line for service. He wants to get back to the Mom and Pop kind of business where he's talking with people who offer service and back up their offers.

IN WHAT COULD be described as consumerism at the executive level, Terry and 40 other suburban and Chicago business executives have banded together in the Executives Guild Inc. Terry serves as president of the organization.

The guild, organized in 1981, drums up support with its schmalzy slogan, "Shake hands and come out selling; shake hands and remember each other." Don't confuse the group with your typical "belly up to the bar and let's have lunch" type of business club, Terry said.

Guild members meet twice a month to share information about their business, and to offer advice on the best way to get service, on time. "We're trying to create a confidence in the business community that I don't think exists," Terry said. "It's the kind of trust that you had years ago."

"It's like when you buy a car — the dealer may want volume and not service," he said. "You really don't know what you're getting." When guild members deal with each other, said Terry, "At least you know you're gonna get service."

THERE IS ONE catch: only one business of its kind may belong to the Executives Guild. Terry, for example, represents the moving industry. A furrier in Chicago, a truck dealer in Elk Grove Village, a wallpaper retailer in Schaumburg and an office equipment firm in Northbrook, are among guild members. Then there is an initial membership fee of $150 and a monthly fee of $42.50 to cover expenses for dinner meetings, twice a month.

"We want people who will get involved," Terry said of guild members. The group's board of directors met Wednesday at That Steak Joint in Chicago to screen applicants for membership based on a good credit rating and the company's reputation for service. To "cut the mustard," as Terry puts it, a company must also have at least three years' experience, five employees and write at least $100,000 in sales a year.

Rising early pays off, say businessmen

Getting up in the morning is good business, said Al Van Maren, vice president of marketing for the Action Building Maintenance firm in Des Plaines.

Van Maren, president of the Businessmen's Breakfast Club of Northwest Suburban Chicago, said the 38-member organization meets every Thursday morning at Nielsen's Restaurant in Rosemont in a noncompetitive setting.

"Through both informal conversation and solicited comments I find that the members are both receiving and giving business throughout the club," Van Maren said. Only one member from a particular business profession or specialty may join the club, founded in 1971.

The Businessmen's Breakfast Club is among several area groups that have been organized to allow business executives informal, direct access to other professionals in the community. From dentist to travel agent, barber and photographer, there is a variety in the informal organization membership that "makes for exciting meetings," said founder Morton Shapiro, of Financial Planning Assn., Schiller Park. A similar business breakfast club meets at the Arlington Inn, Arlington Heights, Friday mornings.

Once a company is approved for membership, it's up to the top executive to attend meetings and to get involved in working with other members. "Invariably, you come to our meetings and you find so many business cards on the table that you can hardly see the food," Terry said. "And the incredible thing is the amount of commotion." What members talk about, he says, is business in a social setting.

"The economic outlook is not good," Terry said. "But people still have to buy goods and services. And I'm the last guy to just look up a company in the phone book and call them up." What this means to Executive Guild members is that they'll gain business referrals for potential sales and buy from executives who really care about the product they're selling.

"It's working," says Terry. "I feel like I'm doing good for myself and my company. That's what I get up in the morning for."

Chicago's Sears Tower, king of the skyscrapers

by United Press International

Slightly more than one acre of land in downtown Chicago contains enough concrete, 73,000 cubic yards, to build an eight-lane highway five miles long or, the world's tallest building.

It took 78,000 tons of structural steel, 17,200 tons of refrigeration equipment and, at times, 2,400 workers a day to build the Sears Tower. It rises 1,454 feet without rooftop additions — which makes it 104 feet taller than the runnerup World Trade Center of New York, and 204 feet beyond the top of the old champ, the Empire State Building.

On a clear day you can see the great tower with its spilt second flashing beacon from up to 30-35 miles away. From the observation deck, or Skydeck, on the 103rd floor of the 110-story highest-rise, you can see a good portion of Illinois and lesser portions of Indiana, Michigan and Wisconsin.

DESIGNED BY the firm of Skidmore, Owings and Merrill, the tower rests on nine 75-by-75 foot column-free squares. Setbacks at the 50th, 69th and 90th floors give the structure the appearance of a cluster of skyscrapers tied together.

The building contains 4.5 million square feet, making it the largest private-office building in the world, exceeded only by the Pentagon with 6.5 million.

The tower had no official opening. Its first occupants, all Sears employees, began moving in during September 1973, about a year before the structure was completed and more followed as space became available.

There are more than 18,000 bronze-tinted windows in the Sears Tower, but not one human window washer. Six automatically operated machines move on tracks up and down the side of the building at 45 feet per minute to wash the windows and scrub the building's outer surface. The only manpower needed is for aligning the machines. Dirty water is vacuumed up, filtered and reused.

THE EXTERIOR surface of the building is coated with enough black aluminum "skin" to cover 28 acres.

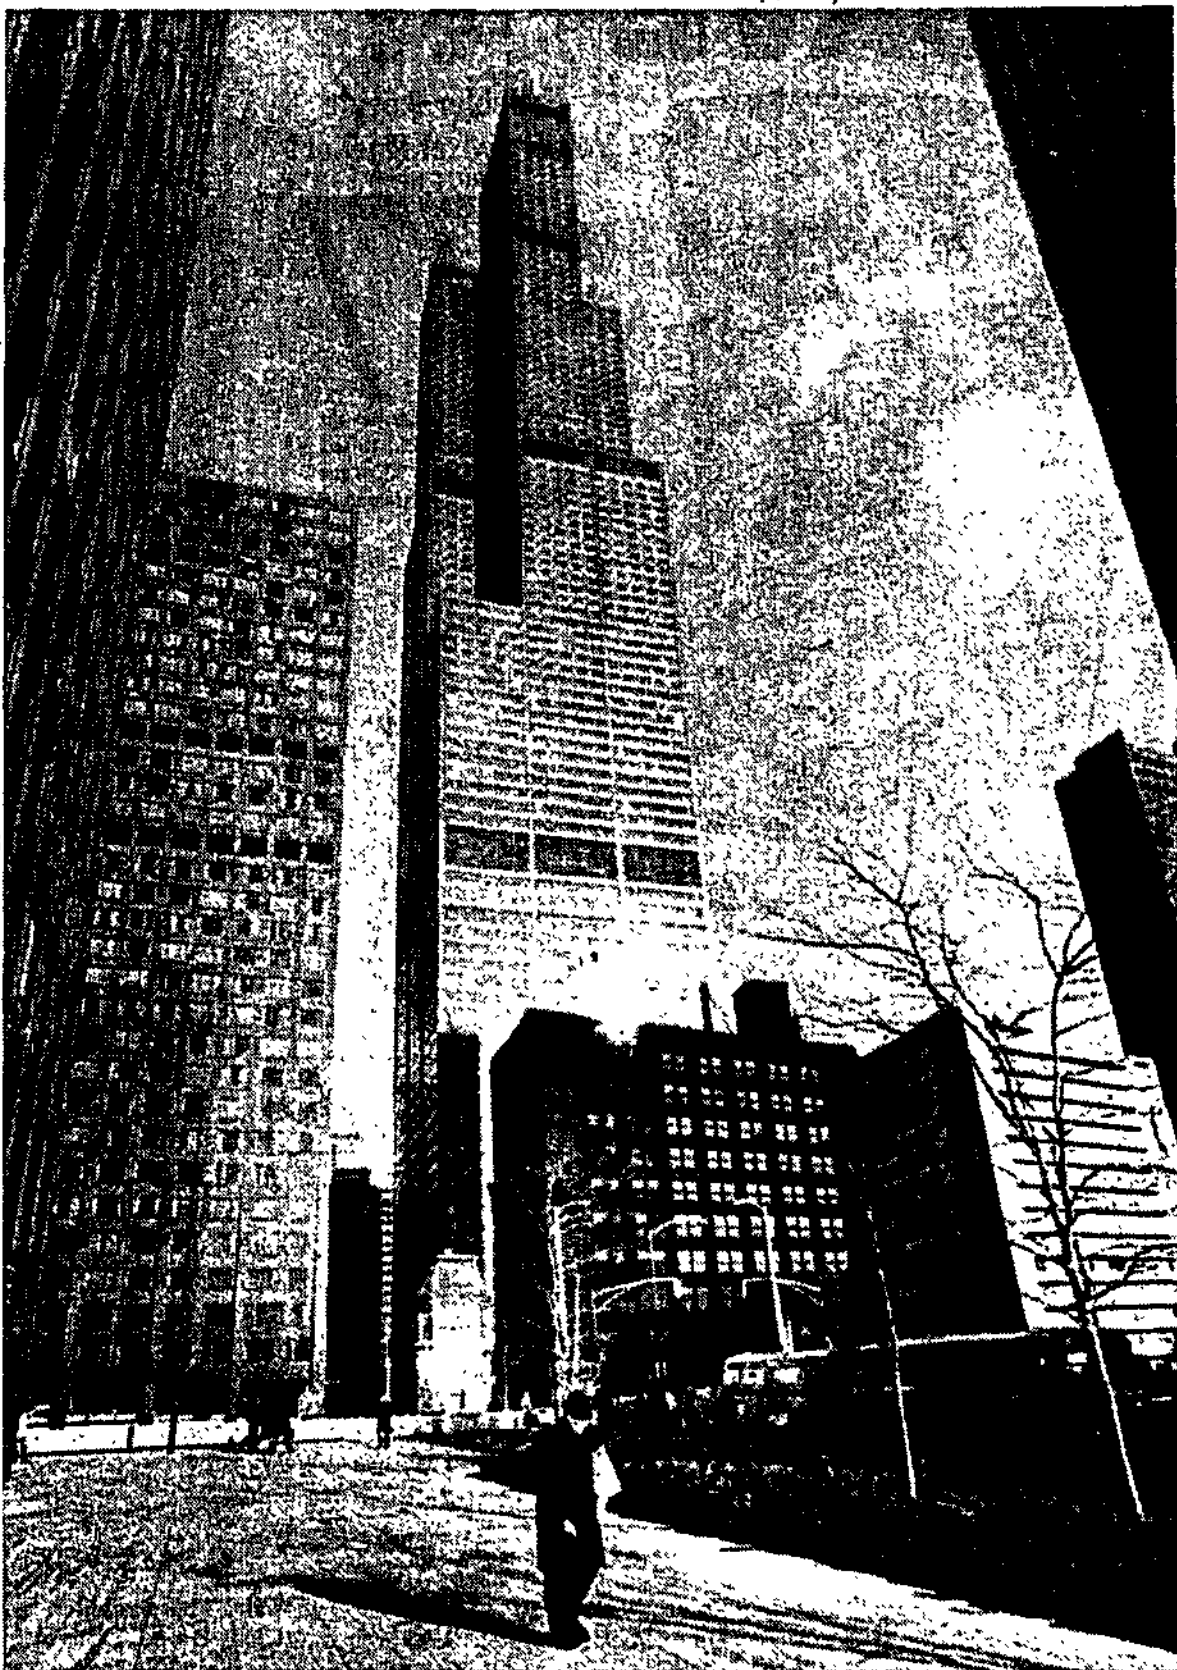

Sears, Roebuck and Co. occupies the bottom 50 floors and rents out the remainder. About 7,000 Sears employees work in the tower, which has a work force capacity estimated at 16,700. As of November the building was about 80 per cent occupied.

It took slightly more than four years to complete the tower after groundbreaking in the spring of 1970.

The Skydeck has become one of the city's most popular drawing cards, attracting an average of 6,100 visitors daily and many more visiting on complimentary passes. Income generated by visitors is $3,500 a day or more than $3 million annually.

A SLOPING plaza at the ground level is surfaced in red granite imported from Argentina. The floors and walls inside in public areas are covered in Italian travertine marble.

There is enough telephone conductor wire in the tower to go around the world one and three-quarter times. The building contains 350 pay

SLIGHTLY MORE THAN one acre of land in downtown Chicago contains enough concrete, 73,000 cubic yards, to build an eight-lane highway five telephones and 7,000 more locations for occupants.

The tower's so-called "life-safety system" includes automatic sprinklers, smoke detectors, emergency diesel generators and sophisticated communications in what Sears calls "the most complete life-safety system ever devised for a high-rise building."

The elevator system consists of 76 single-deck cabs and 14 double-deckers, divided into three zones to speed up service. Two express cars ascend to the 1,353-foot high Skydeck in less than one minute.

PUBLIC SERVICES in the lower level and mezzanine include a bank, five restaurants, barber shop, drug store, optometrist, print shop and four apparel shops. Underneath is a 150-car tenant parking lot.

Heating cables under surrounding sidewalks and parking approaches prevent snow and ice from accumulating and help keep the area clean.

A street sweeper does the job the rest of the year.

Provisions for the handicapped include several gradual grade ramps, automatic powered doors, special restroom facilities on 12 floors and low-hanging telephones with touch-tone dialing and amplifiers to control volume.

Two television stations are transmitting from the rooftop and another is moving in next year. Although there are no large antennae, there are provisions to add them if future needs call for it.

Special Holiday Brunch

Holidays are special family times. Here's a menu to make brunch a festive holiday occasion for the family. The looks and taste are especially appealing and as a gift dividend, the meal is highly nutritious.

The main course is a jelly-roll style souffle with a savory ham stuffing and cheese sauce. It takes a little extra effort, but is well worth the results. Actually, the filling and sauce may be prepared in advance and reheated at serving time.

The jewel-studded cranberry muffins may also be made ahead and reheated in the oven while the souffle is baking. And the cheese candle must be done in advance so it can set. A paperboard milk carton gives this edible Yule candle its shape.

Hot Mocha, served from a heat-proof carafe, is a warming finish for this brunch. This nutritious beverage is one you'll want to serve often during the cold winter months.

CRANBERRY JEWEL MUFFINS

- |                      |                            |
|----------------------|----------------------------|
| 1 cup milk           | 1/2 cup sugar              |
| 1 egg                | 3 teaspoons baking powder  |
| 1/4 cup salad oil or | 1/2 teaspoon salt          |
| melted shortening    | 1/2 cup fresh cranberries, |
| 2 cups sifted        | cut in halves              |
| all-purpose flour    |                            |

Grease bottom of 2 1/2-inch muffin pan cups or line with paper baking cups. Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Combine milk, egg and salad oil and beat with fork to mix well. Sift flour with sugar, baking powder and salt into large bowl. Make a well in center of flour mixture. Pour in milk mixture all at once; stir quickly with fork just until flour disappears. Do not beat. Fold in cranberries. Fill muffin pan cups 3/4 full. Bake at 400 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes, until golden. Loosen edges of muffins with spatula; turn out and serve hot with Yule Cheese Candle. Makes 12 muffins.

Note: Muffins may be baked ahead, then reheated before serving. To reheat, wrap in foil and place in 375-degree oven 8 to 10 minutes.

YULE CHEESE CANDLE

| 1/2 teaspoon salt             | 2 teaspoons grated lemon rind |
| 1/2 cup milk                  |                               |

Rinse out milk carton and let dry. Cut off entire top (pouring end) of carton. Mix gelatin, sugar and salt in small saucepan. Stir in milk. Place over low heat, stirring, until gelatin is dissolved. Let cool. With electric mixer, beat cream cheese and cottage cheese until smooth. Add lemon juice and rind. Slowly beat in milk mixture. Pour into prepared milk carton. Chill several hours until firm. To serve, cut down sides of carton and slide candle with spatula onto serving dish.

Frosty, the ham salad snowman

Festive addition to holiday tables

A snowman made of ham salad frosted with cream cheese, a decorative tuna fish wreath and a Christmas tree fashioned from bleu cheese brighten a holiday table laden with festive and appetizing hors d'oeuvres.

These clever creations are the handiwork of Mrs. Roy Wagner of Rolling Meadows. Talented with arts and craft projects, Judie Wagner's artistic abilities carry over into the kitchen where she prepares party food with a flair for color as well as flavor.

The array of appetizers Judie sets forth for a holiday open house delight the eye as well as the palate. There are miniature chickens made from thin shrimp set on a nest of green tinted cream cheese, olive roses, liverwurst strawberries and tiny cheese carrots, along with an assortment of tasty hot hors d'oeuvres.

Frosty, the ham salad snowman, dominates the scene, with his rakish green pepper hat, cherry pom pom and pimiento scarf. Set on a bed of parsley, he is surrounded with an assortment of crackers.

The wreath is made from a tuna salad formed into a ring. Holly leaves are cut from green pepper, and the berries are made from bits of pimiento. A bow can be fashioned from either green pepper or pimiento.

JUDIE MAKES a Christmas tree from a mixture of bleu cheese and cream cheese. She forms this into the shape of a cone, pulls out branches and scatters finely-chopped parsley and pimiento over the tree. A gold star is perched on the top.

Judie acquired many of her ideas from her mother, a retired cateress. Often they get together prior to the holidays and make a couple hundred appetizers to have on hand for entertaining.

Liverwurst is formed into the shape of strawberries and rolled into finely-chopped nuts tinted red with food coloring. A bit of parsley forms the stem.

Carrots are fashioned from a sharp cheese spread, with a bit of parsley tucked into the end. Both are placed on small bread rounds which have been spread with butter and green-tinted cream cheese softened with a little milk. The Wagners' children, Wendy, 9, and Michael, 6, love to watch these appetizers being made. Judie's table also includes a platter of deviled eggs and a lazy susan laden with relishes such as cocktail beets, radish roses, pickles, celery fans, olives and carrots.

Hot dishes include sausage balls, marinated chicken wings, breaded chicken and salami rolls, mini quiche lorraine and coated fried mushrooms.

THE SAUSAGE balls are made with bulk pork sausage seasoned with chili powder and Italian-flavored bread crumbs. After browning, they are simmered in a tangy tomato sauce. Served from a chafing dish, they are very popular with guests.

Asparagus spears are wrapped in chicken and salami slices for another tasty hors d'oeuvre. Dipped into egg and bread crumbs and fried to a golden brown, they are cut in small pieces to serve.

Orange marmalade, soy sauce, ginger and garlic are used as marinade for the chicken wings. Baked in the mixture, they have appealing glaze and unique Polynesian flavor.

In addition to the creative aspect of cooking and garnishing foods, Judie enjoys baking. She makes pumpkin, banana and coconut breads for the holidays and serves these on a table of sweets, which includes an assortment of cookies and fruit cake. After guests have had their fill of hot and cold hors d'oeuvres, a baked delicacy always hits the spot, according to Judie.

FROSTY THE HAM SALAD SNOWMAN

3 pounds ham salad
8 ounces or more cream cheese

Form ham salad into three balls, graduated in size, and stack up to form a snowman 10 to 12 inches tall. Soften cheese to a spreading consistency, adding a little milk, if needed. Frost snowman. Raisins or pieces of green pepper may be used for eyes, the tip end of a carrot for the nose, and a piece of radish or cherry cut to make a smiling mouth.

Try to find an odd-shaped green pepper resembling a stocking cap and place on snowman's head. Secure a cherry pom pom on top with a toothpick. Make a scarf from pimiento and fringe the ends with a knife or scissors. Use raisins or circles of carrots for buttons, and give the snowman a toy broom to hold. Surround the base with parsley and beyond that a circle of crackers.

SHRIMP ON A NEST

Lightly spread small bread rounds, about 1 1/4 inches in diameter with butter. (About four rounds can be made from one slice of bread.) Tint softened cream cheese light green and spread over bread.

Using canned shrimp, place one on each bread round with the ends up. Using a pastry tube, make a green cream cheese eye. Use yellow tinted cream cheese to make beak and tail feathers. Pipe around the edges of the bread rounds with green tinted cream cheese. When done, they should resemble a chicken on a nest.

SAUSAGE BALLS

2 pounds bulk pork sausage
2 eggs, well-beaten
2/3 cup fine dry crumbs
(Italian flavored preferred)
1/2 teaspoon chili powder
1 16-ounce can tomato sauce with mushrooms
6 tablespoons catsup
2 tablespoons soy sauce
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce

Mix the pork sausage, eggs, bread crumbs and chili powder together well. Shape into small balls, about the size of a walnut. Brown and drain well.

Combine remaining ingredients in a saucepan. Add sausage balls and simmer about 15 minutes. Serve hot from a chafing dish. Spear with toothpick.

BREADED CHICKEN AND SALAMI ROLLS

8 slices hard salami
8 slices chicken loaf
3 tablespoons mayonnaise
1 15-ounce can asparagus spears, drained
2 eggs, slightly beaten
2/3 cup dried bread crumbs (Italian preferred)
3 tablespoons butter or margarine

Place one slice salami on each chicken slice. Spread with mayonnaise. Place an asparagus spear on each. Roll up jelly-roll fashion and secure with toothpick.

Dip rolls in egg, then in bread crumbs. Repeat process to coat rolls twice. In a large skillet, over medium heat, fry in butter to a golden brown, about ten minutes.

Remove toothpicks. Cut each roll into four pieces. Stick a toothpick through each to serve. Makes about 32. Can make ahead and reheat before serving in a 350 degree oven about 10 to 15 minutes.

APPETIZER CHICKEN WINGS

15 chicken wings
1/2 cup orange marmalade
1/2 cup soy sauce
1/4 teaspoon ground ginger
1/4 teaspoon garlic juice or powder

Cut tip section off wings and discard. Cut wings apart at joint to form two pieces. Mix remaining ingredients together and marinate chicken pieces overnight in the refrigerator, covered.

Before serving, bake in marinade one hour at 350 degrees. Accompany with napkins.

Inexpensive Christmas cookies begin with cake mix

Christmas cookies without sugar? It sounds incredible. But Mrs. John Rogers, a Mount Prospect homemaker and former Pineapple Classic finalist, has found a simple alternative. She recently discovered among her extensive recipe collection three cookie recipes that use cake mix and is so enthusiastic about the results, she called to share the news.

The recipes were created by Duncan Hines for the company's cake mixes. However, Mrs. Rogers has tried other brands and found the results basically the same. Two eggs, oil and water are the basic additions in each recipe to convert the mix to cookie dough. Chocolate chips, nuts, or peanut butter are used for various flavors.

Each mix makes about 100 cookies, according to Marilyn Rogers. With cake mixes priced between 70 and 85 cents, the cost is unbelievably cheap considering today's cost for baking ingredients.

Following are the three recipes from Mrs. Rogers' file. You may want to experiment with various mix flavors and ingredients to create your own favorites.

DOUBLE CHOCOLATE NUGGETS

1 package chocolate cake mix (Devil's food, Swiss chocolate, or deep chocolate)
1/2 cup cooking oil
2 eggs
1 cup (6-ounce package) chocolate chips

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Using a spoon, beat cake mix, cooking oil and eggs until well blended. Stir in chocolate chips. Drop by teaspoon onto ungreased cookie sheet. Bake 10 to 12 minutes in preheated oven. Remove cookies from oven and let set for 1 minute before removing from pan. Cool on wire cake rack. Yield: about 100 small cookies.

CHOCOLATE CHIP COOKIES

1 package yellow or white cake mix
1/2 cup cooking oil
2 tablespoons water
2 eggs
1 cup (6-ounce package) chocolate chips
1/2 cup chopped nuts

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Using a spoon, blend cake mix, cooking oil, water and eggs. Stir in chocolate chips and nuts. Drop from teaspoon onto ungreased cookie sheet. Bake in preheated oven 10 to 12 minutes. (Top of cookies will be pale.) Remove pan and let cookies set about 1 minute. Cool on wire cake rack. Yield: about 100 small cookies.

PEANUT BUTTER COOKIES

1 package yellow cake mix
1-1/4 cup peanut butter
1/2 cup cooking oil
2 tablespoons water
2 eggs

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Using a spoon, beat all ingredients until well blended. Drop from teaspoon onto ungreased cookie sheet. Dip a fork in water and press each cookie flat. Bake in preheated oven 10 to 12 minutes. Remove cookies from oven, then let cook 1 minute before removing from pan. Finish cooling on wire cake rack. Yield: about 100 small cookies.

Crunchy dumplings

Stick-to-your-ribs soups and stews are yummier and heartier with these walnut-studded dumplings. Skillet toast 3/4 cup California walnuts in 1 tablespoon butter. Cool and chop finely. Mix with 2 tablespoons chopped parsley, green onion or chives, and a dash celery salt into a standard dumpling mixture, then cook as recipe directs. Walnuts also taste good in old-fashioned fluffy, oatmeal, cornmeal and potato dumplings.

Shortbread cookies are time-saver

In many kitchens today, the scarcest commodity is time. This is especially true during the holidays, when there seems to be twice as many things to do as time in which to do them.

One solution is to plan ahead and get fancy baking out of the oven and into the freezer. But as the holidays draw nearer, other solutions need to be found. Then it's time to turn to shortbread cooking.

Here is a Christmas Shortbread Cookie recipe to satisfy clock-watchers. Since all of the ingredients are items you generally have on hand, there's no need for a trip to the store for special ingredients. The rich dough, which boasts the toasty, nut-like goodness of quick or old fashioned oats, is not shaped with cookie cutters. Instead, the rolled-out dough is knife-cut into simple shapes. A sprinkle of tinted sugar can be added for a party look.

CHRISTMAS SHORTBREAD COOKIES

1 cup butter or margarine
1/2 cup sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/4 cups quick or old fashioned oats, uncooked
Heat oven to moderate (350 degrees).

Beat butter until creamy. Gradually add sugar; beat until fluffy. Add egg and vanilla; beat until light and fluffy. Sift together flour and salt. Blend into creamed mixture. Stir in oats.

Roll out to a 15x12-inch rectangle, 1/4-inch thick on board or canvas which has been lightly coated with confectioners sugar. Cut the 12-inch side into 2-inch strips and the 15-inch side into 1 1/4-inch strips to make 5 dozen cookies.

Place on greased cookie sheets; sprinkle with red and green tinted decorators sugar. Bake in preheated oven (350 degrees) 12 to 15 minutes. Remove from cookie sheets immediately. Cool on cooling racks.

Colorful extras for holiday menu

It's that big roast turkey that really puts the glow on the Christmas dinner. This year, fortunately for the family budget, turkey turns out to be one of the food items that haven't gone up in price.

In fact in many areas turkey is even lower per pound than it was last year. Creamed onions are a tradition with many at Christmas feasting. Cheese Onion Bake is a new way to use peeled boiled onions in a sauce made of mushroom soup, Cheddar cheese, and cracker crumbs. Tastes like a gourmet onion dish, but it's easy on the harried cook.

A budget-minded substitute for fruitcake that still has a festive holiday air is Cranberry Crown. Chopped fresh cranberries add color and tang to a cake made in a mold or Bundt pan.

Cooled and unmolded onto a silver serving platter, it's an elegant Christmas dessert.

CHEESE ONION BAKE

2 pounds small white onions
1 10 1/2-ounce can cream of mushroom soup
1 cup shredded Cheddar cheese
1 cup cheese-flavored cracker crumbs, rolled fine
1/4 teaspoon pepper
Paprika (optional)
Peel onions and cook in boiling water until tender. Combine soup, 1/4 cup cheese, 1/2 cup cracker crumbs, and pepper. When onions are tender, drain well and pour into a 1 1/2-quart casserole. Pour mushroom sauce over onions. Sprinkle top with 1/2 cup cheese, 1/2 cup cracker crumbs and paprika. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes. Yield: 8 to 10 servings.

CRANBERRY CROWN

3 cups all-purpose flour
1 cup plus 2 tablespoons sugar
1 1/2 tablespoons baking powder
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1 1/2 teaspoons allspice
3 eggs, beaten
1 1/2 teaspoons fresh orange peel, grated
3/4 cup orange juice
1/2 cup milk
3 tablespoons cooking oil
1 1/2 cups chopped fresh cranberries
1/4 cup golden raisins
1/2 cup chopped walnuts
Sift together flour, sugar, baking powder, salt, and allspice. Combine remaining ingredients; add all at once to flour mixture, stirring only until flour is moistened. Pour into well-greased 10-cup mold or Bundt pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 55 minutes. Cool 10 minutes before removing from pan. Serve warm. Yield: 10 to 12 pieces.

Elegant steamed pudding perfect for holiday dinner

Nothing is more appropriate for a holiday or Christmas dinner than Steamed Date Pudding. This recipe came from a reader in Champaign, Ill., who is an expert in its preparation.

Cream 1/4 cup butter until light and creamy, then gradually stir in 1 cup strained honey. Add 2 well-beaten eggs, flavored with 1/4 teaspoon almond and 1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract. Beat a full minute.

For the dry ingredients, sift together 2 1/2 cups cake flour, 2 1/2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1/2 teaspoon cloves, 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg, 1/2 teaspoon salt. Add 1 cup finely chopped pitted dates and 1/3 cup blanched, toasted and ground almonds. Mix thoroughly. Now add 1 cup milk which has been scalded and cooled, and stir until blended.

Combine the two mixtures and pour into buttered large mold or individual molds only until 2/3 full allowing space for expansion. Cover the mold tightly and place on a trivet in a steamer over an inch of boiling water. Use high heat until steaming begins, then lower heat. Complete circulation of steam is necessary for a properly cooked pudding. For individual molds, cook 1 1/2 hours; for single larger mold, 2 hours.

THE PUDDING may be served with whipped cream but is even more delicious with this Moroccan Sauce. In the top of a double boiler beat 3 eggs with 3 tablespoons powdered sugar and a pinch of salt until thoroughly blended and fluffy. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly from bottom of the pan until it thickens.

Remove from hot water and continue beating until cool, adding 1 1/2 tablespoons brandy. Fold in 1 cup cream, whipped, then add a few grains of salt, a few drops of lemon extract, and 1/2 cup almonds which have been blanched, toasted and shredded.

It is well worth the effort to add a festive touch to a holiday meal.

Party desserts from ice cream

Special occasions like Christmas and New Years call for showy desserts. When they can be prepared a day or two in advance, it saves last minute flurries for the hostess who is busy enough with foods for feasting. Both of these desserts are frozen so they can lodge in the freezer until serving time.

A French chef created the Nesselrode Pudding in honor of the Count by that name who was chamberlain at the court of King Leopold I of Belgium. Of course, the chef boiled chestnuts for this creation as well as making his own rich custard which was then frozen with the fruits.

With ice cream available already to use, it's easy for anyone to make Nesselrode Pudding. It's just a matter of stirring candied fruits and chopped nuts into softened ice cream, pouring into a mold and freezing.

Holiday Sundaes are even simpler to make: Using chilled bell molds, fill with ice cream, freeze, then cover with jam and decorate. The pistachio ice cream variation with cherry preserves is especially delicious.

FROSTY NESSELRODE PUDDING

1 1/2 quarts vanilla ice cream
1 jar (8 oz.) mixed candied fruits, chopped
1/2 cup chopped seedless raisins
1/4 cup chopped nuts
1 teaspoon rum extract

Chill 5 or 6 cup mold in freezer. Place ice cream in bowl and allow to stand in refrigerator 15-20 minutes to soften slightly. Meanwhile combine fruits, raisins, nuts and extract; toss to blend. Stir ice cream until smooth; fold in fruit mixture. Spoon into mold; freeze. To unmold dip into warm water and turn out onto chilled plate. 8-10 servings.

HOLIDAY SUNDAES

Chill seven 4-ounce bell-shaped molds in freezer. Allow 1 quart vanilla ice cream to soften slightly. Pack ice cream into molds. Freeze until firm. To unmold dip into warm water and turn out onto chilled plates. Garnish each with 1 teaspoon strawberry preserves. Decorate with halved red and green candied cherries. 7 servings.

Variation: Substitute pistachio for vanilla ice cream and cherry for strawberry preserves.

Easy recipes from expert for holiday entertaining

by Fran Heckart

When asked for a few easy holiday recipes, Vito Virgilio paused only momentarily. Making quick computations, he tossed out four recipes in his clipped accent before the notebook was barely opened.

He seemed to be literally brimming with ideas and recipes. But this enthusiasm is not unusual for someone who has nearly 33 years experience in the food business. A chef since 1964, Virgilio is currently employed as Chef at the Greenhouse Restaurant, Countryside Mall, Palatine. The menu, which features the usual favorites, prime rib and lobster, also offers sweet breads, barbecued ribs, a popular combination of seafoods called Beachcomber Skillet, Chicken Kiev and pepper steak. Also representative of Virgilio's expertise is the roast duckling with apricot glaze.

Though Virgilio graciously shared his own recipe for the roast duckling, it is a long, involved process. As with specialties from many restaurants, the recipe seems to lack the expert's touch when translated into lay terms. Served at the Greenhouse, it excels any attempt at home preparation. There is still a big difference between home and restaurant pantries.

VIRGILIO'S RECIPES featured today are simple combinations with superior taste appeal. His Antipasto Salad was created for a dinner attended by members of the Executive Chef Association held at the Greenhouse. Excellent for entertaining, the salad is designed to combine the salad and appetizer courses for simplicity. Shrimp, salami, cheese, artichoke hearts and cherry tomatoes are among the ingredients which can be arranged on a lettuce bed for this "two-course" offering. Virgilio recommends serving the salad with a homemade vinaigrette dressing.

A dessert combining six distinct flavors was also created for the Chef's dinner. Though Virgilio's dessert does not bear an official title as yet, it's temporarily referred to as the Greenhouse Dessert. The dessert consists of a layer of sponge cake sprinkled with triple sec and brandy. Green mint ice cream, hot fudge sauce, whipped cream and a maraschino cherry make up the remaining four flavors. The dessert can be made ahead of time for convenience and decorated with whipped cream and cherry just before serving.

GREENHOUSE DESSERT

Sponge cake, unfrosted
Mint ice cream, preferably green
Hot fudge sauce
Brandy
Triple sec
Whipped cream
Maraschino cherries

Use individual parfait glasses or dessert dishes for each serving. Cut rounds of sponge cake and place in each serving dish. Sprinkle cake with brandy and triple sec — use 6 to 1 proportions. Add a scoop of ice cream to each dish making a dent with the back of spoon to hold hot fudge sauce. Before adding sauce, heat it and stir in 1/2 cup powdered sugar for each 1 cup sauce. Heat and stir until sugar caramelizes. Pour hot fudge (about 1 tablespoon) into indentation in ice cream. Freeze dessert to harden sauce and ice cream. At serving time, add whipped cream to each dessert and top with a cherry.

ANTIPASTO SALAD

Make a bed of cold crisp, torn lettuce on individual salad plates. Arrange any combination of the following ingredients on the lettuce: Shrimp, salami, anchovy, artichoke hearts, white asparagus, crabmeat, cherry tomatoes, small wedges of cheese, ripe olive slices, green olives, thinly sliced rings of purple onions. Refrigerate salads. Serve with vinaigrette dressing.

Vinaigrette Dressing

Mix basic dressing using 3 parts oil to 1 part white or wine vinegar. Add about 1 tablespoon of each of the following ingredients finely chopped: Hardcooked egg, green pepper, pimiento, onion, sweet pickle (use less) and dill pickle. Add two drops Tabasco, few drops Lee & Perin Worcestershire sauce and salt for seasoning. Marinate a couple of hours or overnight in the refrigerator. Dressing will keep about 1 week. Omission of egg increases its keeping power.

HOLIDAY DIP

Blend one 8-ounce package softened cream cheese with 2 ounces (1/4 cup) softened butter until smooth and creamy. Season with 2 drops Tabasco, 4 or 5 drops Worcestershire sauce and salt to taste. Stir in 1 tablespoon finely chopped green pepper, then lightly stir in 1 tablespoon chopped pimiento being careful not to smear the red pimiento.
Note: This may be used as a spread on brown bread or as a dip for crackers or vegetables. If using as a dip, add a few drops milk to the cream cheese and butter for a thinner consistency.

VITO VIRGILIO, chef at the Greenhouse restaurant in Palatine, created a festive six-flavor dessert for a dinner party attended by members of the Executive Chef Assn. The dessert, an easy make-ahead dish for home-makers, combines sponge cake, brandy, mint ice cream, hot fudge sauce, whipped cream and cherries.

Quick and easy holiday snacks

Dried fruit balls are quick to make and prove a very personal gift for friends during the holidays. Increase recipe as necessary by doubling or tripling amount of ingredients needed or make a batch of 54 dried fruit balls from original recipe and pack in air free container if you have the time.

DRIED FRUIT BALLS

2 tablespoons margarine
1/2 cup light corn syrup
1 tablespoon water, rum or orange juice
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
2/3 cup nonfat dry milk powder
2 cups dried mixed fruit, finely chopped or ground
2 cups flaked coconut, finely chopped
Confectioners' sugar (optional)

Stir margarine in large mixing bowl. Gradually stir in corn syrup, then water, vanilla and dry milk. Add mixed fruit and coconut; mix until well blended. Shape into small balls. Roll in confectioners' sugar, if desired. Chill. Makes about 54 (1-inch) balls.

Spirited hospitality in minutes

Whether you're having a big festive affair this holiday or just want some special goodies on hand for expected drop-in guests, there are some essential hospitality elements to consider.

Among them is a party helper often overlooked — drinks, both spirited and otherwise, that need not be the same, usual fare. They can be dazzlers that lift up a party, perk-ups to either sip or spoon, served before or after a meal, or big enough punches to float an open-house party.

These sipper and spooners were among the winners in Baskin-Robbins' Ice Cream Show-Off. They are printed, along with other winning desserts, in a Show-Off recipe booklet which is available at all Baskin-Robbins' stores.

HOLIDAY EGGNOG PUNCH

2 quarts eggnog ice cream
2 quarts milk
2 cups bourbon, brandy or light rum
Nutmeg, optional
Spoon slightly softened ice cream into punch bowl; stir in milk and liquor. Refrigerate for 20 to 30 minutes before serving. Stir, and ladle into punch cups. If desired, sprinkle with nutmeg. Makes about 25 four-ounce servings.

EVER-READY HOT BUTTERED RUM

Make this rich batter ahead, store in the freezer, and be ready to serve hot buttered rum spontaneously.
1 quart French vanilla ice cream
1 pound butter
1 pound brown sugar
1 pound confectioners' sugar
2 teaspoons nutmeg
2 teaspoons cinnamon
Rum
Boiling water
Cinnamon sticks, optional
In a large bowl let ice cream and butter sit, at room temperature, until soft. Mix together; stir in sugars, nutmeg and cinnamon. Blend until smooth. Freeze. (Mixture remains spoonable.) To serve, spoon 3 tablespoons batter in mug, add 1 jigger of rum and 6 ounces of boiling water. (Or, use boiling cider and 2 tablespoons of batter.) If desired, use cinnamon sticks as stirrers. Makes about 30 servings.

WINTER WONDERFUL PUNCH

Looking for a party punch that's elegant and different? Here's a dazzler-drink to serve cold or hot.

2 packages (10 ounces) frozen raspberries, slightly thawed
1 quart cranberry-apple drink
Juice of one lemon
1 quart burgundy cherry ice cream

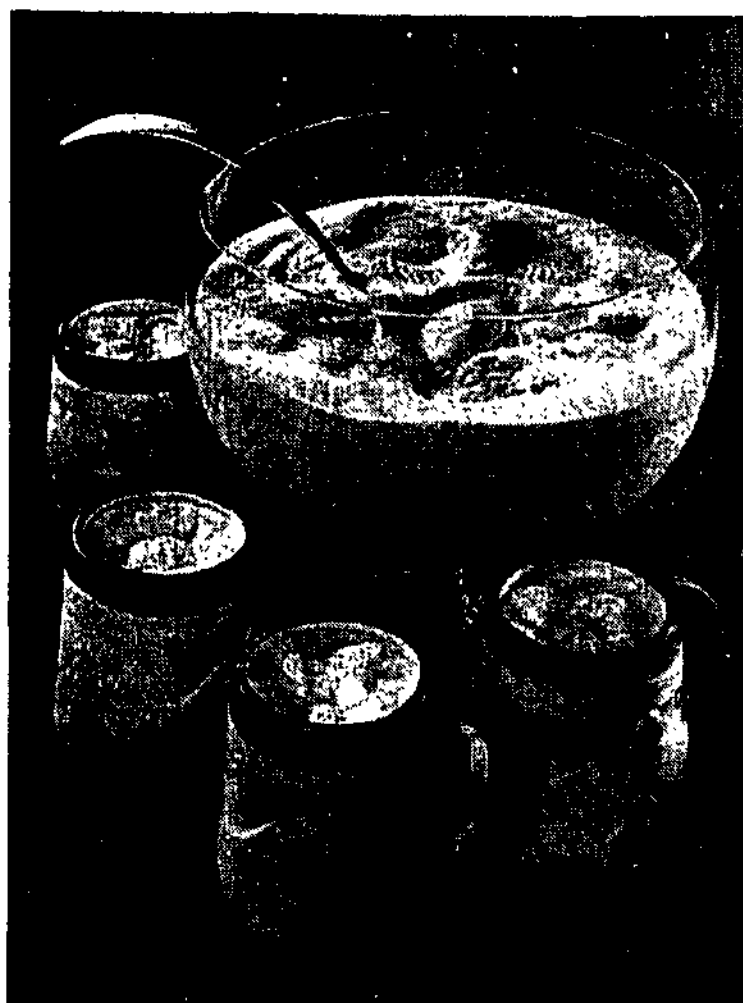

Combine berries, drink and lemon juice in a 2-quart saucepan. Simmer for 10 minutes. Pour mixture through a fine sieve, pressing to obtain all berry pulp possible. Serve, hot or cold, in mugs, each topped with a scoop of ice cream. Makes 10 to 12 servings.

CHOC-LIANO MINT

1 pint chocolate fudge ice cream
2 tablespoons Liqueur Galliano
2 tablespoons creme de menthe
Dash of nutmeg
In blender, or a large bowl, mix ice cream, Galliano and creme de menthe just until smooth. Pour into two glasses; sprinkle lightly with nutmeg. Makes 2 servings.

BOSSA NOVA NOG

Turn your cool date or husband loose with this winning recipe and a blender. The nog serves as a dessert or after dinner perk-up drink.
1 pint chocolate fudge ice cream
4 tablespoons Liqueur Galliano
2 tablespoons Kahlua
1 ice cube, finely crushed
1/4 cup light cream
Cinnamon
Scoop ice cream into blender; add remaining ingredients except cinnamon. Blend on high speed just until smooth. Pour into 4 Irish coffee mugs, or stemmed glasses. Sprinkle lightly with cinnamon. Makes 4 servings.

Holiday Eggnog Punch

Luncheon salad trims calories

Holiday entertaining will be picking up tempo, and along with many of the festive foods come calories, which will soon begin showing on a lot of people.

A new salad that has a holiday appearance, yet is surprisingly modest in calories, is this jellied turkey cranberry mold. Skim milk is the ingredient that helps cut down on calories.

Skim milk is a handy ingredient to use in recipes, when you want to keep the calories low and flavor and nutrition high. Only the butterfat has been removed from skim milk; all of the essential vitamins and minerals and proteins remain.

TURKEY CRANBERRY MOLD

2 tablespoons unflavored gelatin
1 1/4 cups skim milk

1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup salad dressing
2 cups cubed cooked turkey
1 cup chopped celery
1/4 cup cold water
1/4 cup lemon juice
1 1-lb. can whole cranberry sauce

Soften one tablespoon gelatin in 1/4 cup skim milk for 5 minutes; dissolve over boiling water. Add remaining milk and salt. Chill until thickened. Beat until frothy. Fold in dressing, turkey and celery. Spoon in 8-inch square pan. Chill until partially set. Soften one tablespoon gelatin in water. Dissolve over boiling water. Add lemon juice. Stir in to cranberry sauce. Spoon over first layer. Chill until firm. Serves 8.

WHIP's slate vows cleanup of village

by JOE FRANZ

The Wheeling Improvement Party (WHIP) charged Wednesday night that village government has been unresponsive and pledged to improve the community's image if the WHIP slate is victorious in April's village elections.

WHIP members met to nominate candidates for the four village board seats that expire in April. The newly slated WHIP hopefuls said that village government in the past has been dominated by corruption, poor administration, poor planning nepotism and conflict of interest.

"Wheeling isn't a rotten town," said Charles Kerr, one of WHIP's candidates. "But unfortunately some people are responsible for giving the village that image."

"If I AM ELECTED, I will try to change the village's image and make it responsive to the people, which it isn't now," Kerr said.

John Cole, also nominated, said if elected he will work to "overhaul the village administration. I sat back for many years and said 'let George do it,'" he said, in obvious reference to Village Mgr. George Passolt. "But I have finally come to the conclusion that I don't like what George has been doing."

Cole cited a recent error by Passolt which cost the village $10,000 as an example. "I don't think this is an isolated incident," he said.

"I think we have to ask ourselves where do we want to go and how can we get there," Cole continued. "At one time the village had a plan. But I don't think it has one now."

Otis (Skip) Hedlund, an unsuccessful candidate for village president in 1973, has again been slated by WHIP.

"The things that have come out of the village recently have substantiated what we said in the last campaign," Hedlund said.

"I think we need to finish up where Jim Thompson left off," he said in reference to the indictments last January of six former and present Cook County and Wheeling officials.

"WHEELING HAS been dragged through the mud the last year and I think we need a group of people who are going to turn things around and restore pride in Wheeling," he said.

Gilbert Monoson, the fourth WHIP candidate, said the current village govern-

Qualifications listed for 4 candidates

The Wheeling Improvement Party (WHIP) Wednesday night nominated four candidates to run for the village board next April. They are:

• Gilbert Monoson, 29, of 42 Berkshire Dr., a member of the plan commission and village resident for more than two years.

• Otis (Skip) Hedlund, 40, 125 Berkshire Dr., a trustee for the Wheeling Township Rural Fire Protection District. He has lived in Wheeling 13 years and is an electronic engineer at A.B. Dick Co., Chicago.

• Charles Kerr, 51, of 20 Berkshire Dr., a member of the police pension board and village resident for three years. He is employed by Northwestern University as a management and training consultant and supervisor of campus short courses.

• John Cole, 42, of 130 Berkshire Dr., a member of the Wheeling relations committee. He has lived in the village for 10 years and is assistant business administrator at the University of Chicago School of Medicine.

ment has been "arrogant and insensitive" to the people. "I have been astounded by the nepotism which plagues the police, public works department and village hall itself," he said. "The conflicts of interest involving various commissioners and trustees have depressed me to no end at times and the inability to move in a forward manner held back by gross incompetence, waste and patronage is downright obscene," Monoson said.

The members of WHIP chose the board candidates from eight which had been recommended by the party's nominating committee. Those not slated Wednesday were John Krajewski, Harold Fagan, William Rogers and Walter Strzyk.

$6,000 in carpeting, appliances stolen

Burglars carted off $6,000 to $7,000 worth of appliances and carpeting from the Foxboro North apartment complex, on the west side of Wolf Road north of Hintz Road in Wheeling.

A spokesman for the builder said the appliances were stolen from both finished but unoccupied apartments and from storage areas at the site. He said an inventory has not been completed, yet but several refrigerators, one or two electric ranges, several garbage disposals, several dishwashers and carpeting were stolen.

The carpeting was removed from the apartments where it had been installed, he said.

Information on the burglary, which occurred sometime early Wednesday, was unavailable from police.

Burglars tried stores adjacent to Douglas

Burglars who broke through the roof of the Douglas Home Center, 548 W. Dundee Rd., early Tuesday also apparently tried to enter two nearby stores, Wheeling police said Wednesday.

Police said they found roof damage above Dominick's Food Store and Logos Book Store, both adjacent to the home center.

At the Douglas Home Center, the burglars took $20.45 from a cash register and caused $150 damage to the register and the roof.

Police said an intruder alarm in the store did not go off during the burglary, and the burglary was discovered when the store opened Tuesday.

Saves partner's life during Mount Prospect drug 'bust'

Woman agent shoots suspect

by TOM VON MALDER

A young woman drug agent who had been thrown through a glass bookcase apparently saved the life of her undercover partner early Wednesday by shooting and seriously wounding the suspected leader of a major Northwest suburban drug ring.

The accused drug dealer, Larry Siebert, 42, and two others had panicked and attacked the two agents during a drug sale after a closed-circuit television security system showed a phalanx of undercover police running through the lobby of their Mount Prospect apartment building.

Siebert was admitted to the intensive-care unit at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights after the 1:30 a.m. shooting at 1101 Hunt Club Rd., Mount Prospect. He was in critical condition late Wednesday with a bullet lodged near the base of his spine, police said.

SIEBERT WAS SHOT in the thigh and groin by a Sheriff's policewoman, who is a member of the secret anti-drug Metropolitan Enforcement Group unit. Before the shooting, the woman agent had been thrown through a glass-shelved bookcase and Siebert was standing over the second undercover agent and threatening to shoot him in the head, police said.

Both agents were treated for cuts and then released, police said. The male agent also was thrown against a glass table during a scuffle for a gun, police said.

Siebert was charged with attempted murder and sale of cocaine. His son and the owner of the apartment, Dean Siebert, 20, also was arrested and was charged with attempted murder and possession and sale of cocaine.

Bond was set Wednesday at $75,000 each for the Sieberts. Dean was being held at the Mount Prospect police station. Both will appear Jan. 14 in the Niles branch of Circuit Court.

Police are still searching for Dean's wife, Carol, 20, who escaped from the apartment during the shooting, they said. Police said Wednesday they had been contacted by the woman's attorney but she had not surrendered. Drug charges are pending against her, police said.

THE TWO AGENTS were in the Sieberts' apartment to purchase two ounces of cocaine for almost $2,000, police said. The Wednesday "buy" reportedly was set about a week ago when undercover agents bought almost $700 worth of cocaine from Dean and Carol Siebert, police said.

Police said, Dean Siebert told the agents Wednesday that he had to call his supplier before making the sale. The agents then waited until the elder Siebert arrived. During the time at the apartment, Larry Siebert, however, noticed several other agents entering the building through the closed circuit television system with which the building is equipped as a security device.

"The Sieberts turned on the two agents," said John J. Hinchey, MEG director. "They hurled the female agent through a glass-shelved bookcase and onto the floor and tackled and disarmed the male agent."

"Larry Siebert stood over the male agent and threatened to shoot him in the head. The female agent was lying on the floor bleeding from the cuts she got from the glass and she shot him twice."

ABOUT AN HOUR after the arrests, Larry Siebert's youngest son, 16, entered the apartment building. Police said he was armed with a pellet gun and apparently was "going after" the MEG agents.

The son, whose first name was not released by police because of his age, was held on a curfew violation until he was released to his mother later Wednesday morning. Police said no charges were filed against the youth.

Police said they were able to spot the youth entering the building by watching the same television monitor on which Larry Siebert spotted the other agents earlier.

Police said the Sieberts were a major drug supplier for young adults in both Cook and DuPage counties. Undercover agents had worked on the case for at least six months prior to Wednesday's arrests, police said.

$7,500 to keep concrete from freezing

Flood work to continue 'til spring

Wheeling officials have agreed to spend an additional $7,500 in the hope of completing work by spring on a project to relieve flooding in the Meadowbrook West area.

The project will consist of widening the Wheeling Drainage ditch, planting sod along the banks and installing a new bridge where the ditch crosses Jeffery Avenue. Workers already have removed some of the trees along the drainage ditch in preparation for the other work.

Trustee William Hein, chairman of the sewer, water and public health committee, Wednesday said the additional $7,500 will pay for equipment to protect the newly poured concrete during the cold weather.

Since much of the concrete work will be done in below freezing temperatures, Hein said workers will have to use stoves to keep the concrete at a warmer temperature. The freshly poured concrete also will have to be covered to ensure proper curing in the cold weather.

HEIN SAID THE village will enter into a winter contract and pay the additional expense only if the contractor agrees to have the work completed by April 1. "I don't think there will be any problem getting the contractor to agree to that," Hein said.

The trustee said he recommended the work continue through the winter because it probably will create less inconvenience for nearby residents at this time of year. "I would like to see it done now because the ground is hard and the equipment will not be tracking up backyards as much as it would when the ground is soft," Hein said.

Village Mgr. George Passoliti said the additional expense will bring the cost of the project to about $142,000.

Work is at a temporary standstill, he said, but probably will resume in the near future. The manager refused to predict when the project will be completed, saying progress is largely dependent on the weather.

The bridge work will consist of replacing the old structure with a precast concrete bridge. A temporary road to Meadowbrook West was completed recently and will be opened when the bridge is being replaced so residents will be able to get in and out of the subdivision.

UNTIL THE ROAD was installed, the bridge provided the only access to Meadowbrook West. The road connects Nancy Lane and Carpenter Avenue. The village has been granted a temporary easement for the 600-foot road and it will be vacated after the bridge is replaced.

The bridge replacement and ditch work was proposed more than two years ago, but has been delayed several times due to opposition from residents, failure to get bidders and problems getting an easement for the temporary road.

Residents and village officials reached agreement on the proposed improvements last September. Before that, residents said they feared the work would result in the loss of their property and an excessive number of trees, cause erosion and aggravate rather than help flooding problems.

Hein said agreement has been reached on which trees will be removed, and the village has assured residents none of their property will be lost because of the improvement project.

400 acres lie fallow in Buffalo Grove

Tight money may delay building again

by JOHN MAES

The possibility of a poor mortgage market again next year could cause further delays in scheduled construction projects in Buffalo Grove, officials said.

Village Mgr. Daniel Larson said there are about 400 acres of undeveloped land in Buffalo Grove on which developers have been forced to hold back construction because they have been unable to obtain mortgages for would-be occupants.

Economic conditions have made lending institutions increasingly hesitant to commit themselves to mortgages, Larson said.

Larson said that developments such as Village on the Lake, Oak Creek condominiums, Arrow Head West and the final building in Cambridge on the Lake have remained unstarted.

IN ADDITION, the uncertainty of next year's mortgage market makes it impossible to predict whether the work will proceed next spring, he said.

These projects would generate an estimated $100,000 in building permit fees and sewer and water system connection charges for the village.

Herschel Farr, executive vice president of the Home Builders Assn., Chicago, also said it would be difficult to forecast next year's mortgage outlook saying a major factor will be the future of hoped-for state legislation that would extend usury laws.

He said, however, "I project a good building season if we can reverse the doomday publicity that has influenced the public attitude in buying."

LARSON SAID the first three months of next year will be a "crucial" period in determining building activity because it is the time when developers try to arrange mortgages and plan their building season.

Larson said village officials however will budget "for the worst" from building revenues when preparing next year's budget.

He said if permit revenues are low again next year, the village may not be able to "expand" in some program areas such as additional landscaping on the Dundee Road medians and around the village hall and may be unable to make some purchases of equipment.

He said village officials will be preparing next year's budget so building permit fees will be used for those projects he referred to as "not of a high critical nature."

A BAD BUILDING season last year was partly to blame for the village's current tight financial situation because building revenues were not coming in as expected. The three-month cement truckdrivers' strike was a contributor to the construction slowdown.

Larson said the village's financial ills were compounded earlier this year by late property-tax revenues in Cook and Lake counties, a prime source of funds for village operating expenses.

Low and late revenues caused some concern on the part of village officials that a second set of tax anticipation warrants would have to be sold in addition to the $140,000 worth sold on the 1973 tax levy to meet payroll and operating expenses.

Changes have been made in tax-collection procedures for both counties and Larson said the problem should be avoided next year.

THE CONCERN about additional tax warrants has been relieved because Larson said sufficient revenue is available to carry the village through to the beginning of the 1975 fiscal year beginning May 1.

He said, however, the village will continue a close monitoring of expenses until the financial situation improves.

Even if next year's building revenues are low, Larson said, Buffalo Grove should take in two new sources of sales and property tax revenues when the Grand Spaulding Dodge dealership and Plaza Verde Shopping Center open next year.

Grand Spaulding is expected to open early next year while Plaza Verde should be open sometime in May.

Resident objects to closing of zoning board applications

A Wheeling resident who wants to be on the village zoning board of appeals has objected to village officials' decision to cut off applications for a vacancy on the board.

Norman Chafetz, 1710 Ottawa Ct., said Wednesday he would like to serve on the zoning board and does not think village officials gave proper notice before cutting off applications.

Trustee Albert Lang, chairman of the judiciary and purchasing committee, which interviews and recommends candidates, said Monday night eight persons are being considered for the vacancy and that no more applications would be accepted.

Koeppen to seek new trustee term

Wheeling Trustee John Koeppen has taken out nominating petitions and apparently will seek reelection in April, it was learned Wednesday.

Koeppen, a member of the village board for almost 10 years, could not be reached for comment, but Village Clerk Evelyn Diens confirmed that he had taken out the petitions.

Village hall sources said Koeppen is considering running on a slate with incumbent trustees Albert Lang and Edward Berger. Lang and Berger have not yet announced their plans.

The other incumbent, Trustee Ronald Brubaker, has said he will not seek another term.

Two youths charged in station burglary

Wheeling police arrested two village youths this week for the Sunday morning burglary of the Clark gas station, 310 N. Milwaukee Ave.

One of the two suspects, arrested at the Wildwood Apartments was a former employee of the gas station and had two keys to the station, police said Wednesday. The arrests were made Monday but police did not release the information until Wednesday.

Both youths allegedly admitted their parts in the burglary and $15 of the $31 stolen has been recovered, police said. Also stolen were five cartons of cigarettes, which were not recovered.

Each youth was released to his parents and both will be the subject of petitions in juvenile court, police said.

THE POSITION ON the zoning board was vacated by Ronnie Potter in October. "We've had this thing open for quite a while," Lang said. "We have interviewed quite a few candidates and I think we should make an appointment soon."

Chafetz said, however, the village should have given at least a week's notice before cutting off applications. He said he intends to ask Lang and the village board to extend the deadline.

"I think this is kind of a raw deal," Chafetz said. "The village is going to diminish its credibility if this is going to be the way they operate."

Persons being considered for the opening on the zoning board are John Cargill, 490 E. Moss Ave.; Donald J. Domnick, 183 Cindy Ln.; Floyd Fry, 252 E. Dennis Rd.; John Gallagher, 1310 Exeter Ct.; Steven Hayward, 1411 Anthony Rd.; Jerome Klubeck, 101 Mockingbird Ln.; James Walsh, 290 N. Sixth St., and William E. Fogel, 1604 Chippewa Tr.

CARGILL WAS placed on six months' court supervision Tuesday for allegedly firing a gun at his girlfriend. Cargill, who had been charged with reckless conduct, filed a counter complaint of battery against the woman, Marlene McManus, 1710 Drury Ln., Arlington Heights. She has been placed on three months' court supervision.

Cargill's father, Douglas, is the former zoning board chairman and plan commissioner who is a central figure in the controversial West Strong zoning case. He admitted owning 47 lots in the area that was rezoned for apartments while he was chairman of the zoning board.

The younger Cargill applied for an opening on the environmental commission last year, but was not appointed.

Saves partner's life during Mount Prospect drug 'bust'

Woman agent shoots suspect

by TOM VON MIALDER

A young woman drug agent who had been thrown through a glass bookcase apparently saved the life of her undercover partner early Wednesday by shooting and seriously wounding the suspected leader of a major Northwest suburban drug ring.

The accused drug dealer, Larry Siebert, 42, and two others had panicked and attacked the two agents during a drug sale after a closed-circuit television security system showed a phalanx of undercover police running through the lobby of their Mount Prospect apartment building.

Siebert was admitted to the intensive-care unit at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights after the 1:30 a.m. shooting at 1101 Hunt Club Rd., Mount Prospect. He was in critical condition late Wednesday with a bullet lodged near the base of his spine, police said.

SIEBERT WAS SHOT in the thigh and groin by a Sheriff's policewoman, who is a member of the secret anti-drug Metropolitan Enforcement Group unit. Before the shooting, the woman agent had been thrown through a glass-shelved bookcase and Siebert was standing over the second undercover agent and threatening to shoot him in the head, police said.

Both agents were treated for cuts and then released, police said. The male agent also was thrown against a glass table during a scuffle for a gun, police said.

Siebert was charged with attempted murder and sale of cocaine. His son and the owner of the apartment, Dean Siebert, 20, also was arrested and was charged with attempted murder and possession and sale of cocaine.

Bond was set Wednesday at $75,000 each for the Sieberts. Dean was being held at the Mount Prospect police station. Both will appear Jan. 14 in the Niles branch of Circuit Court.

Police are still searching for Dean's wife, Carol, 20, who escaped from the apartment during the shooting, they said. Police said Wednesday they had been contacted by the woman's attorney but she had not surrendered. Drug charges are pending against her, police said.

THE TWO AGENTS were in the Sieberts' apartment to purchase two ounces of cocaine for almost $2,000, police said. The Wednesday "buy" reportedly was set about a week ago when undercover agents bought almost $700 worth of cocaine from Dean and Carol Siebert, police said.

Police said, Dean Siebert told the agents Wednesday that he had to call his supplier before making the sale. The agents then waited until the elder Siebert arrived. During the time at the apartment, Larry Siebert, however, noticed several other agents entering the building through the closed circuit television system with which the building is equipped as a security device.

"The Sieberts turned on the two agents," said John J. Hiney, MEG director. "They hurled the female agent through a glass-shelved bookcase and onto the floor and tackled and disarmed the male agent."

"Larry Siebert stood over the male agent and threatened to shoot him in the head. The female agent was lying on the floor bleeding from the cuts she got from the glass and she shot him twice."

ABOUT AN HOUR after the arrests, Larry Siebert's youngest son, 16, entered the apartment building. Police said he was armed with a pellet gun and apparently was "going after" the MEG agents.

The son, whose first name was not released by police because of his age, was held on a curfew violation until he was released to his mother later Wednesday morning. Police said no charges were filed against the youth.

Police said they were able to spot the youth entering the building by watching the same television monitor on which Larry Siebert spotted the other agents earlier.

Police said the Sieberts were a major drug supplier for young adults in both Cook and DuPage counties. Undercover agents had worked on the case for at least six months prior to Wednesday's arrests, police said.

Schools propose new boundaries to ease crowding

by LINDA PUNCH

A new administrative center and shifted school boundaries are part of the East Maine Dist. 63 Board of Education's proposal for relieving overcrowded conditions in four elementary schools west of Milwaukee Avenue.

Schools affected by the proposed boundary change are Nathanson, Potter and Church streets; Stevenson, 9000 Capitol Dr.; Mark Twain, 8401 Hamlin Ave., all of Des Plaines, and Ballard, 8320 Ballard Rd., Niles.

Under the proposal, administrative offices located in Ballard School will be converted into classroom space. Supt. G. Allan Gogo estimated that renovation of the offices could add nine additional classrooms to the school.

SCHOOL BOUNDARY lines would be shifted to distribute students evenly among the four buildings. The proposed change will involve about 400 elementary students in the schools west of Milwaukee Avenue.

Details of the proposed boundary lines will be sent to parents later this week, Gogo said. Residents will be able to comment on the plan at a public hearing at 7:30 p.m., Jan. 7 at Ballard School.

The boundary changes are designed to alleviate crowded conditions at Nathanson School, where 670 youngsters attend classes in a building designed for 500. It is the only school in the district using mobile units as regular classrooms.

Boundary changes affect all four schools since "no single school can accommodate the overflow" from Nathanson, said Gogo.

THE PROPOSED change — selected from four options presented by administrators and board members — would give Nathanson a student enrollment of 447. School officials said enrollment should ideally be limited to 433 at the school.

Enrollment would total 593 at Mark Twain, 441 at Stevenson and 458 at Ballard. Current enrollment is 493 at Mark Twain, 440 at Stevenson and 322 at Ballard.

Special-education classes located at Twain would be moved to schools east of Milwaukee Road, where classroom space is available, Gogo said.

BOARD MEMBERS discussed rental of classroom space, busing students to schools east of Milwaukee Avenue and building additions to existing schools before deciding on the boundary changes.

Gogo said renting classroom space would be too costly and that schools east of Milwaukee did not have enough open classroom space to handle the overflow from Nathanson.

Gogo said the cost of renovating Ballard will be "minimal — about $75,000 at the most." He estimated that the administrative service center — which would include a diagnostic center, curriculum center, storage space and printing services — would cost about $375,000. Money for the project would be drawn from the $300,000 special education fund, he said. A location for the center has not yet been determined.

Task force rushed for time

by STEVE BROWN

The newly formed Des Plaines Community Development Task Force, meeting for the first time tonight, has only two months to complete a plan that will be submitted with the city application for funds under the U. S. Housing and Community Development Act.

The federal program could bring the city up to $2.5 million over the next six years.

Michael Richardson, city director of planning and zoning, said the task force also will discuss plans for the first in a series of public hearings scheduled for Dec. 30.

The meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m. in the Des Plaines City Hall.

SOME RESIDENTS have expressed concern that the task force might not have enough time to complete the work on the application which will require the city to identify potential problems related to blight and the need for housing for low- and moderate-income families and propose solutions for the problems.

David Wolf, a member of the task force who had been considered for the leadership post on the panel, said Wednesday that the group might not have enough time to do the necessary work. The city council has set a deadline of Feb. 12 for receiving the report.

Wolf formally withdrew from consideration for the chairmanship Monday before the city council voted to name Robert Kunkel, Des Plaines Park District director, to the position.

Wolf said the February deadline is "unrealistic."

"I am very concerned with regard to the tremendous work load imposed upon the task force to produce within a very limited time," Wolf said.

RICHARDSON SAID he believes the task force will be able to complete its work within the required deadline. He indicated the city would probably hire a full-time planner to concentrate on the grant application.

Man's condition good after being hit by car

A 41-year-old Chicago man was listed in good condition Wednesday at Holy Family Hospital from injuries sustained Tuesday when he was hit by a car on Lee Street near Ellinwood Street.

Police said James Burn, 329 N. Lawrence, Chicago, walked into the street from between two standing cars and apparently walked into an auto driven by Amparo Campos, 24, of 1573 Ellinwood St.

The driver of the auto told police she had just accelerated from a red light at Prairie Street when the pedestrian stepped in front of her car.

No tickets were issued.

2nd policeman suspended for long hair

by LUISA GINETTI
A second Des Plaines patrolman has been temporarily suspended for allegedly violating the department's hair code. Patrolman Robert Nels received an emergency suspension Wednesday from Lt. James Scheske for having his hair too long over his ears. The suspension came at about 3 p.m. at the end of roll call for the 3 to 11 p.m. shift. Mike Albrecht, president of the Des Plaines chapter of the Combined Counties Police Assn., said the suspension came when Scheske told Nels his hair did not conform to the code. Nels said he offered to comb his hair behind his ear but Scheske said that would not be good enough, Albrecht said. Albrecht said the suspension will be appealed through channels which includes a meeting with Capt. Dale Mensching today at 10 a.m. Mensching is head of the patrolmen's division. IF MENSCHING upholds the suspension, an appeal will be filed with Police Chief Arthur Hintz and if the chief upholds the matter, an appeal will be filed with the city's board of police and fire commissioners. The commission will meet Dec. 30 to render a decision on the one-day hair-code suspension of Patrolman Scott Broehl, who was charged with violating the code in September for the same reason as Nels. According to the police hair code, hair may extend one-quarter-inch above the rear of the uniform collar but no mention is made of hair length in reference to the ear. The CCPA argued in Broehl's case that hair combed behind the ear is in compliance with the code as it is written. The department argued in the case that a sketch attached to the code shows hair cannot be over the ear.

Broehl testified that he had gotten a haircut four days before the suspension occurred. Nels said he got a haircut last Friday.

Sewage plant, tunnel hearing tonight

Area residents tonight will be able to give their views on a proposed Metropolitan Sanitary District project that includes construction of a sewage treatment plant and connecting deep-tunnel system. The sanitary district has scheduled a public hearing on the project and its impact on the environment. The hearing is required by the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency, and will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Mount Prospect Community Center, 600 S. See-Gwin Ave.

Des Plaines officials and residents are preparing to object to the project, which would place the treatment plant in their city at the southeast corner of Oakton Street and Elmhurst Road. Mount Prospect officials will be present to ask questions about the construction of the deep tunnel system which will carry sewage of the treatment plant. Most of the 160-foot deep tunnels will be located under Mount Prospect streets and parkways, and drop shafts to the tunnels will be blasted out of rock.

The suburbs to be served by the project include Mount Prospect, Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove Village, Wheeling and Buffalo Grove.

Driver hurt as car hits back of tanker

One person was slightly injured late Tuesday in an accident near Golf and Mount Prospect roads when an auto struck the rear end of a semi-tanker. Police said the auto, driven by Bruce J. Beilstein, 23, of 701 Groen Ln., Schaumburg, hit the rear end of the tanker, driven by John E. Whyte, 37, of 1002 Pittner Ave., Evanston, when the two vehicles were going through the intersection. Beilstein was treated and released from Holy Family Hospital. He was cited by police for following too closely. He is scheduled to appear in the Des Plaines branch of Circuit Court Jan. 20.

River Trails schools urge work begin on new Maryville

The River Trails Dist. 26 Board of Education has passed a resolution urging the Illinois Capital Development Board to begin work on the new Maryville School.

The board is asking the state agency "to take action to bid the school and get construction under way," said Supt. John Fridlund. He said Dist. 26 officials are not happy with the ICDB's lack of action on the new school.

"Money was released for construction of the school better than a month ago and there's been no action since that time," he said.

Plans for the new school were approved by the capital development board Oct. 13, freeing $1 million in state funds for construction of the building.

At that time, state officials said the project would probably be put to bid by early November with construction beginning the second week in December. Fridlund said he has "no idea" when construction will begin on the school, which was scheduled for completion in the fall of 1975.

The new building will serve students from Maryville Academy, Des Plaines. Those students now attend River Road School, which must be replaced because it does not meet state safety codes.

Construction of the school has been delayed several times over the last two years because school officials were unable to agree on a site.

Free lunches available to eligible children

The East Maine Dist. 63 Board of Education will provide free lunches for students who parents are temporarily out of work.

School policy states that the district will provide free lunches to children from families in financial need, Patricia Kolvek, assistant business manager, said.

"If the parents are temporarily out of work, then their child is eligible," Mrs. Kolvek said. "We want the public to know this option is available and that free lunches are available for all children who need them."

Anyone wishing to apply for free lunches should contact the school principal or social worker. For further information, call Mrs. Kolvek at 824-1102.

Buckler sabbatical OK'd

The Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 Board of Education unanimously approved the request for a leave of absence for Gerald Buckler, principal at Einstein School, 345 W. Walnut, Des Plaines.

Buckler's request for a sabbatical leave for the 1975-76 school year will allow him to work on his doctorate degree in education.

Szabo and Brannigan join list of council hopefuls

Two more candidates have been added to the list of Des Plaines residents who have said they will seek election to the city council next spring.

Ald. Joseph Szabo, 1st, has taken out nominating petitions and has indicated he intends to seek a fourth term.

Another resident of the city's 4th Ward, Patrick (Dan) Brannigan, 36, of 884 North Ave., Wednesday said he plans to seek an aldermanic post for that ward.

Robert Ilindo, 4th, the incumbent alderman there, has announced that he will not seek reelection.

Clifford Scherer, 184 Norman Ct., Monday said he would also seek the fourth ward post.

James Ballowe, 808 Acres Lane, said he will oppose Szabo. Brannigan said he decided to run for the city council because he has always had an interest in politics.

Brannigan is a circulation driver for the Chicago Daily News. He said he has lived in the city for five years. Brannigan is married and has four children.

He is a member of the American Legion and the Optimist Club. He also indicated he has studied accounting at Loyola University.

Szabo was unopposed in his bid for reelection in 1971. He is chairman of the city council's building grounds and parking lots committee. He is a masonry contractor.

Park district wrapup

Sale of bonds OK'd for tennis courts, lighting

The Des Plaines Park District board this week approved the sale of $400,000 in nonreferendum general obligation bonds for tennis courts and lighting. The bonds will be sold to the First National Bank of Des Plaines at an interest rate of 5.25 per cent.

The sale was negotiated with the bank and park officials said the interest rate was a good one and is substantially lower than the 6 per cent going rate for bonds.

The money for the sale of the bonds will be used to build 10 tennis courts at several parks and to install lighting at several baseball diamonds and pools.

The park district is allowed to sell the bonds without referendum under provisions of a law that allows nonreferendum bond sales not to exceed .5 per cent of the district's assessed valuation.

3rd supervisor to be hired

The park district will hire a third recreation supervisor. The board approved the request of David Markworth, superintendent of recreation, by setting aside $10,000 in the budget for a salary for the position.

Markworth said the additional staff member is needed to relieve the growing work load of Betsy Klink, recreation supervisor, who is in charge of all girls' activities as well as special activities.

The new staff member will assume the responsibility of handling special activities, preparing brochures and programming for the Lake Park bandshell.

The board also approved an increase in the part-time salary schedule. Increases ranged from 5 cents to 20 cents per hour. Minimum starting salaries will be $1.20 per hour for junior leaders who are in junior high school and maximum salaries will go to $2.80 per hour for life guards who are juniors and seniors in college and for high school seniors who serve as park leaders.

Club receives citation

Two certificates of appreciation were presented to the Des Plaines Junior Women's Club for its work in helping to establish the outdoor education center of Lake Park.

The awards were from the Illinois Park and Recreation Society and the Illinois Assn. of Park Districts. The two groups issued the awards after the park district recommended that the junior women's club be cited.

Dear Santa...

Kids' letters differ in content but not in thought — all reflect the tradition of giving, receiving gifts

by LUISA GINETTI

He is said to live in the most remote corner of the North Pole. He is undoubtedly the world's most famous and loved individual in the hearts of children, even though he is an avowed recluse coming out of his home only one night a year and then only at midnight.

Despite these seeming drawbacks, he receives more mail at post offices throughout the country than probably any other individual during the Christmas season and every letter to Santa Claus presents something of a problem to postal authorities.

The mail to Santa from Des Plaines has come in at a steady pace said postal workers with the largest volume of mail picked up daily at the special pink and blue Santa's mailbox in front of the First National Bank of Des Plaines on Lee Street.

CHILDREN ADDRESS their letters to Santa in quite a few different ways. Some letters are neatly addressed "To Santa Claus, North Pole," some merely have Santa's name and some are complete with zip code.

Some children do not expect to get a written response from Santa asking only that their requests for presents be fulfilled. Others include self-addressed stamped envelopes in the hopes of hearing from the jolly old elf via return mail.

Informed sources close to Santa's mail-reading elves said the letters include some written by the children themselves and some written by older brothers or sisters or parents. Some letters are written on school notebook paper and some on little scraps of paper but the contents of each are similar.

Some of the letters waste no time in coming to the point of what the children want. "When I saw you at Marshall Fields I forgot some things to tell you," one boy wrote. "These are the things I forgot to tell you:"

The boy proceeded to list five items including a hockey stick and puck, hockey skates (size 2 1/2), a football helmet and a View Master projector.

"And would you please fill my new baby sister's stocking," the boy continued. "And if you have time you may take a peek at her."

OTHER LETTERS are not so direct in their approach to Santa for gifts. "I have been a very good boy all year long," one Des Plaines youth wrote. "I pick up my toys and share and cooperate with my brother, who wasn't very good, but you'll still bring him some toys, won't you?"

The boy's brother also wrote to Santa and was candidly honest about his behavior. "I haven't been a good boy, but my Mom says I'm very generous and lovable. Will you still come to see me? Mom says you should come when I'm sleeping. I'm at my best then."

"How is Rudolph with his red nose," one girl wrote. "How is the weather up there? Well, for Christmas I would like

Some children include art work with their letters or cutout pictures of the presents they want. Sometimes these art collages are all that children include in their letters to Santa.

NOT ALL THE letters contain lengthy lists of presents which the writers would like to receive from Santa. Some ask only for one or two items and most all the letters offer Santa cookies and milk in return for his gifts.

"I cannot stay up when you are here," one girl wrote, "but I want a Sketch-a-blet and a doll, too. I cannot think of what else. I hope you like the tree."

The girl's letter typifies the spirit behind all the letters as she closed her note with the statement "I believe in you."

Incumbents may face fight in park board election

Commissioners Rosemary Argus and William Selap of the Mount Prospect Park District may face opposition in April's park board election.

William Hickey, 1110 W. Lonnquist Blvd., said he is a candidate for one of the six-year park board seats. He said he has already completed collecting signatures on his nominating petitions and plans to file them with the park district once filing opens.

"I felt it was about time to put something back in the community," said Hickey, a 12-year resident of the park district. He said he was interested in seeing the golf course continue to be maintained in high quality, and said he would also like to work for indoor tennis courts.

A SECOND POTENTIAL candidate is Richard Coleman, 421 S. Wapella Ave., who also has secured nominating petitions for the April 1 election.

Both incumbents said they plan to run for election. Selap, who will be seeking his second six-year term, said he has picked up his petitions but has not begun collecting signatures.

Mrs. Argus, who was appointed to the board this summer, said she took the post with the intention of seeking election. She said she did not know what issues would become central to the election campaign, and said she plans to begin collecting signatures on her petitions shortly.

Petitions are available at the park district offices, 411 S. Maple St., and must be filed with the park director during business hours. The park district is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays and from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturdays.

Saves partner's life during Mount Prospect drug 'bust'

Woman agent shoots suspect

by TOM VON MOLDER

A young woman drug agent who had been thrown through a glass bookcase apparently saved the life of her undercover partner early Wednesday by shooting and seriously wounding the suspected leader of a major Northwest suburban drug ring.

The accused drug dealer, Larry Siebert, 42, and two others had panicked and attacked the two agents during a drug sale after a closed-circuit television security system showed a phalanx of undercover police running through the lobby of their Mount Prospect apartment building.

Siebert was admitted to the intensive-care unit at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights after the 1:30 a.m. shooting at 1101 Hunt Club Rd., Mount Prospect. He was in critical condition late Wednesday with a bullet lodged near the base of his spine, police said.

SIEBERT WAS SHOT in the thigh and groin by a Sheriff's policewoman, who is a member of the secret anti-drug Metropolitan Enforcement Group unit. Before the shooting, the woman agent had been thrown through a glass-shelved bookcase and Siebert was standing over the second undercover agent and threatening to shoot him in the head, police said.

Both agents were treated for cuts and then released, police said. The male agent also was thrown against a glass table during a scuffle for a gun, police said.

Siebert was charged with attempted murder and sale of cocaine. His son and the owner of the apartment, Dean Siebert, 20, also was arrested and was charged with attempted murder and possession and sale of cocaine.

Bond was set Wednesday at $75,000 each for the Sieberts. Dean was being held at the Mount Prospect police station. Both will appear Jan. 14 in the Niles branch of Circuit Court.

Police are still searching for Dean's wife, Carol, 20, who escaped from the apartment during the shooting, they said. Police said Wednesday they had been contacted by the woman's attorney but she had not surrendered. Drug charges are pending against her, police said.

THE TWO AGENTS were in the Sieberts' apartment to purchase two ounces of cocaine for almost $2,500, police said. The Wednesday "buy" reportedly was set about a week ago when undercover agents bought almost $700 worth of cocaine from Dean and Carol Siebert, police said.

Police said, Dean Siebert told the agents Wednesday that he had to call his supplier before making the sale. The agents then waited until the elder Siebert arrived. During the time at the apartment, Larry Siebert, however, noticed several other agents entering the building through the closed circuit television system with which the building is equipped as a security device.

"The Sieberts turned on the two agents," said John J. Hinchey, MEG director. "They hurled the female agent through a glass-shelved bookcase and onto the floor and tackled and disarmed the male agent."

"Larry Siebert stood over the male agent and threatened to shoot him in the head. The female agent was lying on the floor bleeding from the cuts she got from the glass and she shot him twice."

ABOUT AN HOUR after the arrests, Larry Siebert's youngest son, 16, entered the apartment building. Police said he was armed with a pellet gun and apparently was "going after" the MEG agents.

The son, whose first name was not released by police because of his age, was held on a curfew violation until he was released to his mother later Wednesday morning. Police said no charges were filed against the youth.

Police said they were able to spot the youth entering the building by watching the same television monitor on which Larry Siebert spotted the other agents earlier.

Police said the Sieberts were a major drug supplier for young adults in both Cook and DuPage counties. Undercover agents had worked on the case for at least six months prior to Wednesday's arrests, police said.

Library board member near 2-yr. absentee record

by JILL BETTNER

Elk Grove Village Public Library board member John Gayer has not attended a meeting of the board for almost two years.

Records show that Gayer was last present for a meeting in January 1973.

When questioned about his prolonged absence, Gayer said for business reasons he has been unable to attend the monthly meetings. He is executive vice president of Diversy Printing Co. and vice president of manufacturing for Matherson Seilig Corp.

"I've had problems running two businesses and there have been a lot of conflicts with board meetings," Gayer said. "I talk to people, though, whenever I can and keep up with what's going on."

UNDER THE ILLINOIS Revised Statutes, there is a provision in the state local library act for a board to remove a member who fails to attend board meetings for one year. Library Board Pres. Robert Fleming, however, said he believes replacing Gayer is unnecessary.

"I don't see what the problem is," Fleming commented. "He (Gayer) gets the minutes every month. There are a lot of boards where members are not there all the time. Are you trying to make a federal case out of it?" he asked the reporter.

Fleming said an issue has never been raised while he was on the board when a seventh vote was needed, making Gayer's two-year absence irrelevant in his opinion.

"This board operates very well together," he said. "It's a unique situation, it's true, but the board has operated very well without him."

GAYER SAID HE would resign willingly if asked to leave the board by other library directors.

"It's up to the board," he said. "If they don't feel I contribute, I'm willing to resign on a minute's notice."

Gayer said he considered resigning, but thought his business problems would resolve themselves and he would be able to participate on the board.

"I guess I always think I'll be there and things will work out," he said. "I suppose you could consider not being there means a lack of interest, but that's not true."

Gayer has served on the library board for at least 10 years. His present term is scheduled to expire this spring and he said he does not plan to seek reelection.

2 park district commissioners seek reelection

Elk Grove Park District commissioners Shari Shapiro and David von Schaumburg will attempt to retain their posts in the spring election.

Mrs. Shapiro, the newest member of the board, was appointed last August to succeed Jack Ramey, who resigned. She will run for a six-year term.

A two-year term will be sought by von Schaumburg, who was appointed last June when Martin Durkin resigned.

A charter member of the park board, von Schaumburg was first elected in 1966. He chose not to run for reelection in 1973, but saying he missed being involved, applied for the seat vacated by Durkin.

Mrs. Shapiro and von Schaumburg are the only candidates who have taken nominating petitions to participate in the park board election.

The first day of filing the petitions is Jan. 13 and the deadline is Jan. 27. Petitions are available at the park district administration building, 499 Biesterfeld Rd. The election will be April 15.

Christmas will be 2 days early for needy families

Monday will be Christmas in Elk Grove Township for needy families remembered this holiday season by area residents.

That's the day township workers plan to distribute food baskets and toys donated for welfare families.

"There are probably a lot of people who don't realize that we have many poor families in this area who really need help," said Township Auditor Bernard Lee.

Margaret Blaschke, township welfare director, said she has about 77 families on her list she is hoping to provide with Christmas baskets. They are families currently on the township welfare rolls.

If more than the 77 baskets needed for township families are donated, Mrs. Blaschke said she will distribute them to families who have been on the township welfare rolls in the past or to those receiving state aid.

"There's always a need for as much as we can provide," she said. "Anything people can do I'm sure will be greatly appreciated."

Anyone wanting to share a little Christmas cheer with those less fortunate than themselves may drop off donations by Monday morning at the township hall, 2400 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights.

The township hall will be open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. today, Friday and Monday and from 9 a.m. to noon Saturday.

'Contract' out on ducks— parks plan to banish them

by STIRLING MORITA

The Hoffman Estates Park District is putting out a contract on domestic ducks inhabiting park lakes. But it is not the kind put out in gangland, kiss-on-the-cheek style.

To eliminate future residents' squawks about fowl, the park board this week decided to have about 10 domestic ducks at three park lakes humanely transported for a contract fee not to exceed $200. Allen Binder, park district director, said he did not know who he would be able to contact to have the birds caught and banished from park lands.

There are 250 to 400 wild ducks at High Point, Highland and South Twin lakes at various times. It was argued that the domestic fowl, offspring of abandoned and leftover Easter presents could not fly away like wild birds and would remain to spur resident displeasure such as occurred last spring.

TO DISCOURAGE the wild birds from remaining at the lakes, the board turned down a request for feed for the ducks, saying to feed them would prompt the fowl to stay.

"Let's hope that is the last we hear about the ducks," Board Pres. George Seaver. "I'm tired of these dog-gone ducks."

Park officials meet on addition bids

Elk Grove Park District officials will meet tonight in special session to open bids for an estimated $40,000 addition to the park district administration office, 499 Blesterfield Rd.

The meeting, scheduled for 7 p.m., is to consider a second set of bids on the project. The first bids were higher than anticipated and the park board directed the park district architect several weeks ago to redraw plans for the new wing to cut costs.

Representatives of the Elk Grove Boys' Baseball Assn. also are scheduled to attend the meeting to discuss spring program plans with the park commissioners.

Jaycees let kids talk to 'North Pole'

'Hey, Santa! Didja get my letter, huh?'

EDITOR'S NOTE: Herald reporter Jerry Thomas traveled to the North Pole recently to listen in on calls made by Elk Grove Village youngsters to Santa through the Jaycees' special telephone hookup. This is her report.

by JERRY THOMAS

The telephone lines between Santa's house at the North Pole and Elk Grove Village were buzzing when Santa took time off from his pre-Christmas tasks to talk to the children.

Some youngsters, like 6-year-old Sue, wanted to know how Santa was feeling and scolded him about working too hard. "Take care of yourself, Santa, because you will be very busy on Christmas Eve," she cautioned.

Sue would not tell Santa what she wanted for Christmas. "Did you get the letter I sent?" she asked. Santa assured her he did, but asked her to remind him what she wrote. Sue said "No" and hung up.

BILLY CALLED next. Santa had to tell all the elves to be quiet because Billy was whispering so softly. "Why are you whispering?" asked Santa. Billy confessed "I'm supposed to be in bed, whoops, don't be mad, Santa, I just had to talk to you."

"I've never sneaked out of bed before. I just wanted to say Merry Christmas and I love you."

Pete knew just how old he was when Santa asked. "Put down your pinkie and your thumb and I'm that many years old," instructed Pete.

Cory called to say he was not going to leave Santa any cookies this year. "I'm not mad or anything but you are getting fat so you should go on a diet. When my Mommy got fat she went on a diet but it didn't work," he confided.

SOME CHILDREN called to tell Santa exactly what they would like for Christmas and specifically named the type of dolls or games they wanted.

Ken just called to ask Santa if he had a television set in his house at the North Pole. "If you do, then don't watch TV on Christmas because you would make all the children sad," advised Ken.

Ken wants Santa to surprise him on Christmas Eve. "Whatever you bring is OK," he said.

Frank called because he was worried about his friend, Jeff. "See, Jeff's in the hospital and he thinks you don't know where he is so I'm reminding you to stop by him first, then you can come to my house," said Frank.

MRS. CLAUS helped Santa answer the telephone when he had to feed the reindeer.

"Hello, North Pole," said Mrs. Claus when Jim called.

"Is this really the North Pole? Boy, is my Dad going to be made at me," said a worried Jim and hung up the phone.

Santa was sad that he couldn't talk to Jim and wants him to call him back at 437-1000. Santa explained that the call between Elk Grove Village and the North Pole is not a long distance call, because of a special telephone hookup made possible by the Elk Grove Village Jaycees.

11 of 12 families beat high costs

Watt Watchers save on electric bill

by DIANE MEHMIGAS

Conserving energy has paid off for Mary Ellen and Tom Schuman of Palatine.

The Schumans are one of 11 families belonging to Watt Watchers, an energy conservation club formed in October in response to President Gerald Ford's nationwide address on inflation.

The family has saved $42 on its bimonthly electric bill compared to their October bill, a savings of 1,222 kilowatts. The family of four saved the energy by turning off lights, turning off the dishwasher after the wash cycle, keeping only one television instead of two, and not using the air conditioning, said Mrs. Schuman, 108 Belle Ave.

Ten of the 11 Winston Park subdivision households received electric bills in December that were down from those in October.

The Thomas Hannagan family, 162 Arlene Ln., weren't as thrifty. They will host a potluck dinner in January for the other Watt Watcher families because their December electric bill increased by $4 or 157 kilowatts over their October bill. The dinner is held every two months by the family using the most kilowatts.

BARB HANNAGAN said that the bill increased because she's been sewing and baking a lot for the holidays, "although the five-member family has been very conscious of their use of electricity during the last two months," she said.

But the Hannagan family is going to make a special effort to conserve energy in the future, and will begin by hosting the pot luck dinner in January by candlelight.

"Everyone coming to the dinner is going to bring a candle and we are going to eat by candlelight. Having to give a dinner like that is enough to inspire you to cut down the amount of electricity you use," Mrs. Hannagan said.

A Watt Watchers club of 12 families has been formed in Mount Prospect, another in Crawfordsville, Ind., and one other group in the north portion of the Winston Park subdivision.

THE SECOND Palatine group of Watt Watchers is made up of five families who began conserving on energy in November. Betty Polli, 410 N. Winston Dr., the founder of the second group said that only one family "noticeably decreased the energy they were using," she said.

Mrs. Polli said that the Thomas Dunne family of 1426 Reynolds St. saved close to $30 on their December electric bill compared to the bill they received in October.

Mrs. Polli said that the family conserved most of their energy by turning off lights in rooms they weren't using.

They live on George and/or Charles street

Street 'name game' confusing to everyone

by KURT BAER

Leonard Parchem and his wife know where they live. It's just some government officials who are confused. And it's easy to understand why.

The quiet residential street in Arlington Heights where the Parchems live has two names — George (Charles) Street.

If this weren't confusing enough, there also are two sets of house numbers along the street. One group of addresses runs east and west along George Street, while another batch is numbered north and south along (Charles) Street.

WITH ALL THIS in mind, it is understandable that Mrs. Parchem asked the Arlington Heights Village Board, which was annexing her property, "What is the name of our street going to be, Charles or George?"

"I'm at 1637 N. George, but my neighbor directly across the street is at 711 Charles St.," she explained. "People look at me twice when they deliver merchandise to my neighbor across the street."

There is an explanation for all this, of sorts. When the Village of Arlington Heights began annexing property along George (Charles) Street just south of Rand Road, it encountered a problem. The village already had one George Street, a very proper little east-west street running a block south of Sigwalt Street.

"We have had problems with 'George Street' because there is another one and we always have to stress that we live on north George," says Mrs. Parchem.

But the village thinks George (Charles) Street should be east-west, not north or south, since it is approximately the same diagonal line as Rand Road and Northwest Highway.

THE ANSWER to Mrs. Parchem's doubts about the name of her street rests with the village board's public health and safety committee which has been assigned the George (Charles) Street problem, along with several other street name duplications. (There are, for example, two Fairview streets 39 blocks apart.)

Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson said the streets should be named so there won't be a misunderstanding in directing police and fire equipment. And of course Mrs. Parchem would like to know where she lives.

"I think the committee should act with a certain amount of dispatch," said one trustee. "This woman certainly has a right to know where she lives."

Saves partner's life during Mount Prospect drug 'bust'

Woman agent shoots suspect

by TOM VON MALDEN

A young woman drug agent who had been thrown through a glass bookcase apparently saved the life of her undercover partner early Wednesday by shooting and seriously wounding the suspected leader of a major Northwest suburban drug ring.

The accused drug dealer, Larry Siebert, 42, and two others had panicked and attacked the two agents during a drug sale after a closed-circuit television security system showed a phalanx of undercover police running through the lobby of their Mount Prospect apartment building.

Siebert was admitted to the intensive-care unit at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights after the 1:30 a.m. shooting at 1101 Hunt Club Rd., Mount Prospect. He was in critical condition late Wednesday with a bullet lodged near the base of his spine, police said.

SIEBERT WAS SHOT in the thigh and groin by a Sheriff's policewoman, who is a member of the secret anti-drug Metropolitan Enforcement Group unit. Before the shooting, the woman agent had been thrown through a glass-shelved bookcase and Siebert was standing over the second undercover agent and threatening to shoot him in the head, police said.

Both agents were treated for cuts and then released, police said. The male agent also was thrown against a glass table during a scuffle for a gun, police said.

Siebert was charged with attempted murder and sale of cocaine. His son and the owner of the apartment, Dean Siebert, 20, also was arrested and was charged with attempted murder and possession and sale of cocaine.

Bond was set Wednesday at $75,000 each for the Sieberts. Dean was being held at the Mount Prospect police station. Both will appear Jan. 14 in the Niles branch of Circuit Court.

Police are still searching for Dean's wife, Carol, 20, who escaped from the apartment during the shooting, they said. Police said Wednesday they had been contacted by the woman's attorney but she had not surrendered. Drug charges are pending against her, police said.

THE TWO AGENTS were in the Sieberts' apartment to purchase two ounces of cocaine for almost $2,000, police said. The Wednesday "buy" reportedly was set about a week ago when undercover agents bought almost $700 worth of cocaine from Dean and Carol Siebert, police said.

Police said, Dean Siebert told the agents Wednesday that he had to call his supplier before making the sale. The agents then waited until the elder Siebert arrived. During the time at the apartment, Larry Siebert, however, noticed several other agents entering the building through the closed circuit television system with which the building is equipped as a security device.

"The Sieberts turned on the two agents," said John J. Hinchey, MEG director. "They hurled the female agent through a glass-shelved bookcase and onto the floor and tackled and disarmed the male agent."

"Larry Siebert stood over the male agent and threatened to shoot him in the head. The female agent was lying on the floor bleeding from the cuts she got from the glass and she shot him twice."

ABOUT AN HOUR after the arrests, Larry Siebert's youngest son, 16, entered the apartment building. Police said he was armed with a pellet gun and apparently was "going after" the MEG agents.

The son, whose first name was not released by police because of his age, was held on a curfew violation until he was released to his mother later Wednesday morning. Police said no charges were filed against the youth.

Police said they were able to spot the youth entering the building by watching the same television monitor on which Larry Siebert spotted the other agents earlier.

Police said the Sieberts were a major drug supplier for young adults in both Cook and DuPage counties. Undercover agents had worked on the case for at least six months prior to Wednesday's arrests, police said.

Barber raps 'special interest'

Parks lease church land for use as a playground

by STIRLING MORITA

In spite of Comr. Thomas Barber's warning of special interest, the Hoffman Estates Park Board has approved a seven-year lease for church property that has to be developed before it can be used.

The board voted 4 to 1 Tuesday night to approve the lease for 3.2 acres behind the Church of the Cross United Presbyterian, 475 W. Higgins Rd., pending the district attorney's review. Barber was the only commissioner to vote against approval. The rental fee is a nominal $1.

Although the park district is not obligated to develop the site, grass would have to be grown before the park district could use it. Comr. Fred Weaver said it was estimated that about $1,500 would be required for seeding. Commissioners said they expected a baseball field, some playground apparatus and perhaps a football field, but no plans have been made.

"The problem is you're developing a playground and play area for a church," Barber said. "This is completely foreign to what the park district is all about."

BARBER ADDED THAT if the park district offered to develop property of one church, it would have to do so for the rest of the area churches.

Board Pres. George Seaver said, "They've done a considerable amount of grading. I don't see where we're hurting the people of the village by accepting... It certainly is a good-looking piece of land."

Weaver said church officials have come to the park board four times in the last seven years to have the board take over maintenance of the site and that it has been put into good condition. He added that he was interested in the site because it could fit into the field-use rotation system, which allows regeneration of turf at various parks.

Seaver said it was located between two apartment complexes and would be ideal because there are no play areas nearby. Weaver noted that the developer of one of the complexes, formerly named Hermitage Trace, had donated $10,000 to the park district.

The lease says equipment would revert to park district when the lease expires and that the church would repay the district a prorated fee if either of the parties breaks the contract.

'Contract' out on ducks — parks plan to banish them

by STIRLING MORITA

The Hoffman Estates Park District is putting out a contract on domestic ducks inhabiting park lakes. But it is not the kind put out in gangland, kiss-on-the-cheek style.

To eliminate future residents' squawks about fowl, the park board this week decided to have about 10 domestic ducks at three park lakes humanely transported for a contract fee not to exceed $200. Allen Binder, park district director, said he did not know who he would be able to contact to have the birds caught and banished from park lands.

There are 250 to 400 wild ducks at High Point, Highland and South Twin lakes at various times. It was argued that the domestic fowl, offspring of abandoned and leftover Easter presents could not fly away like wild birds and would remain to spur resident displeasure such as occurred last spring.

TO DISCOURAGE the wild birds from remaining at the lakes, the board turned down a request for feed for the ducks, saying to feed them would prompt the fowl to stay.

Commissioners said they feared that with cold weather and ice forming over the lakes, the ducks might seek warmth and shelter at nearby residences.

If that happened, it might prompt residents to flock to board meetings to again complain about the domestic ducks fouling up backyards and chasing little children. Residents near South Twin Lake complained to the board about the fowl in April.

A special group of homeowners in the area was supposed to trap the ducks and transport them off park land. However, all the domestic birds were not taken away.

Parks fear school additions will cut down playfields

Hoffman Estates Park commissioners expressed concern Tuesday night that construction of additions at Twinbrook and Fairview schools extending onto park property might cut down on needed playfields.

Park representatives are to meet Jan. 9 with the Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54 building and sites committee to discuss use by the schools of what is now park land for additional construction.

Comr. Fred Weaver said the construction might eliminate, for a time, use of a ball diamond at 3-acre Birch Park (by Twinbrook) and change plans for a football field at a 3.5-acre park site at Fairview School. The park district in the past has been severely criticized about lack of adequate playfields.

Weaver said a letter from school district officials was received reporting that locations for the additions had been changed after soil borings showed the original sites were unbuildable. At Birch Park, the Twinbrook addition would force relocation of the baseball field.

Marvin Lapicola, assistant superintendent of finance for Dist. 54, said the "understanding" between the two governing bodies had always been that if an addition were ever needed that land would revert back to the school district.

Lapicola said soil borings were not taken before, because it was not anticipated four years ago when land was transferred that the two schools would have to be expanded.

The local scene

Crafts workshop Saturday

Two sessions of a Hoffman Estates Park District Christmas crafts workshop will be Saturday at the Vogel Recreation Barn, 630 W. Higgins Rd.

The program, which is for children in first through sixth grades, will be from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 4 p.m. Children will make small, inexpensive holiday gifts and decorations ranging from five to 25 cents. No child will spend more than $1.

Any high school student or adult interested in helping in the program may call the park district office at 885-7500.

Pheasant Run trip sign up

Registration for a Schaumburg Park District trip to the Pheasant Run Playhouse in St. Charles Jan. 15 will be taken through Jan. 2.

For $12.50, a person will receive transportation, lunch and admission to see the play, "Twigs." Interested persons may sign up at the Melneke Community Center, 220 E. Weatherfield Way.

The bus will leave the community center at noon.

Woman, 21, charged with attempted theft

A Chicago woman was arrested Tuesday night by Schaumburg police with a warrant charging her with attempted theft.

Deborah Davis, 21, was detained for Schaumburg detectives by Chicago police. She allegedly attempted to buy two air conditioners, valued at $600, July 8 from Sears, Roebuck and Co. at Woodfield Shopping Center with a bogus check, police said.

She left the store without purchasing anything when store officials learned the check was not good, authorities said.

Assault on cop brings $250 fine

A Schaumburg man accused of assaulting a Schaumburg patrolman pleaded guilty Wednesday in Schaumburg branch of Circuit Court to charges of battery and resisting arrest.

Joseph Kleczkowski, 23, of 1510 N. Valley Lake Dr., was placed on two years' probation and was fined $250 by Associate Judge Francis Glowacki. Patrolman Arturo Pedraza was driving three men who had asked for assistance April 24 in a squad car when Kleczkowski attempted to burn the back of Pedraza's neck with a cigarette. Pedraza stopped the vehicle, and when he approached Kleczkowski, the cigarette was flicked at his face, and Pedraza was kicked on the knee.

IN OTHER COURT action, two of three north suburban men charged with vandalizing light fixtures at International Village Apartments, Schaumburg, Sept. 30 were fined $50 each after pleading guilty to criminal damage charges.

Glowacki imposed fines on Richard Arns, 19, Skokie, and Gary Pagano, 19,

Sewer line may hike cost of fire station

Lack of a sanitary sewer line in the Westbury area may increase the cost of a fire station planned there.

Hoffman Estates Village Mgr. George Longmeyer has told village trustees that a sanitary sewer line which engineering plans had shown existing in the area was never completely installed. The village may have to provide an extension to tie the fire station to another line in the area, a move which could cost $2,500.

The $107,800 fire station is under construction at Mumford Drive and Freeman Road. Trustees have been asked to consider approving the additional $2,500 because of the utility line problem.

A note on the increase has been delayed until next week so that language of a revised contract for the work could be clarified.

of 696 S. Wayne Pl., Wheeling. John McDonald, 18, Skokie, is scheduled to appear Jan. 10 in the Des Plaines branch of Circuit Court for a jury trial.

Glowacki also fined a 17-year-old Addison resident $50 for taking a $2 bra and bikini brief set from the Jean Nicole Shop in the Woodfield Shopping Center.

Leah Bata, a former employee of the store, pleaded guilty to theft under $150. She was arrested Nov. 9.

OTHER COURT action included the dismissal of an obstruction of justice charge against a Schaumburg woman, who allegedly closed a door on a patrolman who had come to arrest a friend at her apartment.

Glowacki ordered the charge stricken off the active court ledger. He told the defendant, Claudia Polak, 1427 N. Valley Lake Dr., who is in the process of moving out of state, that the charge would be reinstated if she ever returned to live in Illinois. The State's Attorney's office had recommended 6 months' supervision after she stipulated to the facts in the arrest report, but the recommendation was rejected because Miss Polak would not be able to abide by supervision guidelines.

16-year-old arrested in stabbing death

A 16-year-old boy was arrested Tuesday because he is a juvenile, allegedly stabbed Maliques to death during a dispute Monday night. The victim's body was found in a vacant lot in the south suburban community.

The youth, who police would not identify because he is a juvenile, allegedly stabbed Maliques to death during a dispute Monday night. The victim's body was found in a vacant lot in the south suburban community.

Maliques, 24, recently moved to Hoffman Estates from Hacienda Heights, Calif., police said. He is the son of Frank Maliques, a vice president of a Huntington Park, Calif., bank.

Police also arrested two 17-year-old Bolingbrook girls for obstruction of evidence, contending that the two destroyed evidence important to the case. The boy was being held without bond pending a court appearance Wednesday.

A Park Ridge man scuffled Tuesday with two Schaumburg patrolmen who were responding to a complaint of a drunken man in the parking lot of 600 E. Algonquin Rd., police said.

Eugene Ori, 24, was charged with disorderly conduct and two counts of resisting arrest.

Patrolman Dennis Hopy attempted to question Ori when he became belligerent, police said. He and Patrolman Paul Lusky started frisking Ori when Ori broke away, and a scuffle resulted, authorities said.

Hopy suffered a minor arm injury and a scraped knee.

Ori was released after posting $1,000 bond pending an appearance Jan. 8 in the Schaumburg branch of Circuit Court.

ALL THINGS CONSIDERED, Schaumburg could one day have 24,000 people living on 675 acres, according to figures SCOPP is using to tell residents too much multi-family development is allowed in the village. The illustrated area is within a 1.5-mile radius of the Schaumburg-Roselle roads intersection.

Village board wrapup

$2.5 million budget wins officials' OK

A $2.5 million budget, covering the first four months of 1975, was approved by Schaumburg officials Tuesday. The interim budget will serve as a tool in Schaumburg's transition from a calendar year to a fiscal year beginning May 1.

It provides for an increase of eight employees, seven in the police department and one in public works, said Village Administrator John Costo.

Costo said the budget also results in "an overall average wage increase" of 9.44 per cent for village employees, based on a new pay plan going into effect Jan. 1.

Codification of Schaumburg ordinances and sewer and water contracts, including the Walnut Lane system and two deep wells, will be completed during the short-term budget period, Costo added.

Village officials indicated that preparation of an appropriation ordinance will begin immediately as well as initiation of work on the budget to be adopted effective May 1.

$65,000 in pacts awarded

Water and sewer contracts totaling $65,000 were awarded to low bidders in Schaumburg this week.

Dennis Ariola and Co., Melrose Park, lowest of 10 bidders, will complete the Salt Creek Trunk Sewer Outfall Section project at a cost of $38,632. Work is to be finished in 30 consecutive days.

Henry Contracting Co., Des Plaines, won a $28,223 contract for a lift-station-abandonment program in the western part of the village. The firm was lowest of nine bidders on the project.

The lift stations are being shut down since need for the facilities is being eliminated by the Walnut Lane trunk-sewer system now being installed.

Blood drive Sunday

An urgent request for participation in Schaumburg's community blood-assurance program was voiced this week by Mary Nagy, blood drive chairman.

The last blood drawing of the year will be held from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Sunday at Meineke Community Center, 220 E. Weathersfield Way.

The village must collect 181 pints of blood Sunday to remain a participating community in the American Red Cross Blood Replacement Program, said Mrs. Nagy, noting that at present, "because the village is behind," only persons who have donated blood are eligible for coverage.

The community blood-assurance program is designed to insure complete blood needs of every resident in Schaumburg provided 4 per cent of the village population donates annually.

Appointments for Sunday's drive may be arranged by calling Mrs. Nagy, 829-1245, Terri Glynn, 829-8668, or the Schaumburg Health Dept., 894-4300.

Apartment building carpeting stolen

About $2,600 worth of new carpeting was reported stolen Tuesday from an apartment building under construction at the Versailles-on-the-Lake complex in Schaumburg.

The carpeting belongs to Vincel Carpet Co., Niles. The color of the carpet was light beige, police were told.

Caroling pickets rip project

by PAT GERLACH

Caroling a parody on "Deck the Halls," leaders of Schaumburg Citizens for Planned Progress picketed Civic Center before Tuesday's village board meeting, protesting a proposed Roselle Road project that would contain six-story condominium apartment buildings.

An hour later, Trustee Edward Olsen convinced developers to return to the Jan. 14 village board meeting with revised plans calling for four-story buildings in all areas of the 56-acre Stratford-on-the-Hill project. Townhouses plus two-story and six-story buildings were originally planned for the site off the southwest corner of Roselle Road and Weathersfield Way.

Olsen said Wednesday that SCOPP pickets did not influence the request he "intended to make" of R. L. Roth and Associates Ltd., when the project reached the village board. "But SCOPP did influence me to have a merrier Christmas because they were singing," Olsen commented.

LEADERS OF SCOPP, a new local political party, say they intend to field a full slate of candidates against the incumbent Schaumburg United Party in the spring election. They object to high-rise projects near single-family subdivisions and have collected more than 4,000 signatures supporting a referendum on the question.

Calling Stratford an "asset" to the village, Olsen complimented developers' plans and noted their spirit of cooperation during recent zoning board hearings. But he said he cannot support six-story buildings "erupting" near houses in the area. The project was recommended for village board approval by zoners last month.

Olsen said he believes the "silhouette" in the south-central part of the village where the project is planned calls for "at the most" four story buildings, telling developers he would support the project if buildings are lowered.

AS AN ALTERNATIVE to changing open space in the project, Olsen suggested all buildings would be four stories, which would result in raising the two-story structures.

Harry Smith, an attorney for Roth and Associates, said developers will "do their best" to get revised plans to the village for review during the first week in January.

The project includes a 10-acre shopping center.

For reelection to city council

Mayor Meyer heads slate of incumbents

by NANCY COWGER

Mayor Roland J. Meyer of Rolling Meadows will head a slate of incumbents in another run for the city council, Meyer said Wednesday.

The slate includes aldermen Thomas W. Scanlan, 1st; William D. Ahrens, 2nd; John T. Rock, 3rd; James A. Huddleston, 4th; Kenneth Retzke, 5th, and City Treasurer Robert B. Cole. Rock is seeking his second term. Meyer and the others are seeking third terms.

Retzke, until this weekend was considering a battle with Meyer for the mayoral seat, but formally joined Huddleston, in joining Meyer's side Tuesday. Huddleston's switch from plans to run as an independent or member of an opposition slate to join Meyer became known Monday.

Meyer announced his slate Wednesday afternoon, saying "I am going to run and I am going to run with all five incumbent aldermen and the city treasurer. We will be looking for a city clerk in the next week or so before we begin to do any filing."

The first day to file petitions is Jan. 6. CITY CLERK Eileen Kornatz will not run again, because she plans to take a full-time job after Jan. 1.

It appears the incumbents may face no opposition.

Roland J. Meyer

Kenneth W. Retzke

Ald. Fredrick E. Jacobson, 5th, has been trying, thus far unsuccessfully, to put together a slate to follow him in contesting the mayoral seat. One potential aldermanic candidate in the 4th Ward said he is willing to run with Jacobson, as Jacobson suggested when he first began planning for the election.

But Charles Boyer, 3909 Gull Ct., said Jacobson has not contacted him recently and he does not know whether Jacobson still wants him on the slate. Jacobson has two years remaining in his aldermanic post, and would not risk losing that office by running for mayor.

Boyer ran unsuccessfully for the city council in 1971.

ANOTHER possible contender is William Miseska, who served as mayor in 1966 and 1967. Miseska said Wednesday he will make his decision after Jan. 1. "I've had a lot of people wanting me to run," said Miseska, who operates a service station in the city.

Richard Nolan, 3801 Jay Ln., also unsuccessful in his bid for an aldermanic seat in 1971, was considering seeking an aldermanic post, but said Wednesday he will not run unless "I come up with some kind of offer from the people in my ward." Nolan lives in the third ward, and would oppose Rock if he ran.

The campaign promises at this point to be a mild one, Meyer said he and his running mates "hope to be able to continue what we've been doing." Most important in the next four years will be holding taxes in check while continuing to "give as much service as we can," he said. The city will experience growth, said Meyer, estimating that 400 acres of unincorporated land remains between Rolling Meadows, Schaumburg and Palatine. "We'll get our part," said Meyer.

As far as increasing services, Meyer said the council will evaluate programs as they come along. "We will have to first of all provide a continuance of the services we are providing, before we add any," he said.

RETZKE SAID he joined the mayor's slate because "there was not enough support to do otherwise." He noted he and Meyer have "had differences of opinion on issues, mainly on the financial approach, and said there is evidence both their views are changing. But of his own outspokenness, he said "that's not going to change."

"Maybe what I was considering as big issues have not been big enough in the minds of the people in the Meadows to generate support," he said.

Boyer accused Retzke of leading him "down the primrose path," by proposing

Alarm bypassed, $1,000 in drugs stolen

Burglars took an estimated $1,000 worth of drugs and $300 cash from Rolling Meadows Drugs, 3010 Kirchoff Rd., Tuesday night after entering through a ventilation system in the roof.

Store manager Jerry Mytek said the burglars did not disturb the merchandise area of the store, but took amphetamines, barbiturates, narcotics and tranquilizers. Mytek did not expect to complete an inventory of the loss for another two to three days, but believed it would exceed $1,000 in drugs. The tranquilizers, selling at $40 per bottle, totaled $400 to $500 alone, he said.

The burglars apparently got onto the roof over the adjoining Plaza Lane Restaurant, said police.

This is the first burglary at the store since Mytek took it over two years ago. On Feb. 21, 1972, burglars used the same ventilator shaft to get into the store in the only previous break in the location.

Saves partner's life during Mount Prospect drug 'bust'

Woman agent shoots suspect

by TOM VON MALDER

A young woman drug agent who had been thrown through a glass bookcase apparently saved the life of her undercover partner early Wednesday by shooting and seriously wounding the suspected leader of a major Northwest suburban drug ring.

The accused drug dealer, Larry Siebert, 42, and two others had panicked and attacked the two agents during a drug sale after a closed-circuit television security system showed a phalanx of undercover police running through the lobby of their Mount Prospect apartment building.

Siebert was admitted to the intensive-care unit at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights after the 1:30 a.m. shooting at 1101 Hunt Club Rd., Mount Prospect. He was in critical condition late Wednesday with a bullet lodged near the base of his spine, police said.

SIEBERT WAS SHOT in the thigh and groin by a Sheriff's policewoman, who is a member of the secret anti-drug Metropolitan Enforcement Group unit. Before the shooting, the woman agent had been thrown through a glass-shelved bookcase and Siebert was standing over the second undercover agent and threatening to shoot him in the head, police said.

Both agents were treated for cuts and then released, police said. The male agent also was thrown against a glass table during a scuffle for a gun, police said.

Siebert was charged with attempted murder and sale of cocaine. His son and the owner of the apartment, Dean Siebert, 20, also was arrested and was charged with attempted murder and possession and sale of cocaine.

Bond was set Wednesday at $75,000 each for the Sieberts. Dean was being held at the Mount Prospect police station. Both will appear Jan. 14 in the Niles branch of Circuit Court.

Police are still searching for Dean's wife, Carol, 20, who escaped from the apartment during the shooting, they said. Police said Wednesday they had been contacted by the woman's attorney but she had not surrendered. Drug charges are pending against her, police said.

TWO AGENTS were in the Sieberts' apartment to purchase two ounces of cocaine for almost $2,800, police said. The Wednesday "buy" reportedly was set about a week ago when undercover agents bought almost $700 worth of cocaine from Dean and Carol Siebert, police said.

Police said, Dean Siebert told the agents Wednesday that he had to call his supplier before making the sale. The agents then waited until the elder Siebert arrived. During the time at the apartment, Larry Siebert, however, noticed several other agents entering the building through the closed circuit television system with which the building is equipped as a security device.

"The Sieberts turned on the two agents," said John J. Hinchy, MEG director. "They hurled the female agent through a glass-shelved bookcase and onto the floor and tackled and disarmed the male agent."

"Larry Siebert stood over the male agent and threatened to shoot him in the head. The female agent was lying on the floor bleeding from the cuts she got from the glass and she shot him twice."

ABOUT AN HOUR after the arrests, Larry Siebert's youngest son, 16, entered the apartment building. Police said he was armed with a pellet gun and apparently was "going after" the MEG agents.

The son, whose first name was not released by police because of his age, was held on a curfew violation until he was released to his mother later Wednesday morning. Police said no charges were filed against the youth.

Police said they were able to spot the youth entering the building by watching the same television monitor on which Larry Siebert spotted the other agents earlier.

Police said the Sieberts were a major drug supplier for young adults in both Cook and DuPage counties. Undercover agents had worked on the case for at least six months prior to Wednesday's arrests, police said.

Boyer also questioned the city redistricting that took him out of the 3rd Ward, where he would have run against Rock, and put him in the 4th, where he would have to run against Huddleston. Huddleston won on a write-in campaign four years ago, and Boyer suggested the incumbent slate may consider him unbeatable, although he feels he could give Huddleston "a good race."
Jacobson said he has listed Boyer as a

4 youths linked to 100 thefts, vandalism

A series of 100 theft and vandalism cases in Arlington Heights and Palatine were reportedly cleared with the arrest Wednesday afternoon of four youths while allegedly burglarizing a van in Arlington Heights.
Arlington Heights Patrolman James Schelsky reported sighting the youths entering a van parked at the Chicago and North Western Ry. commuter lot at Arlington Park.
Arrested were Jeffery W. O'Connell, 17, of 108 Clearmont, Elk Grove Village, and Edmund K. Schlewitz, 17, of 280 Benton St., Palatine. Two juvenile companions were turned over to youth officers.
Police said the youths have been linked with 50 thefts of radios and tape players from cars and about 50 incidents of vandalism to cars in Arlington Heights since last summer.
Palatine police said the youths were involved with a number of similar incidents in Palatine since summer.
O'Connell and Schlewitz were released on $2,000 bond each on burglary charges. They are scheduled to appear in the Arlington Heights branch of Circuit Court on Jan. 10.

potential running mate, but there are not enough other "potentials" to make a race of it. He intends to "keep my eye out for awhile," and said "up to this point I haven't talked to enough people willing to commit themselves." Boyer he said, would be "an excellent candidate."

But, said Jacobson, "there is a lack of interest at this time in politics as far as the future of the city goes."

Third polling place unavailable to parks

The Rolling Meadows Park District will not have a third polling place for this spring's board elections as planned.
Board Pres. Raymond Neuckranz said the park district hoped to use Bethel Lutheran Church, 2150 Frontage Rd., as a polling place for residents west of Ill. Rte. 53. The church, however, is not in the park district or the city, so it cannot be used.
"There are no other public buildings in our park district west of Ill. Rte. 53," he said. Park district residents west of Ill. Rte. 53 will vote at the sports complex, 3900 Owl Dr., Neuckranz said.
Polling places and election times for all district residents will be announced, Neuckranz said.

Watt Watchers see the light ...and save on electric bills

by DIANE MERMIGAS
Conserving energy has paid off for Mary Ellen and Tom Schuman of Palatine.
The Schumans are one of 11 families belonging to Watt Watchers, an energy conservation club formed in October in response to President Gerald Ford's nationwide address on inflation.
The family has saved $42 on its bimonthly electric bill compared to their October bill, a savings of 1,222 kilowatts. The family of four saved the energy by turning off lights, turning off the dishwasher after the wash cycle, keeping only one television instead of two, and not using the air conditioning, said Mrs. Schuman, 106 Belle Ave.
Ten of the 11 Winston Park subdivision households received electric bills in December that were down from those in October.
The Thomas Hannagan family, 152 Arlene Ln., weren't as thrifty. They will host a potluck dinner in January for the other Watt Watcher families because their December electric bill increased by $4 or 157 kilowatts over their October bill. The dinner is held every two months by the family using the most kilowatts.
BARB HANNAGAN said that the bill increased because she's been sewing and baking a lot for the holidays, "although the five-member family has been very conscious of their use of electricity during the last two months," she said.

But the Hannagan family is going to make a special effort to conserve energy in the future, and will begin by hosting the pot luck dinner in January by candlelight.
"Everyone coming to the dinner is going to bring a candle and we are going to eat by candlelight. Having to give a dinner like that is enough to inspire you to cut down the amount of electricity you use," Mrs. Hannagan said.
A Watt Watchers club of 12 families has been formed in Mount Prospect, another in Crawfordville, Ind., and one other group in the north portion of the Winston Park subdivision.
THE SECOND Palatine group of Watt Watchers is made up of five families who began conserving on energy in November. Betty Polli, 410 N. Winston Dr., the founder of the second group said that only one family "noticeably decreased the energy they were using," she said.
Mrs. Polli said that the Thomas Dunne family of 1426 Reynolds St. saved close to $30 on their December electric bill compared to the bill they received in October.

'Name game' gets confusing

by KURT BAER
Leonard Parchem and his wife know where they live. It's just some government officials who are confused. And it's easy to understand why.
The quiet residential street in Arlington Heights where the Parchems live has two names — George (Charles) Street.
If this weren't confusing enough, there also are two sets of house numbers along the street. One group of addresses runs east and west along George Street, while another batch is numbered north and south along (Charles) Street.
WITH ALL THIS in mind, it is understandable that Mrs. Parchem asked the Arlington Heights Village Board, which was annexing her property, "What is the name of our street going to be, Charles or George?"
"I'm at 1657 N. George, but my neighbor directly across the street is at 711 Charles St.," she explained. "People look at me twice when they deliver merchandise to my neighbor across the street."
There is an explanation for all this, of sorts. When the Village of Arlington Heights began annexing property along George (Charles) Street just south of Rand Road, it encountered a problem. The village already had one George Street, a very proper little east-west street running a block south of Sigwalt Street.

"We have had problems with 'George Street' because there is another one and we always have to stress that we live on north George," says Mrs. Parchem.
But the village thinks George (Charles) Street should be east-west, not north or south, since it is approximately the same diagonal line as Rand Road and Northwest Highway.
THE ANSWER: to Mrs. Parchem's doubts about the name of her street rests with the village board's public health and safety committee which has been assigned the George (Charles) Street problem, along with several other street name duplications. (There are, for example, two Fairview streets 39 blocks apart.)
Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson said the streets should be named so there won't be a misunderstanding in directing police and fire equipment. And of course Mrs. Parchem would like to know where she lives.

Brian knows—he saw the sleigh

Look! Up in the sky— it's Santa and sleigh

by NANCY COWGER

Brian Kelly hasn't a shred of doubt about Santa Claus. He's seen him fly, and he knows.

"One night my mother called me over to the window. I looked out and I saw the sleigh in the sky," said Brian in his letter to every 5-year-old's list of the Year. Brian asked for two toys for Christmas, an "Eval Canevel or a TT power" but his most important wish by far is "a letter back to me."

"I am going to wait for your letter," said Brian, who signed himself "Your FRIEND."

Santa's letter will come — make no mistake. Mixed in with all the holiday packages and Christmas cards are letters to and from Santa, forwarded by Rolling Meadows Jaycoettes. Santa has his own mailbox, next to his throne in Rolling Meadows Shopping Center mail. A return address will guarantee an answer.

Randy Padal of Orleto Lane made sure Santa would know how to find him. Just in case street numbers got confused, Randy gave Santa his phone number too.

And Randy had only one Christmas wish. "Do you like me?" wrote Randy, giving Santa a spot to check yes or no. "I hope your answer was yes! Good bye for now," said Randy. The present list may still be coming.

Randy's sister Sharon did not ask for a special gift either. She simply said "I wish you can bring me some presents."

Tom Frost had a hard time deciding what to list.

"There are so many things I want, that I can't decide what I want. So I think you'd better decide what I need. I need lotsa presents," said Tom. Just in time, he narrowed it down to one — a ricecochet racer car.

Christopher Cangelosi remembered his manners, telling Santa thank you before asking for presents this year. "I like the toys you bring. But how do you make your reindeers fly?" Christopher asked.

However the magic is worked, 4½-year-old Christopher thinks "it's neat," and noting his mother was helping with the letter, he promised to "try to be a good boy." Christopher wants a toy gun — "the kind with a eye sight on it" — for himself, and a doll for "baby sister Kerry."

The parents of Angie on Meadow Drive may be surprised by the menagerie she has asked to find under her tree Christmas morning. If Santa comes through, there will be "a real live poller bear and a real Panda and a lamp and a real and pretend poodle."

Brian Hermann made sure Santa understands just how "very good" he has been. "I help my mom and dad everyday. I love going to kindergarden too," he said. "If you have enough toys for everyone this year," Brian would like a Mickey Mouse Candy Factory, records and boxing gloves, Santa.

Elyse Giescke sends her "regards to the reindeer and Mrs. Claus" and is counting on Santa's sharing his cookies with Mrs. Claus too.

Watson wants to expand purchasing authority

Rolling Meadows City Mgr. James Watson wants to expand his authority to make purchases without committee or city council approval.

Watson has authority to buy up to $500 of equipment, material or supplies without prior approval.

In emergencies, his purchasing authority is unlimited. He suggested an increase to $1,000 or $1,500. But an emergency is difficult to define, he said.

He recently exceeded the $500 limit when overhead doors at the public works garage were damaged and needed immediate repair, he said.

Parks approve issuance of tax warrants

The Rolling Meadows Park board approved the issuance of $25,000 in tax anticipation warrants to make the Jan. 1 payment on the 1961 pool bond issue.

Park Supt. Stephen Person said the warrants are needed because district tax money is arriving late. Person said approximately $30,000 in personal property tax still is due by the end of January.

The district makes payments on the original $350,000 bond issue Jan. 1 and July 1 of each year. Person said. The district has $178,000 left to pay, he added.

The tax warrants will be issued by the Bank of Rolling Meadows as close as possible to Jan. 1 to save interest charges, Person said. The warrants will be issued at a 7 per cent interest rate.

Buying new oversized tires for some pieces of city equipment could cost more than $500, he told the city's finance committee Tuesday.

Watson also said he would like department heads authorized to make purchases. They now have no such authority, and he suggested the council give them authorization for up to a few hundred dollars, although he did not specify an amount.

The committee did not respond, but Mayor Roland J. Meyer, who attended part of the meeting, said department heads should not have authority for any purchases. "I don't see any reason why they should have it" because Watson generally is available, he said.

Ald. James A. Huddleston, 4th, committee chairman, told Watson to seek an opinion from City Atty. Donald Rose on the council's legal ability to extend the authority.

Friends of Clearbrook make $15,300 donation

The Friends of Clearbrook recently presented a check for $15,300 to Clearbrook Center after raising the money through an annual brunch last month.

The 25 local women who comprise the Friends of Clearbrook hosted about 800 guests at the Arlington Park Hilton Hotel at the brunch.

During the past 11 years, the Friends of Clearbrook have donated over $100,000 to the center. This year's gift helped pay for Clearbrook's annex to the Vocational Rehabilitation Center in Elk Grove Village.

Saves partner's life during Mount Prospect drug 'bust'

Woman agent shoots suspect

by TOM VON MALDER

A young woman drug agent who had been thrown through a glass bookcase apparently saved the life of her undercover partner early Wednesday by shooting and seriously wounding the suspected leader of a major Northwest suburban drug ring.

The accused drug dealer, Larry Siebert, 42, and two others had panicked and attacked the two agents during a drug sale after a closed-circuit television security system showed a phalanx of undercover police running through the lobby of their Mount Prospect apartment building.

Siebert was admitted to the intensive-care unit at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights after the 1:30 a.m. shooting at 1101 Hunt Club Rd., Mount Prospect. He was in critical condition late Wednesday with a bullet lodged near the base of his spine, police said.

SIEBERT WAS SHOT in the thigh and groin by a Sheriff's policewoman, who is a member of the secret anti-drug Metropolitan Enforcement Group unit. Before the shooting, the woman agent had been thrown through a glass-shelved bookcase and Siebert was standing over the second undercover agent and threatening to shoot him in the head, police said.

Both agents were treated for cuts and then released, police said. The male agent also was thrown against a glass table during a scuffle for a gun, police said.

Siebert was charged with attempted murder and sale of cocaine. His son and the owner of the apartment, Dean Siebert, 20, also was arrested and was charged with attempted murder and possession and sale of cocaine.

Bond was set Wednesday at $75,000 each for the Sieberts. Dean was being held at the Mount Prospect police station. Both will appear Jan. 14 in the Niles branch of Circuit Court.

Police are still searching for Dean's wife, Carol, 20, who escaped from the apartment during the shooting, they said. Police said Wednesday they had been contacted by the woman's attorney but she had not surrendered. Drug charges are pending against her, police said.

THE TWO AGENTS were in the Sieberts' apartment to purchase two ounces of cocaine for almost $2,000, police said. The Wednesday "buy" reportedly was set about a week ago when undercover agents bought almost $700 worth of cocaine from Dean and Carol Siebert, police said.

Police said, Dean Siebert told the agents Wednesday that he had to call his supplier before making the sale. The agents then waited until the elder Siebert arrived. During the time at the apartment, Larry Siebert, however, noticed several other agents entering the building through the closed circuit television system with which the building is equipped as a security device.

"The Sieberts turned on the two agents," said John J. Hinchey, MEG director. "They hurled the female agent through a glass-shelved bookcase and onto the floor and tackled and disarmed the male agent."

"Larry Siebert stood over the male agent and threatened to shoot him in the head. The female agent was lying on the floor bleeding from the cuts she got from the glass and she shot him twice."

ABOUT AN HOUR after the arrests, Larry Siebert's youngest son, 16, entered the apartment building. Police said he was armed with a pellet gun and apparently was "going after" the MEG agents.

The son, whose first name was not released by police because of his age, was held on a curfew violation until he was released to his mother later Wednesday morning. Police said no charges were filed against the youth.

Police said they were able to spot the youth entering the building by watching the same television monitor on which Larry Siebert spotted the other agents earlier.

Police said the Sieberts were a major drug supplier for young adults in both Cook and DuPage counties. Undercover agents had worked on the case for at least six months prior to Wednesday's arrests, police said.

Lone challenger of GOP slate

Patricia Miramonti to seek trustee job as independent

Patricia Miramonti will run as an independent candidate in April's Palatine Village board election.

Mrs. Miramonti, 412 E. Olive St., Wednesday confirmed reports that she would challenge the Republican Party slate, and is the only independent to step forward.

She will oppose trustees Bryan P. Coughlin Jr. and Philip E. Stern and newcomer John V. Serio, all Republican-endorsed candidates, in her bid for a four year term.

Mrs. Miramonti says she plans to keep her independent status and does not plan to join any opposition party.

"I have been involved in many things and I really feel if you are going to work for your community this is one way of doing it," Mrs. Miramonti said.

MIE HAS NOT developed her campaign platform but said if elected she "would like to see the board develop a list of priorities and concerns . . . of what is most important instead of trying to attack all problems at one time."

Mrs. Miramonti is planning to take a leave of absence from her sales clerk position at Goldblatt's to devote time to her campaign.

She is a life-long resident of the area, growing up in Arlington Heights and moving to Palatine more than six years ago. She has been active in the Arlington Crest Civic Association and is currently treasurer. Other memberships include the Palatine Citizens Clean Streams and Flood Committee and a co-leader of the Bluebirds. She plans to accept an invitation to join the Northwest Suburban Woman's Political Caucus.

Previous memberships include the League of Women Voters, several church groups and editor of the homeowners newsletter. She holds a bachelor's degree in special education from Northern Illinois University.

GOP nominees call for primary

Republican candidates for the Palatine Village Board filed their nominating petitions Wednesday and challenged dissident Republicans to a primary election.

"To anyone who stayed away from the open convention, we offer a challenge to meet the three of us in a Republican primary Feb. 25," said Trustee Philip E. Stern, who was endorsed at the Republican Convention Saturday to retain his seat. "That way the citizens of Palatine will know for sure who is wearing the local Republican label come April."

Trustee Bryan P. Coughlin Jr. also was endorsed for another term at the Republican convention. John V. Serio received the Republican nomination for Fred H. Zajonc's term, which also expires in April. Zajonc is the only Village Independent Party (VIP) trustee on the Republican-dominated board and has not announced if he will seek reelection.

STERN SAID HIS remarks were aimed at all Republicans who stayed away from the convention and not just the VIPs, who have opposed the Republicans in the last two village elections. Several VIPs have said they are registered Republicans but do not believe in the involvement of national politics at the local level. The VIPs are not expected to run.

Watt Watchers see the light ...and save on electric bills

by DIANE MERMIGAS

Conserving energy has paid off for Mary Ellen and Tom Schuman of Palatine.

The Schumans are one of 11 families belonging to Watt Watchers, an energy conservation club formed in October in response to President Gerald Ford's nationwide address on inflation.

The family has saved $42 on its bimonthly electric bill compared to their October bill, a savings of 1,222 kilowatts. The family of four saved the energy by turning off lights, turning off the dishwasher after the wash cycle, keeping only one television instead of two, and not using the air conditioning, said Mrs. Schuman, 106 Belle Ave.

Ten of the 11 Winston Park subdivision households received electric bills in December that were down from those in October.

The Thomas Hannagan family, 152 Arlene Ln., weren't as thrifty. They will host a potluck dinner in January for the other Watt Watcher families because their December electric bill increased by 34 or 157 kilowatts over their October bill.

Youths linked to 100 thefts, vandalism

A series of 100 theft and vandalism cases in Arlington Heights and Palatine were reportedly cleared with the arrest Wednesday afternoon of four youths while allegedly burglarizing a van in Arlington Heights.

Arlington Heights Patrolman James Schelsky reported sighting the youths entering a van parked at the Chicago and North Western Ry. commuter lot at Arlington Park.

Arrested were Jeffery W. O'Connell,

17, of 108 Clearmont, Elk Grove Village, and Edmund K. Schulewitz, 17, of 289 Benton St., Palatine. Two juvenile companions were turned over to youth officers.

Police said the youths have been linked with 50 thefts of radios and tape players from cars and about 50 incidents of vandalism to cars in Arlington Heights since last summer.

Palatine police said the youths were involved with a number of similar incidents in Palatine since summer.

Police said the youths concentrated their activities on commuter parking lots. Some cars reportedly had been battered with bricks and hammers by the suspects, police said.

O'Connell and Schulewitz were released on $2,000 bond each on burglary charges. They are scheduled to appear in the Arlington Heights branch of Circuit Court on Jan. 10.

Parks put a 'contract' out on ducks

by STIRLING MORITA
The Hoffman Estates Park District is putting out a contract on domestic ducks inhabiting park lakes. But it is not the kind put out in gangland, kiss-on-the-cheek style.

To eliminate future residents' squawks about fowl, the park board this week decided to have about 10 domestic ducks at three park lakes humanely transported for a contract fee not to exceed $200. Allen Binder, park district director, said he did not know who he would be able to contact to have the birds caught and banished from park lands.

There are 250 to 400 wild ducks at High Point, Highland and South Twin lakes at various times. It was argued that the domestic fowl, offspring of abandoned and leftover Easter presents could not fly away like wild birds and would remain to spur resident displeasure such as occurred last spring.

TO DISCOURAGE the wild birds from remaining at the lakes, the board turned down a request for feed for the ducks, saying to feed them would prompt the fowl to stay.

Commissioners said they feared that with cold weather and ice forming over the lakes, the ducks might seek warmth and shelter at nearby residences.

If that happened, it might prompt residents to flock to board meetings to again complain about the domestic ducks fouling up backyards and chasing little children. Residents near South Twin Lake complained to the board about the fowl in April.

bill. The dinner is held every two months by the family using the most kilowatts.

BARB HANNAGAN said that the bill increased because she's been sewing and baking a lot for the holidays, "although the five-member family has been very conscious of their use of electricity during the last two months," she said.

But the Hannagan family is going to make a special effort to conserve energy in the future, and will begin by hosting the pot luck dinner in January by candlelight.

"Everyone coming to the dinner is going to bring a candle and we are going to eat by candlelight. Having to give a dinner like that is enough to inspire you to cut down the amount of electricity you use," Mrs. Hannagan said.

A Watt Watchers club of 12 families has been formed in Mount Prospect, another in Crawfordville, Ind., and one other group in the north portion of the Winston Park subdivision.

THE SECOND Palatine group of Watt Watchers is made up of five families who began conserving on energy in November. Betty Polli, 410 N. Winston Dr., the founder of the second group said that only one family "noticeably decreased the energy they were using," she said.

Mrs. Polli said that the Thomas Dunne family of 1428 Reynolds St. saved close to $30 on their December electric bill compared to the bill they received in October.

Mrs. Polli said that the family conserved most of their energy by turning off lights in rooms they weren't using.

Burglars get $1,000 in drugs, $300 cash

Burglars took an estimated $1,000 worth of drugs and $300 cash from Rolling Meadows Drugs, 3010 Kirchoff Rd., Tuesday night after entering through a ventilation system in the roof.

Store manager Jerry Mytek said the burglars did not disturb the merchandise area of the store, but took amphetamines, barbiturates, narcotics and tranquilizers. Mytek did not expect to complete an inventory of the loss for another two to three days, but believed it would exceed $1,000 in drugs. The tranquilizers, selling at $40 per bottle, totaled $400 to $500 alone, he said.

The burglars apparently got onto the roof over the adjoining Plaza Lane Restaurant, said police.

Street name game gets confusing for most everyone

by KURT BAER
Leonard Parchem and his wife know where they live. It's just some government officials who are confused. And it's easy to understand why.

The quiet residential street in Arlington Heights where the Parchems live has two names — George (Charles) Street.

If this weren't confusing enough, there also are two sets of house numbers along the street. One group of addresses runs east and west along George Street, while another batch is numbered north and south along (Charles) Street.

WITH ALL THIS in mind, it is understandable that Mrs. Parchem asked the Arlington Heights Village Board, which was annexing her property, "What is the name of our street going to be, Charles or George?"

"I'm at 1657 N. George, but my neighbor directly across the street is at 711 Charles St.," she explained. "People look at me twice when they deliver merchandise to my neighbor across the street."

There is an explanation for all this, of sorts. When the Village of Arlington Heights began annexing property along George (Charles) Street just south of Rand Road, it encountered a problem. The village already had one George Street, a very proper little east-west street running a block south of Sigwalt Street.

"We have had problems with 'George Street' because there is another one and we always have to stress that we live on north George," says Mrs. Parchem.

But the village thinks George (Charles) Street should be east-west, not north or south, since it is approximately the same diagonal line as Rand Road and Northwest Highway.

THE ANSWER to Mrs. Parchem's doubts about the name of her street rests with the village board's public health and safety committee which has been assigned the George (Charles) Street problem, along with several other street name duplications. (There are, for example, two Fairview streets 39 blocks apart.)

Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson said the streets should be named so there won't be a misunderstanding in directing police and fire equipment. And of course Mrs. Parchem would like to know where she lives.

Dissident Republicans challenged to primary

pected to run candidates in the April 15 village election.

"We're going to talk issues, not people or personalities in this campaign," said Stern.

"Bryan, John and I feel we have a virtual mandate from the people of Palatine to continue the action programs of the five present Republican trustees and mayor," said Stern.

He explained the 97 delegates at the convention represented nearly 1 per cent of the village's electors and they endorsed him and Coughlin almost unanimously. Coughlin added he felt this was "a significant statistical sample."

"They seemed to say they like what you on the board are doing and what John said he would do," Stern said. He later changed his statement from mandate of the people of Palatine to mandate of Palatine Republicans.

Erosion-control plan OK'd by commission

An ordinance aimed at controlling erosion into sewers and creeks at construction sites has been approved by the Palatine Plan Commission.

The commission's recommendation will be sent to the village board for adoption.

The soil control ordinance, if adopted, will give the village more control over developments from the time ground is first moved. Developers will be required to obtain site-development permits besides building permits.

Because proper water retention ponds often are not provided during construction, topsoil from construction sites washes into sewers or creeks. The ordinance would eliminate this problem, officials said.

For reelection in Rolling Meadows

Meyer heads slate of incumbents

by NANCY COWGER

Mayor Roland J. Meyer of Rolling Meadows will head a slate of incumbents in another run for the city council, Meyer said Wednesday.

The slate includes aldermen Thomas W. Scanlan, 1st; William D. Ahrens, 2nd; John T. Rock, 3rd; James A. Huddleston, 4th; Kenneth Retzke, 5th, and City Treasurer Robert B. Cole. Rock is seeking his second term. Meyer and the others are seeking third terms.

Retzke, until this weekend was considering a battle with Meyer for the mayoral seat, but formally joined Huddleston, in joining Meyer's side Tuesday. Huddleston's switch from plans to run as an independent or member of an opposition slate to join Meyer became known Monday.

Meyer announced his slate Wednesday afternoon, saying "I am going to run and I am going to run with all five incumbent aldermen and the city treasurer. We will be looking for a city clerk in the next week or so before we begin to do any filing."

The first day to file petitions is Jan. 6. CITY CLERK Elleen Kornatz will not run again, because she plans to take a full-time job after Jan. 1.

It appears the incumbents may face no opposition.

Ald. Fredrick E. Jacobson, 5th, has been trying, thus far unsuccessfully, to put together a slate to follow him in contesting the mayoral seat. One potential aldermanic candidate in the 4th Ward said he is willing to run with Jacobson, as Jacobson suggested when he first began planning for the election.

But Charles Boyer, 3009 Gull Ct., said Jacobson has not contacted him recently and he does not know whether Jacobson still wants him on the slate. Jacobson has two years remaining in his aldermanic post, and would not risk losing that office by running for mayor.

Boyer ran unsuccessfully for the city council in 1971.

ANOTHER possible contender is William Mleska, who served as mayor in 1966 and 1967. Mleska said Wednesday he will make his decision after Jan. 1. "I've had a lot of people wanting me to" run, said Mleska, who operates a service station in the city.

Richard Nolan, 3801 Jay Ln., also unsuccessful in his bid for an aldermanic seat in 1971, was considering seeking an aldermanic post, but said Wednesday he will not run unless "I come up with some kind of offer from the people in my ward." Nolan lives in the third ward, and would oppose Rock if he ran.

The campaign promises at this point to be a mild one. Meyer said he and his running mates "hope to be able to continue what we've been doing." Most important in the next four years will be holding taxes in check while continuing to "give as much service as we can," he said. The city will experience growth, said Meyer, estimating that 400 acres of unincorporated land remains between Rolling Meadows, Schaumburg and Palatine. "We'll get our part," said Meyer.

As far as increasing services, Meyer said the council will evaluate programs as they come along. "We will have to first of all provide a continuance of the services we are providing, before we add any," he said.

RETZKE SAID he joined the mayor's slate because "there was not enough support to do otherwise." He noted he and Meyer have "had differences of opinion on issues, mainly on the financial approach, and said there is evidence both their views are changing. But of his own outspokenness, he said "that's not going to change."

"Maybe what I was considering as big issues have not been big enough in the minds of the people in the Meadows to generate support," he said.

Boyer accused Retzke of leading him "down the primrose path," by proposing an opposition slate and then abandoning the idea.

Boyer also questioned the city redistricting that took him out of the 3rd Ward, where he would have run against Rock, and put him in the 4th, where he would have to run against Huddleston. Huddleston won on a write-in campaign four years ago, and Boyer suggested the incumbent slate may consider him unbeatable, although he feels he could give Huddleston "a good race."

Jacobson said he has listed Boyer as a potential running mate, but there are not enough other "potentials" to make a race of it. He intends to "Keep my eye out for awhile," and said "up to this point I haven't talked to enough people willing to commit themselves." Boyer he said, would be "an excellent candidate."

But, said Jacobson, "there is a lack of interest at this time in politics as far as the future of the city goes."

Woman agent shoots suspect

by TOM VON MALDER

A young woman drug agent who had been thrown through a glass bookcase apparently saved the life of her undercover partner early Wednesday by shooting and seriously wounding the suspected leader of a major Northwest suburban drug ring.

The accused drug dealer, Larry Siebert, 42, and two others had panicked and attacked the two agents during a drug sale after a closed-circuit television security system showed a phalanx of undercover police running through the lobby of their Mount Prospect apartment building.

Siebert was admitted to the intensive-care unit at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights after the 1:30 a.m. shooting at 1101 Hunt Club Rd., Mount Prospect. He was in critical condition late Wednesday with a bullet lodged near the base of his spine, police said.

SIEBERT WAS SHOT in the thigh and groin by a Sheriff's policewoman, who is a member of the secret anti-drug Metropolitan Enforcement Group unit. Before the shooting, the woman agent had been thrown through a glass-shelved bookcase and Siebert was standing over the second undercover agent and threatening to shoot him in the head, police said.

Both agents were treated for cuts and then released, police said. The male agent also was thrown against a glass table during a scuffle for a gun, police said.

Siebert was charged with attempted murder and sale of cocaine. His son and the owner of the apartment, Dean Siebert, 20, also was arrested and was charged with attempted murder and possession and sale of cocaine.

Bond was set Wednesday at $75,000 each for the Sieberts. Dean was being held at the Mount Prospect police station. Both will appear Jan. 14 in the Niles branch of Circuit Court.

Police are still searching for Dean's wife, Carol, 20, who escaped from the apartment during the shooting, they said. Police said Wednesday they had been contacted by the woman's attorney but she had not surrendered. Drug charges are pending against her, police said.

THE TWO AGENTS were in the Sieberts' apartment to purchase two ounces of cocaine for almost $2,800, police said. The Wednesday "buy" reportedly was set about a week ago when undercover agents bought almost $700 worth of cocaine from Dean and Carol Siebert, police said.

Police said, Dean Siebert told the agents Wednesday that he had to call his supplier before making the sale. The agents then waited until the elder Siebert arrived. During the time at the apartment, Larry Siebert, however, noticed several other agents entering the building through the closed circuit television system with which the building is equipped as a security device.

"The Sieberts turned on the two agents," said John J. Hinchey, MEG director. "They hurled the female agent through a glass-shelved bookcase and onto the floor and tackled and disarmed the male agent."

"Larry Siebert stood over the male agent and threatened to shoot him in the head. The female agent was lying on the floor bleeding from the cuts she got from the glass and she shot him twice."

ABOUT AN HOUR after the arrests, Larry Siebert's youngest son, 18, entered the apartment building. Police said he was armed with a pellet gun and apparently was "going after" the MEG agents.

The son, whose first name was not released by police because of his age, was held on a curfew violation until he was released to his mother later Wednesday morning. Police said no charges were filed against the youth.

Police said they were able to spot the youth entering the building by watching the same television monitor on which Larry Siebert spotted the other agents earlier.

Police said the Sieberts were a major drug supplier for young adults in both Cook and DuPage counties. Undercover agents had worked on the case for at least six months prior to Wednesday's arrests, police said.

Charge youngsters used as 'pawns'

Parents fight moving Bond pupils to Gregory School

Several parents say they'll fight any efforts to transfer their children from Bond School in River Trails Dist. 26 to Gregory School in Mount Prospect Dist. 57.

Parents interviewed Wednesday say they prefer that the children attend Bond School, and some suggested the youngsters are being used as pawns by Dist. 57 to keep from closing Gregory School.

"I have no desire to transfer into Dist. 57," said Jackie McDermott, a resident of the area bounded by Rand Road on the northeast, Elmhurst Road on the west and Highland Street on the south. "I am an old 57 resident and transferred out of the district."

Parents in the Gregory School vicinity proposed this week that Dist. 57 look into the possibility of annexing the small triangular neighborhood, currently in Dist. 26, to prevent the closing of Gregory School, 400 E. Gregory St. The school may be closed because of declining enrollment and a financial deficit in the district.

THE SMALL neighborhood, primarily apartments and commercial developments, would add about 100 youngsters to Gregory School.

Parents of Bond School students, however, say they're satisfied with the open classroom concept at the school, and say they don't mind the children being bused to Bond, which at 350 Wolf Rd. is farther from home than Gregory.

"I chose Dist. 26 over 57," said Peggy Golden, a resident in the area and Bond School PTA president. "Basically I feel a great deal of satisfaction with Bond School. It's a nice place for children to be in school. I like the idea of busing and am most pleased with the programs."

Others expressed similar satisfaction with Bond's programs. Bond is built to handle a "modified" open classroom program in which students can work on an individual basis and in a traditional classroom setup.

STUDENTS FROM the apartment complex are bused about two miles to school, taking about 25 minutes each day.

Mrs. McDermott said many parents welcome the busing because they don't have to worry about their children walking to school or coming home for lunch.

In many of the homes both parents work and they are pleased with the hot lunch program offered at Bond she said.

Several parents say they don't like the attitude of residents in Dist. 57 toward their apartment complex.

"They refer to us as a lower-class people and all of the sudden they want us 'lower-class' people at their school," said Mary Grace Beck. "I don't like being referred to as a 'project' or a lower-class breed."

"I like Bond School and have no desire to be with the 'nice' people of the 'nice' neighborhood," said Mrs. McDermott referring to her Dist. 57 neighbors. "If they would take the time to cross the boundary they would find we have many fine and educated people over here. We have an integrated neighborhood where there is peace. Our area is a whole lot nicer than the 'good' neighborhood."

OTHERS SAY they're concerned that Dist. 57 was more interested in the tax money than the children.

"They want the tax dollars that the business represents on the triangle. Basically the children are the second thought," said Mrs. McDermott.

"There's very high tax property over here," said Mrs. Golden.

Mr. and Mrs. John Mudloff, 38 Judith Ann Dr., discussed the possibility of transferring to Dist. 57 and decided against the idea. When they moved to the area, they were upset when they discovered their children would not be attending Gregory, which is about four blocks away, but would be bused to Bond.

"After thinking it over, we counted our blessings," said Mudloff. "Gregory being closer is not enough to offset the programs they get at Bond. We could never justify sending them to another school."

PARENTS ALSO said they thought similar problems of declining enrollment and financial deficit could develop in Dist. 26 if the area was transferred to Dist. 57.

Parents said they would fight any petition being passed to annex to Dist. 57.

"I'm prepared to take action if action is taken," Mrs. Golden said.

Club lends hospital beds

The Mount Prospect Nurses Club has a lending closet of hospital supplies available to the public for personal use.

It includes three electric hospital beds plus a variety of other equipment such as canes, wheelchairs, crutches and walkers.

Mrs. Ernest Branch is chairman of the lending closet committee and may be called, 392-3497, for further information.

The Nurses Club assist in the village's monthly blood drawing by taking medical histories of prospective donors. Nurses also helped the Lions Club in a recent glaucoma testing clinic held at Randhurst Shopping Center.

Right turn to Prospect Manor OK

Motorists still will be able to turn right from Rand Road onto Prospect Manor Avenue in the Prospect Meadows subdivision of Mount Prospect.

Village board members decided not to prohibit a right turn onto Prospect Manor Avenue after residents of the area said a ban would create a major inconvenience.

The board, however, did propose asking the state to install "no-left-turn" signs at the intersection of Rand Road and Prospect Manor Avenue.

The action was taken after residents in the area complained that students from Prospect High School were using the street as a short cut to and from the McDonald's restaurant on Rand Road. Residents said litter is thrown out of passing cars onto front lawns.

Board members expressed concern over the safety of the right turn off Rand Road, saying that there is no slowdown lane for cars traveling on the 45-m.p.h. street. Trustee O. T. Gustus said his public works committee will investigate a possible improvement of the intersection.

The public works committee also was charged with studying the proposed improvement of Forest Avenue and Elmhurst Street, which are currently dead-end streets. The safety commission has recommended extending the streets to connect with Kensington Road.

Christmas story hour today at library

A special Christmas story hour today will conclude the fall preschool story hour sessions at the Mount Prospect Public Library, 14 E. Busse Ave.

Children in both sessions will watch Christmas filmstrips and listen to Christmas stories and music. Their mothers, at the same time, will be served refreshments by the fireplace. The children also will receive refreshments after the story hours.

Sign-up for the winter story hour sessions will begin Jan. 20 at the library. Priority will be given to those children who were on the waiting list for the fall session story hours. The new sessions start Feb. 6 and to be eligible some member of the child's family must have a Mount Prospect library card.

Christmas will be 2 days early for needy families

Monday will be Christmas in Elk Grove Township for needy families remembered this holiday season by area residents.

That's the day township workers plan to distribute food baskets and toys donated for welfare families.

"There are probably a lot of people who don't realize that we have many poor families in this area who really need help," said Township Auditor Bernard Lee.

Margaret Blaschke, township welfare director, said she has about 77 families on her list she is hoping to provide with Christmas baskets. They are families currently on the township welfare rolls.

If more than the 77 baskets needed for township families are donated, Mrs. Blaschke said she will distribute them to families who have been on the township welfare rolls in the past or to those receiving state aid.

"There's always a need for as much as we can provide," she said. "Anything people can do I'm sure will be greatly appreciated."

Anyone wanting to share a little Christmas cheer with those less fortunate than themselves may drop off donations by Monday morning at the township hall, 2400 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights.

The township hall will be open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. today, Friday and Monday and from 9 a.m. to noon Saturday.

Children's Center Yule fun

More than 150 children and their parents have been invited to a Christmas party today at the Children's Center, 1020 S. Hunt Club Rd., Mount Prospect.

The party, which will include a visit by Santa Claus, will start at 7:30 p.m.

Children and parents will visit with preschool teachers in each of the six classrooms. Gifts made by the children will be given to parents and the children will perform in a Christmas carol sing-along.

The Children's Center provides day-care services, a nursery school, Montessori class and a certified kindergarten class. For more information on the center call 958-7070.

'Peanuts Christmas Carol'

"Popularity," a traveling theater group, will perform "A Peanuts Christmas Carol" Sunday at the Countryside Court Shopping Center on Elmhurst Road, south of Golf Road, Mount Prospect.

The show will begin at 12:30 and 2:30 p.m. "Peanuts" characters Charlie Brown, Linus, Lucy, Snoopy, Schroeder and Patti will appear.

River Trails schools urge work begin on new Maryville

The River Trails Dist. 26 Board of Education has passed a resolution urging the Illinois Capital Development Board to begin work on the new Maryville School.

The board is asking the state agency "to take action to bid the school and get construction under way," said Supt. John Fridlund. He said Dist. 26 officials are not happy with the ICDB's lack of action on the new school.

"Money was released for construction of the school better than a month ago and there's been no action since that time," he said.

Plans for the new school were approved by the capital development board Oct. 13, freeing $1 million in state funds for construction of the building.

At that time, state officials said the project would probably be put to bid by early November with construction beginning the second week in December. Fridlund said he has "no idea" when construction will begin on the school, which was scheduled for completion in the fall of 1975.

The new building will serve students from Maryville Academy, Des Plaines. Those students now attend River Road School, which must be replaced because it does not meet state safety codes.

Village board wrapup

Initial plans OK'd for project at intersection

The Mount Prospect Village Board has authorized the development of preliminary plans for improvements to the intersection of Mount Prospect, Rand and Central roads.

The board approved a proposal to swing Mount Prospect Road west before it intersects with Central Road and then continue north to intersect with Rand Road.

Traffic problems are expected to be eased by moving the Mount Prospect-Central intersection further away from the Rand-Central intersection.

Preliminary plans are now being drawn by consulting firm M & E/Alstot, March and Guillou, Inc., Des Plaines, to be presented at a public hearing. The hearing is required since the village expects to get both federal and state funding for the project. Trustee George B. Anderson said the village will probably only have to pay about $70,000 or 8.3 percent of the $850,000 project.

Revisions to be studied

The Mount Prospect Planning Commission has been directed to review proposed revisions to the village comprehensive plan.

The village board ordered the review as part of the procedure for the adoption of the revisions. A subcommittee of the planning commission has spent many months preparing the revisions, which should come to the village board early next year.

The proposed comprehensive plan, which will outline zoning for the village, is expected to contain no major changes from present zoning.

Land acquisition backed

The village board has passed an ordinance providing for the acquisition of property in the Elmhurst-Algonquin Industrial Park for use as a water reservoir and water well site.

The property is being given to the village by Lincoln Properties, developers of The Colony, as part of a preannexation agreement.

Dist. 59 wrapup

Jan. 1 deadline for school board aspirants

Jan. 1 is the application deadline for those interested in filling the vacant seat on the seven-member Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 Board of Education.

Board Pres. Gerald Smiley said applications for the seat, vacated by Charles Knaup who resigned Monday, will be accepted up until that time. The board will then conduct candidate interviews, hoping to name a new board member by its meeting on Jan. 20.

Whoever is selected by the board to fill Knaup's seat will serve until April, when an election will be held for the remainder of Knaup's term, which runs through April, 1976.

Smiley said the board would like candidates who are interested in running in April for the balance of Knaup's term.

Roofer won't be paid

The Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 Board of Education unanimously voted against a request from Boleo Roofing Co., Westmont, for payment towards more than $9,000 in roofing work the company did in the district by mistake.

The company recovered a roof section at Byrd School, 265 Wollington Ave., Elk Grove Village, that was not scheduled for repairs.

The district recently completed a $300,000 roofing repair program that included virtually all district buildings.

Equipment request tabled

The board tabled action on a request for more than $24,000 in additional equipment and remodeling at Dempster Junior High School, 420 W. Dempster St., Mount Prospect, and Grove Junior High School, 777 Elk Grove Blvd., Elk Grove Village.

Board Pres. Gerald Smiley asked for a recommendation from the administration on the proposed spending.

Both schools are near completion of a remodeling project, financed by a $1.25-million referendum approved by voters in June 1973.

Inflation and the need to set aside money for unexpected additional costs forced some cutbacks in the project.

If the board approves the request for additional equipment and remodeling, only about $5,000 to $6,000 would be left in the contingency fund to pay unexpected costs, said Arthur Perry, assistant superintendent for administration.

Since final payment for remodeling won't be made until about April, some board members balked at the idea of spending contingency money right now.

About $10,000 of the money is proposed for new lunch tables for 14-year-old Dempster Junior High School. Both schools requested about $6,000 in additional equipment and supplies. Dempster also requested about $1,500 for work to restate music practice rooms and for carpeting.

To represent citizens' views

CAP may become village board advisory group

The Community Action Plan may become a citizens advisory board to provide the Mount Prospect Village Board with residents' views on issues under consideration.

CAP president Richard Bachhuber proposed the shift in function, noting that CAP "has for some time been casting about for a suitable activity." The group has considered disbanding because no new projects have been suggested and attendance at meetings has been poor.

Bachhuber said many school districts are organizing citizens advisory councils to provide "input and reaction to the board of education on the feelings and desires of the taxpayers." He said he became aware of these groups through his activities with the High School Dist. 214 board of education.

NOTING THE success of these groups, Bachhuber suggested that CAP serve a similar function. "This would aid the village government in determining the needs and moods of the electorate in their efforts to provide the very best in local government," he said.

The proposal will be considered at the next executive committee meeting, which Bachhuber said probably will be scheduled for mid-January.

Since its formation about five years ago, CAP has reacted to problems in the community without a direct tie to the village board. The group originally responded to drug-abuse problems and was instrumental in creating the Pump House Hotline and the ICE House counseling center. Both now operate under the village-operated Prospectus program.

The citizens' group was reorganized about two years ago after the village took over the hotline and counseling program. CAP's most recent project has been a community attitude survey now being compiled.

WHEN TALK of disbanding began this fall, the executive committee decided to delay a decision until after the survey was completed.

"We're going to stay as an organization at least until that's done, and then we can try to slip from that to this if everyone thinks it's a good project," Bachhuber said.

Mayor Robert D. Teichert said he would have to know more about the project before commenting. A known skeptic of programs geared to community opinion, Teichert noted that the village already has a large number of advisory boards geared to deal with specific matters.

Teichert noted, however, that he is only one member of the village board and does not speak for the trustees.

Bachhuber said he did not talk to village officials before proposing the citizens advisory panel, but said he did send the village a copy of his proposal.

Each gave blood four times

Village honors 16 half-gallon donors

Sixteen Mount Prospect residents have been honored by the village for donating half a gallon of blood to the community blood drive.

Norma Murauskis, volunteer chairman of the drive, praised the residents for having donated four times to the program. She said the donations are "the most beautiful way you can help another person."

The program provides free blood replacement for all residents and their immediate families once the yearly quota of 1,800 pints is reached. If the quota is not reached, residents can only use as much blood as has been donated to the plan.

Blood drives are regularly scheduled the first Wednesday of every month. This month, however, a special blood drawing is planned to help ease the anticipated blood shortage over the holidays. The drawing will run from 9 a.m. to noon at the Mount Prospect Community Center, 600 S. See-Gwon Ave.

Residents can make appointments by calling 439-8727 or 392-6000.

RESIDENTS HONORED for their half-gallon donations include Violet Rutkowski, Joan J. Patterson, Emily Heck, Charles Guthrie, Charles Bennett, Jeanne Kuklinski, Gerald Kuklinski, Ginny Traiforos, Edward Moisan, Kenneth Scholten, Arthur Vogelgesang, John M. Costello, Dolores Corr, Donald L. Jahnke, Marguerite Harl and Michael J. Ward.

Mayor Robert D. Teichert also praised Mrs. Murauskis for her efforts in running the program. He said that when she first took over the program, he was certain that a volunteer could not operate the program successfully. "She proved me wrong," he said.

Sewage plant, tunnel hearing tonight

Area residents tonight will be able to give their views on a proposed Metropolitan Sanitary District project that includes construction of a sewage treatment plant and connecting deep-tunnel system.

The sanitary district has scheduled a public hearing on the project and its impact on the environment. The hearing is required by the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency, and will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Mount Prospect Community Center, 600 S. See-Gwon Ave.

Des Plaines officials and residents are preparing to object to the project, which would place the treatment plant in their city at the southeast corner of Oakton Street and Elmhurst Road.

Mount Prospect officials will be present to ask questions about the construction of the deep tunnel system which will carry sewage of the treatment plant. Most of the 160-foot deep tunnels will be located under Mount Prospect streets and parkways, and drop shafts to the tunnels will be blasted out of rock.

The suburbs to be served by the project include Mount Prospect, Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove Village, Wheeling and Buffalo Grove.

$6,000 in carpeting, appliances stolen

Burglars carted off $6,000 to $7,000 worth of appliances and carpeting from the Foxboro North apartment complex, on the west side of Wolf Road north of Hintz Road in Wheeling.

A spokesman for the builder said the appliances were stolen from both finished but unoccupied apartments and from storage areas at the site. He said an inventory has not been completed yet but several refrigerators, one or two electric ranges, several garbage disposals, several dishwashers and carpeting were stolen.

The carpeting was removed from the apartments where it had been installed, he said.

Information on the burglary, which occurred sometime early Wednesday, was unavailable from police.

Art prints, tapes offered at library

Twelve new art prints and a series of consumer-information tapes are the newest additions at the Mount Prospect Public Library, 14 E. Busse Ave.

The art prints, which the library is suggesting as a way of brightening the Christmas season, include "The Helmet Crab" by Carolyn Blish, "The Drawbridge" by Vincent Van Gogh, "Gondola in Venice" by Pierre August Renoir, "The Chester County Farm" by Andrew Wyeth and "A Winning Tack" by Montague Dawson.

The consumer tapes are a series of 12 tapes which advise on how to spend one's money wisely. Some of the topics of the cassette tapes are "Budgeting," "Borrowing," "Getting Credit," "Frauds," "Fighting Back," "Comparison Shopping," "Insurance" and "Major Appliances."

Side-by-side cycles OK

Are motorcycles allowed to travel side by side in the same lane of traffic?

Yes, but it may not be the safest thing to do. When two or more persons are riding in the same lane, it is safer never to ride side-by-side but to stagger the riders so that the rider on the left is ahead of the one on the right. Each staggered pair of riders should stay about one car length behind other vehicles for each 10 miles per hour of speed.

Saves partner's life during Mount Prospect drug 'bust'

Woman agent shoots suspect

by TOM VON MALDER

A young woman drug agent who had been thrown through a glass bookcase apparently saved the life of her undercover partner early Wednesday by shooting and seriously wounding the suspected leader of a major Northwest suburban drug ring.

The accused drug dealer, Larry Siebert, 42, and two others had panicked and attacked the two agents during a drug sale after a closed-circuit television security system showed a phalanx of undercover police running through the lobby of their Mount Prospect apartment building.

Siebert was admitted to the intensive-care unit at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights after the 1:30 a.m. shooting at 1101 Hunt Club Rd., Mount Prospect. He was in critical condition late Wednesday with a bullet lodged near the base of his spine, police said.

SIEBERT WAS SHOT in the thigh and groin by a Sheriff's policewoman, who is a member of the secret anti-drug Metropolitan Enforcement Group unit. Before the shooting, the woman agent had been thrown through a glass-shelved bookcase and Siebert was standing over the second undercover agent and threatening to shoot him in the head, police said.

Both agents were treated for cuts and then released, police said. The male agent also was thrown against a glass table during a scuffle for a gun, police said.

Siebert was charged with attempted murder and sale of cocaine. His son and the owner of the apartment, Dean Siebert, 20, also was arrested and was charged with attempted murder and possession and sale of cocaine.

Bond was set Wednesday at $75,000 each for the Sieberts. Dean was being held at the Mount Prospect police station. Both will appear Jan. 14 in the Niles branch of Circuit Court.

Police are still searching for Dean's wife, Carol, 20, who escaped from the apartment during the shooting, they said. Police said Wednesday they had been contacted by the woman's attorney but she had not surrendered. Drug charges are pending against her, police said.

THE TWO AGENTS were in the Sieberts' apartment to purchase two ounces of cocaine for almost $2,800, police said. The Wednesday "buy" reportedly was set about a week ago when undercover agents bought almost $700 worth of cocaine from Dean and Carol Siebert, police said.

Police said, Dean Siebert told the agents Wednesday that he had to call his supplier before making the sale. The agents then waited until the elder Siebert arrived. During the time at the apartment, Larry Siebert, however, noticed several other agents entering the building through the closed circuit television system with which the building is equipped as a security device.

"The Sieberts turned on the two agents," said John J. Hinchey, MEG director. "They hurled the female agent through a glass-shelved bookcase and onto the floor and tackled and disarmed the male agent."

"Larry Siebert stood over the male agent and threatened to shoot him in the head. The female agent was lying on the floor bleeding from the cuts she got from the glass and she shot him twice."

ABOUT AN HOUR after the arrests, Larry Siebert's youngest son, 16, entered the apartment building. Police said he was armed with a pellet gun and apparently was "going after" the MEG agents.

The son, whose first name was not released by police because of his age, was held on a curfew violation until he was released to his mother later Wednesday morning. Police said no charges were filed against the youth.

Police said they were able to spot the youth entering the building by watching the same television monitor on which Larry Siebert spotted the other agents earlier.

Police said the Sieberts were a major drug supplier for young adults in both Cook and DuPage counties. Undercover agents had worked on the case for at least six months prior to Wednesday's arrests, police said.

Planning team to eye subsidized housing proposal

The Arlington Heights Community Development Team tonight is scheduled to review a housing-assistance plan which proposes a goal of 400 low- and moderate-income housing units in the village during the next three years.

The proposal includes 250 units of subsidized housing for the elderly, and 150 units for non-seniors.

The recommended figure parallels a low- and moderate-income housing goal adopted by the village board in 1972. That policy called for the development of 30 units of low-income housing, 150 and 250 units of moderate-income housing and 120 units of elderly housing. All these housing goals have gone unmet so far, although the U. S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development has tentatively approved a 110-unit senior citizens housing development.

The development team also plans tonight to consider a variety of short-term programs aimed at meeting the four community needs it identified earlier this month.

BOTH THE HOUSING assistance plan and the short-term programs have to be agreed on in advance of a public hearing scheduled for Jan. 9.

All of the work is part of the village's application for federal funds available under the 1974 Housing and Community Development Act. Arlington Heights is eligible for $2.5 million over the next five years from the federal program.

The proposed housing assistance plan does not include any specific locations for subsidized housing units. Except for the 110-unit senior citizens development which is proposed for Wing Street just west of Highland Avenue, the team expects the units will be scattered throughout the village.

HUD regulations now prohibit the concentration of low and moderate-income families in housing projects.

At its last meeting Dec. 5, the community development team agreed on four needs to be met under the federal program. They are: conservation and revitalization of the central village, open space for environmental, recreational and flood control uses, land acquisition for low and moderate-income and senior citizens housing, and historical preservation.

A VARIETY OF proposals to meet these community needs will be discussed tonight.

After the public hearing on Jan. 9, the team will have two meetings to complete the grant application for consideration by the village board on Feb. 3.

'Grantsman' for development program hired

The Village of Arlington Heights has hired a "grantsman" whose primary responsibility will be the management of the village's development program under the 1974 Housing and Community Development Act.

James J. Holzwart has been hired as a $14,438 a year administrative assistant to Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson. Holzwart, 26, is a graduate of Loyola University and is working toward a master's degree in public administration at the Illinois Institute of Technology.

He was employed as an administrative intern by the City of Park Ridge from October 1973 to November 1974.

Holzwart's hiring is part of a realignment of the village administration. Community relations officer George Weinand has taken on additional duties as interim health director, replacing Frank Charlton who has been promoted to assistant village manager.

Holzwart will supervise the Arlington Heights five-year community development plan being prepared as part of the village's application for $2.5 million in federal funds, Charlton said.

The money from the U. S. Housing and Community Development Act also can be used as matching funds for other federal grants, and Holzwart could become involved in these applications as well. He also will be administrative secretary to one or more citizen commissions.

If the board votes to participate in the Housing and Community Development program, Arlington Heights' application for funds first will be submitted to the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission for review. Then it will be sent to HUD which has until June 30 to accept or reject the application.

The first year's grant, if the application is approved, will be a relatively modest $125,000.

George? Charles? So who knows...

by KURT BAER

Leonard Parchem and his wife know where they live. It's just some government officials who are confused. And it's easy to understand why.

The quiet residential street in Arlington Heights where the Parchems live has two names — George (Charles) Street.

If it weren't confusing enough, there also are two sets of house numbers along the street. One group of addresses runs east and west along George Street, while another batch is numbered north and south along (Charles) Street.

Daisy Daniels dies in Colorado

Mrs. Daisy Paddock Daniels, a lifelong resident of Arlington Heights, died Wednesday night in Park View Hospital, Pueblo, Colo. She was 86.

Long-time curator of the Arlington Heights Historical Society, Mrs. Daniels was the author of "Prairieville, U.S.A.," a history of the village published in 1971. She had lived at the Villa Pueblo retirement center in Colorado since last May.

Funeral arrangements are being made by Lauterburg and Oehler Funeral Home, Arlington Heights.

WITH ALL THIS in mind, it is understandable that Mrs. Parchem asked the Arlington Heights Village Board, which was annexing her property, "What is the name of our street going to be, Charles or George?"

"I'm at 1657 N. George, but my neighbor directly across the street is at 711 Charles St.," she explained. "People look at me twice when they deliver merchandise to my neighbor across the street."

There is an explanation for all this, of sorts. When the Village of Arlington Heights began annexing property along George (Charles) Street just south of Rand Road, it encountered a problem. The village already had one George Street, a very proper little east-west street running a block south of Sigwalt Street.

"We have had problems with 'George Street' because there is another one and we always have to stress that we live on north George," says Mrs. Parchem.

But the village thinks George (Charles) Street should be east-west, not north or south, since it is approximately the same diagonal line as Rand Road and Northwest Highway.

THE ANSWER to Mrs. Parchem's doubts about the name of her street rests with the village board's public health and safety committee, which has been assigned the George (Charles) Street problem, along with several other street name duplications. (There are, for example, two Fairview streets 39 blocks apart.)

Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson said the streets should be named so there won't be a misunderstanding in directing police and fire equipment. And of course Mrs. Parchem would like to know where she lives.

"I think the committee should act with a certain amount of dispatch," said one trustee. "This woman certainly has a right to know where she lives."

Sewage plant, tunnel hearing tonight

Area residents tonight will be able to give their views on a proposed Metropolitan Sanitary District project that includes construction of a sewage treatment plant and connecting deep-tunnel system.

The sanitary district has scheduled a public hearing on the project and its impact on the environment. The hearing is required by the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency, and will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Mount Prospect Community Center, 800 S. Seo-Gwon Ave.

Des Plaines officials and residents are preparing to object to the project, which would place the treatment plant in their city at the southeast corner of Oakton Street and Elmhurst Road.

Mount Prospect officials will be present to ask questions about the construction of the deep tunnel system which will carry sewage of the treatment plant. Most of the 160-foot deep tunnels will be located under Mount Prospect streets and parkways, and drop shafts to the tunnels will be blasted out of rock.

The suburbs to be served by the project include Mount Prospect, Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove Village, Wheeling and Buffalo Grove.

Despite village review of policy

BOLI to continue sidewalk plan

The Arlington Heights Board of Local Improvements is expected to continue with its northeast side special assessment sidewalk project despite a current village board review of sidewalk policy.

One board member, August Bettman, wants the board to wait for village trustees to complete their review of the 1966 sidewalk policy before proceeding. But BOLI Pres. David Patterson and board member Robert Griffith favor going ahead with the project.

The three are expected to be the only BOLI members present tonight when the board holds a public hearing on the northeast side project. BOLI member Robert Blahop is out of town and a fifth board seat is vacant.

Bettman said he will oppose any further action on the sidewalk project until the village board's public health and safety committee finishes its review of the 1966 sidewalk policy.

"WE HAVE to be more considerate and sensible about this thing," Bettman said Wednesday. "My recommendation is that we don't do anything further (on the Northeast sidewalk project.)"

The village's 1966 sidewalk policy, which BOLI follows in designing its sidewalk installation projects, will be reviewed by the public health and safety committee at a public hearing Jan. 8. The policy calls for sidewalks on property one-half mile from schools and parks and in neighborhoods where half of the homes now have walks.

The review was prompted by a citizen protest of the policy at the village board meeting Dec. 2. Residents of several areas now included in the northeast quadrant sidewalk project protested the policy and its application in view of hard economic times.

Patterson told several persons that he intends to continue with the informal hearing on the northeast quadrant project, despite the pending review of the sidewalk policy. He could not be reached for comment Wednesday.

GRIFFITH AGREED with Patterson's position. "I see no reason not to proceed. I can't imagine why we'd even defer the letter of credit date," he said Wednesday.

Residents in the northeast quadrant project must post a letter of credit with the village engineer covering the cost of sidewalk installation before Jan. 17. If they do not post this letter, they will be included in the entire project's special assessment — the more expensive option. The cost of sidewalks is several hundred dollars for each homeowner.

BOLI meets at 8 p.m. in the Arlington Heights municipal building.

For deal with parks

Metron to examine two village buses

The Village of Arlington Heights will get a formal appraisal of the two buses it bought a year and a half ago for Metron Systems, a now-defunct commuter bus service.

The village had offered to sell the two vehicles to the Arlington Heights Park District for $30,000. But park officials rejected the price as too high. The village paid $57,000 for the two buses.

The village board decided to get an appraisal of the equipment to determine its fair market value. In the meantime the park district will be allowed to use the buses.

Earlier the village board's community services committee recommended that the village advertise for bids on the buses as a way of establishing their value. But a majority of the village board said it would be improper to solicit bids just to get a price to negotiate with the park district.

"We'd be the laughing stock of Cook County," Trustee James T. Ryan said. "It's just not a professional way to do it."

THE TRUSTEES also considered the idea of asking the park district to pay for the appraisal, but eventually rejected the notion.

The village administration offered to give the financially hard-pressed park district 10 years to pay off the $50,000, without interest.

The village board agreed to let the district use the two village-owned buses in order to keep them in good operating condition. Two school buses previously used for park-sponsored trips have broken down.

Arlington Heights originally purchased the 35-passenger GMC buses for Metron's commuter operation, which ran from September 1973 to May 1974. Metron leased the buses from the village.

The company was forced to discontinue service after the village board voted not to subsidize the bus operation. Metron's deficit was about $4,500 a month.

4 youths linked to 100 theft, vandalism cases

A series of 100 theft and vandalism cases in Arlington Heights and Palatine were reportedly cleared with the arrest Wednesday afternoon of four youths while allegedly burglarizing a van in Arlington Heights.

Arlington Heights Patrolman James Schelaky reported sighting the youths entering a van parked at the Chicago and North Western Rty. commuter lot at Arlington Park.

Arrested were Jeffery W. O'Connell, 17, of 108 Clearmont, Elk Grove Village, and Edmund K. Schlewitz, 17, of 289 Benton St., Palatine. Two juvenile companions were turned over to youth officers.

Police said the youths have been linked with 90 thefts of radios and tape players from cars and about 50 incidents of vandalism to cars in Arlington Heights since last summer.

Palatine police said the youths were involved with a number of similar incidents in Palatine since summer.

Police said the youths concentrated their activities on commuter parking lots. Some cars reportedly had been battered with bricks and hammers by the suspects, police said.
